RIOTING CONVICTS BURN NEW ILLINOIS PRISON; THREE ARE SHOT AS TROOPS QUELL OUTBREAK

Passage of Financial Bills Shifted to June Session

SENATE BLASTS HOPE OF PASSING W. & A. MEASURE

Upper House Fails by Five Votes To Muster Enough Strength To Override Veto.

INCOME TAX BILL PASSED BY SENATE

BY R. E. POWELL.

Enactment of legislation to relieve financial distress at the state's charitable institutions and in the common schools was shifted Wednesday from the special session which Governor Hardman called January 6 to the regular session which will convene in June with Richard B. Russell, Jr., as governor of Georgia.

Virtually all hope of passing the Battle-Allen bill, the only plan the assembly has been willing to approve for meeting partially the state's $6,200,000 of unpaid obligations, faded when the senate failed by five votes Wednesday to override the governor's veto of the rentals discount measure.

Proponents of the bill, in the final hours of house debate before it was approved by a vote fo 146 to 50, served notice that if Governor Hardman refused to sign the measure it would be passed soon after the new governor, who advocated the plan in his campaign for nomination, is inducted into office. They renewed the notice after the bill failed of final passage Wednesday.

Only One Vote Gained.

Having mustered 29 of the 34 votes that were necessary to override the veto, senate proponents easily defeated a motion to transmit the sustained veto message back to the house and are in a parliamentary position to attempt, once more, to pass the bill over the governor's protest. The vote to override the veto gained only one vote, that of Senator Sibley, over the lineup which voted passage of the bill several days ago.

While the senate was sustaining the governor's veto by a minority vote, the house was in the midst of a protracted filibuster over the bill to tax motor carriers, the measure finally being put on passage after a continuous all-day session of the house. It was ordered sent to the senate at once.

As the senate, in the afternoon, passed, by a vote of 37 to 6, the income tax bill, previously approved in the house, members of both branches began to prepare sine die adjournment resolutions. One, which will be offered by Senator Rawls, calls for adjournment not later than 6 o'clock today. A joint conference committee of both houses, at a meeting Monday, recommended sine die adjournment not later than 6 o'clock Saturday.

Anxious to Get Home.

Opinion differed among members as it was apparent in both branches that to which resolution will prevail, but the legislators, approaching their seventy-third day and with its principal work thwarted by a gubernatorial veto, are anxious to "get it over with" and return to their homes.

None of the measures passed at this session will avail the charitable institutions any relief before the regular session but the administration of the governor-elect will inherit from Governor Hardman a $6,200,000 deficit and notes amounting to $4,000,000

Walker's Removal Asked On Ten Specific Charges

MAYOR WALKER.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—(AP)—Removal of Mayor Walker, of New York, on charges that he had "condoned incompetence" and "encouraged corruption" in ten specific instances was asked of Governor Roosevelt by the city affairs committee in a letter made public by the executive today.

The charges, appearing over the signatures of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, clergyman; and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, chairman and vice chairman of the committee, were vigorous in their denunciation of the mayor's administration of government. They spoke of the mayor's "easy procrastination," "gross betrayal of public duty," his failure to speak "one clear and earnest word of disapproval and denunciation of this orgy of corruption in one department" and alleged he not only declined to help the inquiry into magistrate's courts "but actually sought in every way to obstruct and even block its progress."

"Legally as well as morally," the letter said, "the mayor of New York is culpable for the corruption of his subordinates, the breakdown of his departments of government, the collapse of law and order, and the prevalence of low standards of public life under his administration."

The mayor, the letter charged, had brought the city's administration "into disrepute by daily neglect of the affairs of his office, by careless standards of public life and by complete indifference to the inefficiency and dishonesty of appointed subordinates."

MAYOR WALKER REFUSES TO DISCUSS ACCUSATIONS

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., March 18. (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker stuck to his word today. When he came here last Saturday he assured everyone that one thing he wouldn't talk about was New York city politics. Today he heard about some charges being made against him in New York.

He listened with interest and then, rising to go out for his sun bath, remarked to reporters:

"Boys, I told you when I came here I wasn't going to talk about that and I'm not going to until I get back to New York."

BALCHEN TO LEAD AIR RESCUE PARTY TO ICE CASTAWAYS

Planes To Try and Take Food to Starving Survivors of Ill-Fated Viking.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., March 19.—(Thursday.)—(AP)—Randy Enslow and four companions took off from Roosevelt field at 12:15 a. m. today for Boston in a Fairchild plane on the first leg of a projected rescue flight to Horse Island, N. F., in quest of the missing motion picture adventurer, Varick Frissell, of New York.

At Roosevelt field a few minutes before midnight it was announced that a Fairchild 71 cabin monoplane was scheduled to leave that field before 12:30 a. m. for Boston with mechanics to put in shape a Sikorsky amphibian which will leave Boston at dawn for Horse island.

It is planned to carry a load of food and medical supplies in the big plane. Bernt Balchen, who has had great arctic flying experience, will take with him the veteran birdmen Randy Enslow and Barney Barbin. These two fliers, it was stated tentatively, will take the plane on to Newfoundland in the event that Balchen, said to be going up tonight by train to Boston, misses his connection.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 18.—(AP) An ice barrier 20 to 60 feet high and five miles wide held imprisoned on La Barbe island tonight 121 survivors of the Viking disaster and five families of natives. Rationed on a diminished supply of bread and tea, they faced death by starvation or exposure.

As young Bartlett, the lone amateur radio operator, flashed out the message that the position was getting desperate on La Barbe a fleet of seven rescue steamers, using dynamite in a concerted attack upon the ice, failed utterly to break through. The newest and fastest of them all, the ice-breaker Imogene, was stopped four and a half miles away by the ice floes piled sheet on sheet by the arctic current.

Bartlett and Captain Abram Kean, Jr., are rationing out the meager bread and tea. Meanwhile many of the survivors were suffering greatly from exposure and injuries with no medical assistance or stimulating food at hand.

The few women and children on the island carried all the burden of nursing and feeding the ship-wrecked, while the men were out on the ice floes helping in survivors. Bartlett said tonight that they were utterly exhausted by 72 hours of continuous labor.

Another desperate effort to carry aid to this stricken community will be made tomorrow morning by the combined crews of the sealing ships on the other side of the ice. Their task, however, was deemed almost impossible, for they will have to climb over jagged masses of treacherous ice as high as six-story buildings.

Overcrowding, Convicts' Desire for Public Sympathy Blamed by Warden for Riots

While an Illinois legislative committee Wednesday was investigating a mutiny at the old state penitentiary at Joliet Saturday, rioting and fire broke out in the new prison at Stateville, across the river from Joliet, badly damaging the institution, known as one of the nation's finest. More than 2,000 convicts took part in the rioting, which was quelled only after national guardsmen were called out. Warden Henry C. Hill, head of both institutions, is shown here with members of the investigating committee. The warden is seated second from the left. On his right is Representative M. E. Bray, while on his left are Senator Rogers F. Little, chairman of the committee, and William G. Thorn. Two legislators, Harry McCaskrin and Rodney H. Brandon, are shown in the rear with Colonel Frank D. Whip, state superintendent of corrections.

BY HENRY C. HILL,
Warden of Illinois State Prison, Joliet, Illinois.
(Written Especialy for Associated Press.)

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—(AP)—After riots and conflagrations such as have overtaken the two prisons comprising the Illinois state penitentiary which is under my control, I fully realize that the public should be conversant with the actual facts. There have been lingering in the minds of many people in the country misconceived ideas of the situation at Joliet and Stateville.

These ideas are brought about by fragmentary and erroneous reports about the unpleasant duties necessary to be carried out by the officials of the institution.

These riots are undoubtedly due, first, to the very seriously overcrowded condition of the prisons, which is beyond the help of the prison administration, coupled with the idea of desperate convicts that they are winning the sympathy of the public and weakening the hold of the managing officers on the institutions.

It has been my first desire to give the prisoners in this penitentiary an opportunity to live as humanly and under as decent living conditions as Torches Applied to Dining Hall and Shops Before Machine Guns Subdue Rebellion.

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—(AP)—A plot of 680 convicts in the old Illinois state prison to rise in revolt at breakfast tomorrow was discovered by Warden Henry C. Hill tonight.

Warden Hill ordered extra guards to the structure, across the town from riot-torn Stateville prison, on hearing a new uprising was planned. Saturday 1,100 other convicts at the old prison took part in an abortive riot which brought death to two prisoners.

BY ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

STATESVILLE PRISON, JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—(UP)—Eighteen hundred prisoners screamed a weird litany to the incendiary flames which ruined Illinois' model prison tonight, all but the famous "cheese box" cell houses in which they were locked.

Three prisoners were shot, two critically, in today's frenzied riot, wherein the felons applied torches to half a dozen prison buildings, including the great central dining hall.

Two guards were beaten seriously when caught in the riot's first flare-up.

Damage was estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000. Firemen gave up all hope of saving any of the buildings from the flames.

No prisoners were believed to have escaped. A check was started to see if any had perished in the shambles the themselves, caused.

Six of the ring leaders were tossed into solitary confinement cubicles, suffering from beatings they received at hands of guards. The other prisoners were locked tightly in their cells where they continued to scream, curse and rattle the bars on their doors.

Warden Henry C. Hill, just recovered from an operation, only to be plunged into a series of riots and muti-

NEW OFFER MADE BY VENABLE HEIRS

Key Will Be Satisfied With Amended Proposal, It Is Believed.

Following announcement that Gutzon Borglum, original sculptor on the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, would arrive in Atlanta next week to confer with Mayor James L. Key relative to resumption of work on the famous monument to the Lost Cause, Mrs. Coribel Venable Orme and Mrs. Robert Venable Roper, daughters of the late William H. Venable, owner of Stone mountain, made a supplementary offer to the mayor Wednesday which it is believed will wipe out all obstacles in the way of immediate start of work.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Orme and Mrs. Roper tendered the borough of Atlanta a deed to the tract for 20 years, provided that the carving is completed in that period and stipulating that it would remain the property of the borough in perpetuity so long as it is used as a memorial to the Confederates.

Mr. Key turned down the proposal, declaring that the borough wanted a deed in fee simple. The tender made Wednesday provides that if for any reason the monument were not completed within the 20 years, an extension would be granted "under reasonable conditions."

This later clause, it was believed Wednesday, would satisfy Mr. Key that the heirs of the property intend that Atlanta shall have every reasonable opportunity to complete the work and erect an everlasting monument commemorating the deeds of the Confederate heroes.

Mr. Borglum advised Mr. Key Tuesday that he would be in Atlanta about the middle of next week to confer on the Stone mountain monument, and it is expected that by that time all details incident to formal acceptance of the deed will be cleared away, and that the borough will be in a po-

MOTHER RELATES ATTACK BY POLICE

Beaten, Assaulted Before Arrest, Seabury Inquiry Is Told.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—A middle-aged scrubwoman, mother of two daughters, testified at the Seabury inquiry today that two plain-clothes men beat her, ripped her clothing, attempted to assault her and then arrested her on a trumped-up prostitution charge.

The case was brought to the attention of Samuel Seabury, in charge of the investigation into magistrates' courts and police vice methods, by George W. Burleigh, prominent attorney, who said he had been asked to intervene by the rector of fashionable Trinity church. The scrubwoman, Mrs. Genevieve Potocki, lived in the shadow of Trinity, and social workers from the church frequently assisted her and her family.

The charwoman admitted on the stand that she sold liquor to keep her children, one 16, the other 10, in school. On September 23, she said, Patrolmen William B. Lewis and Edgar P. McFarland, members of the vice squad, called at her apartment, telling her they were from the nearby curb market, that they knew an old friend of hers and that they were "dying for a drink."

They stayed long and drank much, she testified, and finally Lewis demanded $500, backing up the demand with his fists.

Mrs. Potocki testified that while one of the patrolmen was beating her the other attacked Miss Marie Barry, a friend, who had called late in the afternoon.

The two women spent the night in jail. When they were tried later on prostitution charges they were dismissed.

The grand jury today started an investigation of charges that two other vice squad patrolmen, since dismissed

Body of Murdered Woman Discovered

ERIE, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified woman, weighted with a heavy chain and a piece of iron, was taken from Lake Erie late today by coast guardsmen. Police believe the woman, a blonde apparently about 35 years of age, was murdered.

Coroner Dan Hanley said the body had been in the lake for several weeks.

HOOVER AND PARTY OFF ON VACATION TO CARIBBEAN SEA

President Will Sail on Battleship Arizona From Old Point Comfort Early Today.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Before leaving tonight on his trip to the Caribbean, President Hoover made sure that all was ready to carry out the plan for a lot of rest and play and some work.

The special train carrying his party was scheduled to reach Old Point Comfort, Va., early in the morning. Soon after the battleship Arizona has received the guests, it will head for Porto Rico.

The first stopping point will be some distance off Ponce, with the presidential party going ashore in small boats. Automobiles will cover the 80 miles between there and San Juan.

The stay with Governor Theodore Roosevelt will last a bit over two days. The president and he will discuss Porto Rican affairs, with a view toward keeping the administration policy adjusted to the needs of the times.

No Formal Dress.

As on the entire trip, informality will be the practice. A suggestion by M Roosevelt that formal dress might be dispensed with in the interest of comfort in the warm climate was welcomed at the White House.

Secretaries Hurley and Wilbur will b with Mr. Hoover during the San Juan discussions, as well as those with Governor Paul M. Pearson during the day in the Virgin islands.

Matters demanding attention in the insular possessions doubtless will be gone over on both the outgoing and return voyage, but mental exercise

Farmer Asks Hoover To Finance His Crop

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) A Kentucky farmer needing cash to make his next crop would like to borrow $100 from President Hoover.

In a letter to the president he offered a lumber stand of 200 pine and poplar trees "and three times that amount in ash," as security, so he can "make my family something to live on."

Furthermore, he wrote the president that "if you don't believe I have got timber you can send any man you want to to come and count the trees." He added the loan would be a great accommodation to him and "will make you safe."

POWER COMPANY LINEMEN STRIKE

300 Electrical Workers in State Involved; Company's 'Policies' Blamed.

A strike involving approximately 300 electrical workers, employes of the Georgia Power Company in Atlanta and throughout the state, was called late Wednesday night after a dispute regarding the Power Company's alleged policy of dropping union men from its pay roll and importing non-union men had culminated in the company's alleged refusal to treat with the union, known as Electrical Workers No. 84, or to recognize it as an organization.

Negotiations were continued until 11 o'clock Wednesday night in an effort to settle the matter by arbitration, the company refusing to commit itself until that hour, according to labor officials, at which time it gave the union to understand that executives of the company "were without power to change the present policy."

The strike was called with the sanction of the international organization, whose vice president, A. Wilson, of Miami, now in the city, assisted in directing negotiations. The men affected by the strike will be linemen, cable splicers, station workers and other outside workers, it was stated.

In commenting on the situation late Wednesday night T. L. Elder, secretary and business agent of the local union, expressed the hope that the public would not be inconvenienced by the strike. "We feel that

CHILEANS ARREST FORMER ATLANTAN IN $2,000,000 SUIT

Larry Bethune Held Incommunicado Despite Protests Filed by U. S. Ambassador at Santiago

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 18.—(AP) After being refused permission to see Larry K. Bethune, an American citizen being held incommunicado in jail in connection with a $2,160,000 suit, Ambassador William S. Culbertson today cabled to the state department in Washingtotn regarding his next step.

Bethune, a citizen of Atlanta, Ga., is general manager in Chile of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, against which Brusadelli and Manni, automobile distributors, have brought suit for $2,160,000. They claim this amount represents commission due them for distributing 5,500 automobiles. The American firm denies any contract with them.

Despit his protests, the American ambassador was not admitted to see the prisoner. Police and the foreign office, with whom he interceded, replied that Chilean law permits holding of foreigners incommunicado. Mr. Culbertson then reported to Washington while he studied the merits of the case.

Four actions complicate the case, which is said to be the largest civil suit of its kind ever filed here. In addition to the claims of Brusadelli and Manni, the corporation has filed counter charges against the distributors, demanding $240,000, making a total of $2,400,000 involved.

BETHUNE IS FORMER RESIDENT OF ATLANTA

Bethune, who has been connected with the General Motors Acceptance Corporation for some years, is a native of Georgia and for several years prior to 1927 was in the local branch of the corporation. In 1927 he was transferred to the Jacksonville (Fla.) office and a year later was sent to Haiti and Porto Rico. He went to the Chilean branch as general manager in August, 1930.

Lee B. Fraher, G. M. A. C. manager here, said Wednesday night that the Chilean automobile firm undoubtedly was in error in taking action against the acceptance corporation and in jailing Bethune. Distributing and selling of cars in foreign countries is handled exclusively by the General Motors Export Corporation and the acceptance corporation confines its activities to financing, Mr. Fraher stated.

Legislature Inane, Disgusting, Declares Dr. Walker Anthony

MACON, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Dr. Walter Anthony, pastor of Mulberry Methodist church, today said the present legislature was "the most disgusting and inane performance of any state legislature" within his knowledge as a Georgian.

Dr. Anthony speaking on the subject "Social Service" stressed obligations of the state to its "mentally defective, blind, deaf and otherwise handicapped citizens," adding that the "pathos and tragedy of the shameful mess of debt and incompetence in which Georgia wallows today is felt most deeply at that very point."

He declared "factional political loyalties in our legislature and state government had paralyzed true statesmanship, while our school teachers go unpaid, and our insane must be housed in jails."

Rotarians, at whose luncheon Dr. Anthony spoke, heard the minister also tell of the conditions existing in Macon. He said "one regrets to have to confess that Macon has not recently properly underwritten its own institutions of social service. Most or all of them are undernourished."

Ministers To Demand Repeal Of New Arkansas Divorce Law

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 18.—(AP)—A movement to seek repeal of Arkansas new 90-day divorce law was launched today by the Little Rock Ministerial Alliance.

The ministers called a statewide mass meeting here for Sunday, March 29, when steps will be taken to initiate repeal of the act.

Petitions bearing signatures representing eight per cent of the votes cast in the last general election would be necessary to initiate repeal. Should a sufficient number of signatures be obtained before the act becomes effective it could not become a law until after the question is voted at the next general election in November, 1932.

The act, passed by the 1931 general assembly, becomes effective June 12, 90 days after adjournment of the legislature.

The new law, which its sponsors admitted was an attempt to gain some of Nevada's divorce business, reduces the residence requirements from one year to 90 days but does not change cause for divorce.

Victory at St. Mihiel Opens Way for U. S. Efforts Along Meuse

Pershing Describes Lines of Battle and Rapid Shifting of U. S. Troops; Strike for Hindenburg's Position.

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

CHAPTER LXVII.

The system of defensive positions prepared by the Germans along the western front and farther back toward Germany consisted of four distinct lines extending from Metz to the northwest. These lines were widely separated near their greatest dip toward Paris, but converged as they approached that portion of the front protecting the communications which were the objective of the American army in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Rapid concentration of the large force required for the battle was most urgent, and even before the beginning of the St. Mihiel offensive troops of some of the services were en route. At the end of the first day's fighting at St. Mihiel the success of the attack was assured, and as prearranged, I immediately directed the transfer of certain combat troops from that battlefield to the Meuse-Argonne region.

Army reserves, corps reserves and all spare artillery were moving by trucks and otherwise over circuitous routes to the new battlefront, and other combat troops from the St. Mihiel area were now able to use the routes near the tip of the former salient made available by our recent success.

In the area behind our Meuse-Argonne battlefront, restricted as it was by the curve in the German line from Verdun to the south, there were but three standard gauge railroads available for the movement of troops and their supplies. One ran east and west between Ste. Menehould and Verdun, another north from Bar-le-Duc to Clermont-en-Argonne, and the third, northeast from Bar-le-Duc via Commercy and St. Mihiel to Souilly and Verdun.

The roads converged toward the front, leaving only three leading into no man's land, one through Esnes, another through Avocourt and a third through Varennes; one for each corps. None of them, even though in good repair, was more than adequate for the normal supply of the attacking divisions dependent upon it. We realized that any excess of traffic would likely cause serious congestion, so that the greatest preparations were made to rebuild these roads by calling to that front all available engineer personnel and accumulating before hand as much road material as possible.

On September 3 the French second army held the front from Watronville to the Argonne forest with three army corps. In vacating the sector, the French had to move two corps headquarters with corps troops, 11 divisions and several army units, leaving the French XVII corps behind to become a part of our army.

Our concentration required the entrance into the area of three corps headquarters with corps troops, 15 divisions, and several thousand army troops. All movements were made under cover of darkness, by rail, auto bus and marching. Approximately 220,000 men were moved out of the sector and 600,000 into it, making a grand total of 820,000 men handled.

As in the concentration prior to St. Mihiel, the route and length of each day's march for each unit had to be prescribed in order to prevent road congestion and insure the necessary daily delivery of supplies. It was a stupendous task and a delicate one to move such numbers of troops in addition to the large quantities of supplies, ammunition and hospital equipment. That it was carried out in the brief period available without arousing the suspicions of the enemy indicates the smoothness and precision with which it was calculated and accomplished.

Praise From British Correspondent.

The battle at St. Mihiel followed the plan so closely, however, that it was possible to withdraw troops exactly as ordered. It seldom happens in war that plans can be so precisely carried out as in this instance. The details of the movements of troops connected with this concentration were worked out and their execution conducted under the able direction of Colonel George C. Marshall, Jr., of the operations section of the general staff, first army.

A well-known British war correspondent, an ex-officer of the British army, in writing of the concentration for the London Post said:

Few people in England know that this operation (the Argonne-Meuse offensive), was preceded by on of the most interesting and difficult staff operations of the war, the transfer within 14 days of the bulk of the first American army from the Metz front to that of the Meuse-Argonne, and its replacement by the second American army. No less than 10 divisions began the Meuse-Argonne attack September 26, including the fourth, twenty-sixth, twenty-eighth, thirty-third, thirty-seventh, seventy-seventh, seventy-ninth, eightieth and ninety-first, while there stood in reserve, all eventually to be thrown into the fight, the first, second, third, fifth, twenty-ninth, thirty-second, eighty-second and ninety-second divisions. A comparison of these divisional units with those which fought at St. Mihiel shows that 10 divisions were withdrawn from the Metz front and aligned for the new operation. It was a fine piece of staff work, and no other staff could have done it better.

Specific instructions were sent to all troops calling attention to defects noticed during the St. Mihiel battle, such as ineffective liaison between units, passage through woods, regulation of barrages and the use of accompanying guns.

As we have seen, some of our most experienced divisions, like the first, second, twenty-sixth and forty-second, were used at St. Mihiel. This prevented their transfer to the Meuse-Argonne in time to open the fight, and compelled the employment of some divisions which had not entirely completed their period of training.

Four of the nine divisions that were to lead the assault were without their own artillery and had brigades of that arm assigned to them with which they had never previously been in contact.

It was realized that difficulties were likely to develop on the battlefield in handling these organizations in battle for the first time. Therefore, instructions for the opening phases were made to cover as far as possible the details of maneuver ordinarily taught beforehand through combat exercises.

As Verdun was soon to become a part of my command I went to see the town September 21, and make a casual inspection of the citadel. The commanding officer showed me the various chambers, including those occupied by the local civil authorities during the period of the German drive to wrest the stronghold from the French, and finally we reached the Officers' Club.

As we entered my eye fell upon Petain's famous declaration, "On ne passe pas," in bold letters on the wall opposite me. It would be difficult to describe my feelings, and as I stopped in my tracks the party, realizing the reason, with one accord remained silent for some minutes.

Several years later, at the dedication of the Ossuary near Douaumont, it was my privilege to speak, and I addressed myself as follows to the distinguished commander who uttered the above inspiring phrase:

The poignant horror of the tragedy enacted here has been brought home to me anew, and my triumphant sense of victory has been entirely overwhelmed by my sympathy for the men who fell, the victims of the sacrifice. Their patience and courage, their unalterable will to follow to the end the long and dolorous road of martyrdom which they were treading, have been celebrated in words more appropriate than any I could utter. But the grief of the man who commanded them has been too often forgotten by all who have commented on these battles. I have often felt, when you and I were together, that I could read your thoughts and follow your mind as it reviewed the days and weeks of your struggles on this soil, when your country's fate hung in the balance. Only those who know the kindness of your heart can appreciate the weight of sorrow which it carried. The fall of each one of your soldiers was a stab in the heart of his general, and the impassive expression under which you hide your feelings masked constant and unremitting grief.

As an old friend and comrade in arms, I feel my thoughts dwelling on those who did not return, and like you, I think of them with infinite sympathy.

My diary records:

Souilly, Wednesday, September 25, 1918. Assumed command of Meuse-Argonne sector the 22nd. General Gouraud, commanding the French fourth army, called to discuss joint operation.

General Deletoille, director of the Zone des Etapes, reported Monday and was given charge of relations with civil authorities in our area. Have spent the past three days working with staff on final details of preparation.

Today visited headquarters of all front line divisions. Satisfied that they appreciate and understand their missions.

First Army Takes Command.

The first, fifth and third corps headquarters located at Rarecourt, Ville-sur-Cousances and Rampont, respectively, worked in co-operation with the corresponding units of the French second army, which under General Hirschauer's able and friendly direction did everything possible to expedite preparations. General Hirschauer was of the greatest assistance in helping to place installations and in assigning units that were moved into the sector during the two weeks preceding the battle. The command passed to the first army September 22, and at that time the last of the French troops and two Italian divisions serving with them were withdrawn, except for a thin line of detachments in the front trenches which were maintained until the night of the 25th.

On the front of the American army the tactical missions varied for the different sectors. It was not intended to attempt a further advance on the Moselle-Watronville front, but to hold that portion of our line for the time being and utilize all available divisions for the extension of the front west of the Meuse. On that part of our line from Watronville northwest to the Meuse it was planned to keep the enemy busy by demonstrations while the attack between the Meuse and the Argonne was developing.

Of the 18 enemy divisions on our front from the Moselle west, with 12 in reserve, five were in line between the Meuse and the Argonne. Judging from the number in the vicinity of Metz, it seemed probable that the German commander expected a renewal of the offensive in the St. Mihiel sector.

At the beginning of this battle most of the light and heavy guns, including corps and army artillery material and supply trains, as at St. Mihiel, were provided by the French, some by the British, and practically none from home. We had 189 light tanks, all of French manufacture, 25 per cent of which were handled by French personnel, but no heavy tanks could be obtained. In aviation we had 821 planes, more than 600 of which were flown by American aviators.

The order of battle of the first army from the Moselle river to the Meuse river for September 25, from east to west, was as follows: The fourth corps (Dickman) with the French sixty-ninth division and our ninetieth, seventy-eighth, eighty-ninth and forty-second divisions in line and the fifth in reserve; French second colonial corps with the French thirty-ninth and second divisions and our twenty-sixth division in line; French seventeenth corps with the French fifteenth, tenth and eighteenth divisions in line and the French twenty-sixth division in reserve.

In order of battle on the Meuse-Argonne front, from east to west, the third corps (Bullard) was on the right, with the thirty-third division (Bell) nearest the Meuse to cover the river and protect the flank of the army, the eightieth division (Cronkhite) in the center, and the fourth division (Hines) on the left, with the third division (Buck) in reserve.

The fifth corps (Cameron) consisted of the seventy-ninth division (Kuhn) facing Montfaucon and the thirty-seventh (Farnsworth) and the ninety-first (Johnston) in that order, while the thirty-second division (Haan) was in reserve. The first corps (Liggett) was on the left of the army with the thirty-fifth division (Traub) on its right, the twenty-eighth division (Muir) next, astride the Aire river, and the seventy-seventh division (Alexander) facing the Argonne, with the fifth cavalry division, French, and the ninety-second division (colored) (Ballou) in reserve, except one regiment which was attached to the French fourth army. The first division (Summerall), the twenty-ninth (Morton) and the eighty-second (Duncan) formed the army reserve.

Hindenburg Position First Objective.

In accordance with the principal mission, which remained the same throughout this great offensive, the main attack by the first army was to be launched west of the Meuse river, its right to be covered by the river and by the operations of the French seventeenth corps on the east of the river, that corps being a part of our army.

Our left was to be supported by a simultaneous attack by the French fourth army. Our attack, to include the Argonne forest, was to be driven with all possible strength in the general direction of Mezieres.

The first operation of our army was to have for its objective the Hindenburg position on the front Brieulles-sur-Meuse - Romagne-sous - Montfaucon-Grandpre, with a following development in the direction of Buzancy-Mezieres in order to force the enemy beyond the Meuse and outflank his positions on the Vouziers-Rethel line from the east.

In conjunction with our advance, which would outflank the enemy's position south of the Aisne, the French fourth army by attacking successively the positions between the Aisne and the Suippes rivers would be able to occupy the line Vouziers-Rethel. After that it would operate in the direction of the plateau east of the Rethel-Signy-l'Abbaye road.

A liaison detachment under the French fourth army was designated to operate along the western edge of the Argonne forest as a connecting link between the French and American armies.

In detail, it was actually planned by the first army to make:

(a) An advance of 10 miles to force the enemy to evacuate the Argonne forest and insure our junction with the French fourth army at Grandpre.

(b) Then a further advance of about 10 miles to the line Stenay-Le Chesue to outflank enemy's position along the Aisne river in front of the French fourth army and clear the way for our advance on Mezieres or Sedan.

(c) An operation to clear the heights east of the Meuse river, either by an attack in an easterly direction or by an attack northward along the east bank of the Meuse river between between Beaumont and Sivry-sur-Meuse, to clear the crest south of Bois de la Grande Montagne, or by a combination of these two attacks.

The third corps was directed to penetrate the enemy's position, turn Montfaucon, protect the right flank of the attack and organize the line of the Meuse for defense. Its corps and divisional artillery, while supporting the advance, was to assist in neutralizing the enemy's fire from the heights east of the Meuse.

The fifth corps' mission was to reduce the Bois de Montfaucon and the Bois de Cheppy by outflanking them from the east and west, and to cut off the enemy artillery fire on the third and first corps. Its corps and divisional artillery was directed to assist in neutralizing hostile observation from Montfaucon.

The first corps was to reduce the Argonne forest by flanking it from the east, and to assist in suppressing artillery fire from the eastern edge of the forest. Each corps was directed to operate in conjunction with the others in the advance to the army objective: Consenvoye-Brieulles-Romagne-Exermont-Apremont-Binarville.

Our purpose was to effect a tactical surprise if possible, overcome the enemy's first and second positions in the area of Montfaucon and capture the commanding heights (Cote Dame Marie) of his third position before the enemy could bring up strong reinforcements. It was an ambitious plan and one that would require a rapid advance of 10 miles through a densely fortified zone. From an estimate of the enemy's reserves and their location, it was realized that we must capture Montfaucon and seize Cote Dame Marie by the end of the second day.

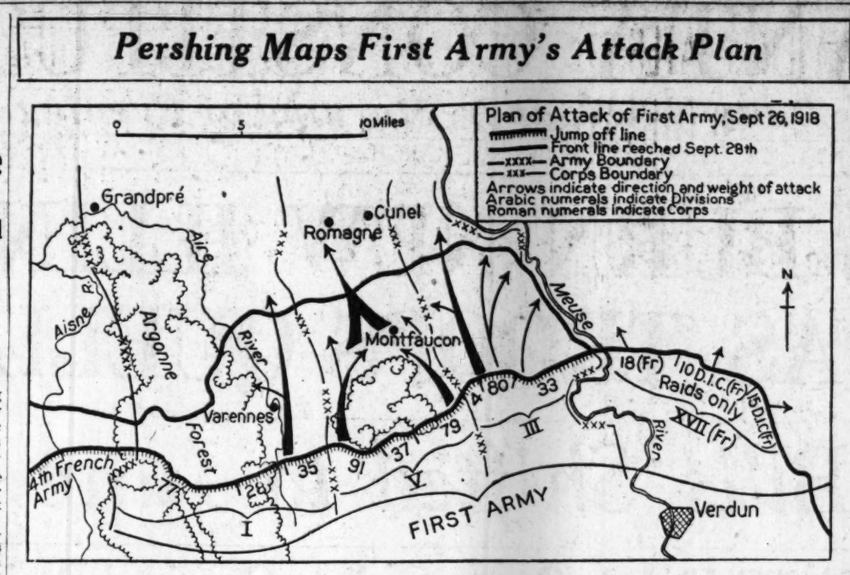

It was thought reasonable to count on the vigor and the aggressive spirit of our troops to make up in a measure for their inexperience, but at the same time the fact was not overlooked that lack of technical skill might considerably reduce the chances of complete success against well organized resistance of experienced defenders.

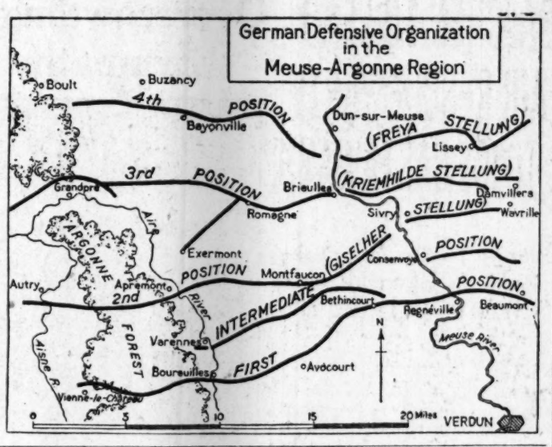

General Petain had already given it as his opinion that we should not be able to get farther than Montfaucon before winter.

Foreseeing clearly the difficulty under the existing conditions of reaching in one stride an objective 10 miles away, alternative plans were made to continue with more deliberation but with every determination to win in the contest which, if not successful in the first rush, was certain to become extremely severe.

The afternoon of the day before the attack I visited the headquarters of corps and divisions to give a word of encouragement here and there to the leaders upon whom our success on the following days would depend. They were all alert and confident, and I returned feeling all would go well.

Tomorrow: Great Meuse-Argonne offensive begins; Americans gain eight miles in four days.

Author of Tax Bills Overcharges Himself

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) Survivors of the annual struggle over income tax blanks may gain a bit of comfort from this.

Representative Hawley, republican, Oregon, just got his return back for correction. He had overcharged himself.

Hawley is chairman of the ways and means committee that writes all tax legislation. It directed the revenue act of 1928 under which collections are made. He also is chairman of the joint committee of the house and senate on internal revenue taxation and co-author of the tariff act of 1930.

EDISON IS GUIDED BY CRYSTAL TOKEN

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—A crystal token guides the automotive destinies of Thomas A. Edison in his winter peregrinations about south Florida.

A year ago, the aged creative genius was attracted by a crystal ornament, carved as a shooting star, that adorned the automobile radiator cap of a friend. He instructed employes to search for a similar ornament for the radiator of his car. The search was unavailing until the inventor discovered that the piece was made in Europe. Then, without delay he sent to Europe for a replica of the decoration.

Nowadays, the crystal trail of a shooting star adorns his automobile as he makes his almost daily rides through the country. Mr. Edison, like his old-time friend, Henry Ford, likes long automobile rides through the country. During his winter sojourn here, he rides almost daily to the north of this city or into the near-barren Tamiami trail, running from Fort Myers across the Florida Everglades.

WATER REBATES TO START TODAY

60 Days Will Be Required To Credit $40,000 Involved.

With all legal obstacles out of the way, water department officials late Wednesday prepared to begin listing credits on the 57,000 water bills on which discounts were added several weeks ago, when the borough council voted to eliminate them to raise $500,000 additional revenue for the year.

The amount involved is about $40,000, W. Zode Smith, general manager, declared Wednesday in stating that it will take about 60 days to make all the rebates.

In announcing that the department will start crediting today or Friday, Mr. Smith asked consumers to pay the full face of their bills until the credit appears.

He especially warned those mailing checks that unless this is done payment cannot be accepted, and the discount which they might get on the current bill might be lost in returning the check and in posting another.

"We want to co-operate in any way possible in seeing that every customer gets all that is coming to him," Smith said, "but until the credit appears it is imperative that the full amount of the bill be sent to the water office. Much clerical work is involved. The department will post the credits as soon as possible, but we cannot post them sooner than they appear on the bills which we mail out."

Decision to award the credits followed a conference between Mr. Smith, City Attorney James L. Mayson and Assistant City Attorney Jack Savage. Rebates are mandatory because of a successful court attack on the borough's attempt to eliminate the discounts.

INTERRACIAL GROUP IN ANNUAL MEETING

The twelfth annual session of the interracial commission, held Wednesday at the Butler Street Y. M. C. A., was marked by lively discussion of the various matters brought before the gathering. Dr. W. C. Jackson, vice president of the North Carolina College for Women, presided at the meeting, and Dr. W. W. Alexander, executive director of the commission: Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, director of women's work, and R. B. Eleazer, educational director, all delivered reports.

Dr. Alexander dealt with the effects of the economic depression on interracial conditions, touching on communistic work and pointing out that little interracial conflict had resulted from these disturbing factors. He expressed himself as "gratified that conditions had changed to such an extent."

Mrs. Ames told of the efforts to organize the women of the south against lynching through the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching. She developed the point that lynching no longer is considered necessary as a protection for women. The discussion of this phase of the situation consumed more than an hour, and at its conclusion Dr. C. B. Wilmer, of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., expressed the opinion that it was "the most intelligent and heroic move ever made on the part of the women of the south."

R. B. Eleazer discussed the methods used in the campaign of education, stressing public schools, colleges, churches, various religious and civic organized societies, and the press, as mediums so used. Max Bond, colored field secretary for Kentucky, remarked that "to hate is to die."

"Negroes must continue to live above hatred, both for their own sakes and for the sakes of all concerned. They need, he added, especially to develop an intelligent technique of racial adjustment."

NEWSPAPER BUILDING IS DAMAGED BY BLAST

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—(AP)—A powerful bomb explosion which wrecked the eighth floor of the Buder building downtown here today, was attributed by police to enemies of Beverly Brown and "Gullie" Owen, operators of a race track information service, who have been bondsmen for members of the Cuckoo gang. No one was injured.

Brown and Owen have offices on the seventh floor. The explosive was placed directly above where the bombers calculated the offices of the two men were located, but a variation in the seventh floor plan prevented damage to the offices of the bondsmen. The damage to the building was estimated at $50,000.

The first two floors of the building are occupied by the St. Louis Times, and reporters of that evening newspaper merely took the elevator for their most important reporting assignment of the day.

WOMEN TO STAGE ENFORCEMENTMEET

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Announcement that a woman's law enforcement convention would be held in Washington from April 10 to 12, to be attended by women leaders from various parts of the country, was made today by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody.

Speaking as chairman of the woman's national committee for law enforcement, Mrs. Peabody, who recently moved to Florida from Massachusetts, because of anti-prohibition sentiment in the latter state, said the coming convention would emphasize points not generally covered by the Wickersham commission or other official groups of men.

Radio Singer's Wife Admits Faking "Birth"

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—(AP)—A radio singer who announced the birth of a daughter New Year's eve, then sang a song in her honor, learned from his wife today she had brought the infant into their home secretly because she so strongly desired him to believe the baby his own. The musician is F. A. Bartlett.

Mrs. Bartlett said she obtained through an advertisement the name of a woman about to become a mother, and arranged to take the child at birth. Then she simulated illness and pretended to become a mother.

Miss Winifred Dickerson, policewoman, said Mrs. Bartlett further disclosed that two older children in the family are not her own.

She said a girl, 7, whom Bartlett believed to be his wife's child by a former marriage and a boy, 5, whom he regarded as his own had been adopted secretly in a Kansas town where Mrs. Bartlett was reared as a minister's daughter.

3,000 Pine Trees Planted on Girls' High Grounds

Imposing exercises marked the first steps Wednesday in furnishing shade trees for the Girls' High school grounds, when school officials, parent-teacher leaders and faculty members and students participated in the ceremony. About 3,000 loblolly pine seedlings were sown, with labor furnished by the borough construction department. Shown in the picture, left to right, are Miss Betty Wiseberg, Miss Katherine Garrison and Miss Louise Donahoo. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools; H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools, and Miss Jessie Muse, principal of Girls' High school, were among the officials who participated in the ceremonies. Fulton county commissioners have aided in grading the grounds. Staff photo by Sanders.

TWO HOLDUP KILLINGS ADMITTED BY YOUTH

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—An undersized 18-year-old boy confessed to police early today that he had slain two men within the past ten days in holdups in Connecticut and New Jersey. He netted $54.

Arrested in a poolroom, Rosario Bruno, of Thompsonville, Conn., was quoted by police as admitting that he and two confederates shot down Nick Legelis March 9 in a lunch wagon at Warehouse Point, Conn. Several days later, he said, he alone killed Harry Weller, an attendant in a Trenton, N. J., gasoline station because he was "desperately in need of money."

"I was afraid to give myself up," Bruno was quoted as saying in his confession. "Whether I go to jail or the chair I am going to tell the truth. I am sorry for what I did."

discrimination shown by the power company against union workers fully justified the action we have taken," he said.

W. E. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of the power company, stated Wednesday night that in the absence from the city of Preston S. Arkwright, president of the company, he preferred to make no comment. Mr. Elder and Mr. Wilson, he said, spoke of discrimination against union workers in an interview held in his office about 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, but in view of the fact that they had no complaints regarding hours or wages he expressed himself as being unable to take action in the case.

The walk-out, scheduled for this morning, may hamper the company's activity somewhat, but will not materially inconvenience the public, he stated.

ARMY PRISONER SHOT BY GUARD

Soldier in Fort McPherson Hospital Wounded in Attempt To Escape.

Willie A. Peek, undergoing sentence at Fort McPherson for desertion, was shot when he tried to escape while working at the fort heating plant Tuesday night, according to army officials. At the army hospital where he was taken, it was reported Wednesday that the wound would not be fatal.

Peek, whose home address was given as R. F. D. No. 3, Asylum road, Columbia, N. C., was a prisoner at the fort undergoing a two and one-half year sentence for desertion from Fort Riley, Kansas.

He was working under guard and, according to the report, was given several warnings when he tried to make a get-away before being fired upon when he refused to halt. Private Carl East, of Company F, Twenty-second infantry, fired the shot, it was said.

SPAIN STILL RESTIVE OVER FATE OF REBELS

Police Patrols Strengthened To Prevent Possible Trouble in Madrid.

MADRID, March 18.—(AP)—Spain was still restive tonight over the fate of the military men convicted yesterday on charges of participation in the December revolution.

Although King Alfonso, by telephone from London this morning, commuted the death sentence of Captain Salvador Sediles, agitation in behalf of clemency for the remaining prisoners had not subsided in Madrid or throughout the country, and police patrols were strengthened throughout the city tonight to prevent possible trouble.

Where the king's commutation was discussed, it was generally looked upon as a generous, tactful and timely measure.

Interest was also centering on the supreme court-martial on Friday at which Alcala Zamora and other civilians accused of playing prominent parts in the revolution will be tried.

No death penalties have been asked by the prosecution in the Zamora trial. If Zamora and the other civilians should be sentenced to prison it has been said that the government will probably grant them amnesty.

Sometimes when I'd go to bed everything in the room seemed to be turning around like a spinning wheel and I was so nervous I'd just roll and toss all night. I'd have to get up several times on account of my kidneys and in the mornings would hardly have the energy to get out of bed.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Shakespeare said, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." But in his far day business practice had not advanced to the point where manufacturers name their product to identify it to the public and by doing so pledge their faith and their reputations to its purity. The name of St.Joseph's Pure Aspirin is not only known to hundreds of thousands of users but it carries with it its manufacturer's absolute guarantee that it is as pure as money can buy.

More than nine million boxes of St.Joseph's Pure Aspirin sold in a single year makes it the largest selling aspirin in the world for 10c. So when you, too, want aspirin, be safe, sensible, and economical. Put down your dime and ask by name for a box of "St.Joseph's Pure Aspirin." The name "St.Joseph's" on a box of St.Joseph's Pure Aspirin is your guarantee of absolute purity and sensible economy.

Noise Injurious, Experts Assert, As Atlantans Split on Definition

BY B. R. CRISLER.

If you live or work under a constant barrage of noise and end by getting a traumatic neurosis don't let it surprise you. Of course there is no telling what form your trauma will take: maybe you will give vent to it by slamming doors, or throwing things, or scowling over your cereal at the breakfast table; that is the beauty about a neurosis: it always leaves plenty of room for originality and individual genius, according to a prominent Atlanta nerve specialist.

In a similar manner, according to Professor J. H. Martin, psychology instructor at Emory University, the psychologist regards every little noise as having a pathological meaning all its own: even while you sleep the noises overheard by your subconscious mind register themselves upon your nerve centers and, though they may not awaken you, exact their toll of energy and make complete rest impossible, Professor Martin says.

And while it is true, he adds, that noises may sometimes act as a stimulent to serve to speed up production among workers, the result, to the workers themselves, may prove to be something in the nature of a hangover, brought on by excessive indulgence in disagreeable sounds.

Noise vs. Music.

But what is a noise, and in what way does it differ from a musical tone? The strictest definition, perhaps, is the one advanced by physics, which, according to Dr. J. H. Purks, of the physics department at Emory University, classifies a sound as "noisy" or "musical" according to the nature of the wave it creates in the air. If the wave vibrates in a regular and periodic manner, leading the ear persuasively to foresee what is coming next, the result is technically, music; if, on the contrary, it shocks you repeatedly with the unexpected, the result is noise.

For the non-technical mind, however, so impersonal a definition of anything so intensely personal as noise will be sadly inadequate. There are people, for instance, who swoon at the sound of a jazz band, and there are other people for whom jazz is nothing but a conglomeration of senseless noises. The personal equation alters everything, but there is one definition on which all seem agreed, viz: that a noise is something one would rather not hear.

The sound of locomotives whistling, blowing off steam, or puffing away at an upgrade is music to the ears of people afflicted with nostalgia, wanderlust, or the plain "itch to travel," but for Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College, it is a chronic headache. The trouble is that Agnes Scott's auditorium is situated near a railroad right-of-way, and because of this "the college never has a program in which the engine drivers don't participate: ringing bells, tooting whistles, and letting off a lot of unnecessary steam," exclaims Dr. McCain.

Howard Abhors Horns.

For William Schley Howard, well-known lawyer, the automobile horn "improperly and indiscriminately used is the most diabolical source of noise in the city." "And fancy horns, horns that run exasperating little scales and trills," adds Dr. W. W. Young, noted Atlanta neuropathist.

The only constructive inference to be drawn from data accumulated so far would appear to be that prominent Atlantans have tastes in noises as arbitrary and personal as their tastes in neckties. To outlaw one man's noise would be to deprive another of his music. It looks pretty hopeless for the anti-noise campaigners, so far as any practical results are concerned.

MASSACHUSETTS FIRE KILLS 3, INJURES 8

LYNN, Mass., March 18.—(AP)—Three persons lost their lives today when fire destroyed the Lenox hotel with an estimated loss of $165,000. Eight persons were injured while a score missed injury or death by narrow margins.

Three bodies recovered were identified as those of Arthur Harvey, hotel clerk; Arthur N. Young, 46, of St. Alabans, Vt., the caretaker of a Nahant estate, and Martin Travers, formerly connected with a shoe company here.

The fire, which started in a miniature golf course on the first floor of the building just before daybreak, raced through the floors so rapidly that firemen found it impossible to search all rooms for trapped persons.

Almost immediately after the fire was discovered, flames jumped through the roof of the building. Some of the guests sought escape via windows and fire escapes.

Scenes of intense excitement were enacted as the guests streamed from their rooms, firemen bent to their urgent task and help rushed in from nearby cities. The injured were taken to the two local hospitals where they were found to be suffering from burns, broken bones and lacerations.

One body was found with its hand clutching a telephone with which the victim probably had attempted to call for help as the flames danced a macabre around him.

Two policemen who arrived early, attempted to gain the upper floors of the building in search of trapped persons. The elevator jammed between floors while the flames racing on in their fiery quest made an oven of their cage. After frantic efforts they managed to get the elevator back to the first floor.

CITRUS INSPECTION PLANNED IN FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The state department of agriculture, through Commissioner Nathan Mayo, has launched a strenuous citrus inspection in Florida for the purpose of stopping the use of arsenic sprays on fruit.

In an appeal to the growers to desist from the use of arsenic spray or fertilizer, or its derivatives on citrus trees, the commissioner called attention to the law of 1927 prohibiting its use, and to the amendment of 1929 to permit the use of this type of spray as a means of eliminating the Mediterranean fruit fly.

"With the virtual ending of fruit fly work and the lifting of quarantines and regulations incident thereto," the commissioner said, "all reason or justification for further use of arsenic spray, was, of course, automatically removed. However, it appears some citrus fruit growers have made use of this spray contrary to law. . . .

"For the purpose of reducing acidity in their fruit, thus enabling it to pass the test required by law so that it might go upon the early markets, the arsenical spray was used. This bad practice (made more difficult of detection by having been authorized as an emergency measure) has resulted in the shipment of fruit, the quality of which has injured Florida's citrus on the general market of the nation."

The commissioner said competent inspectors will be placed in the fruit belt to prevent further unlawful use of the arsenic spray. He called upon the growers for co-operation "in this effort to help establish Florida's citrus upon the only basis that means prosperity to the grower—the basis of quality."

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP) Billy Sunday, Jr., son of the evangelist, and his third wife, have ceased living together, they said today.

It is merely a "trial separation," however, they said, and a divorce is not contemplated. Both said there had been no marital difficulties, that they see each other every day, and are on friendly terms.

Mrs. Nina Sunday was married to Billy, Jr., in Mexico City last year.

Sunday's first wife, Millicent, is dead. He was divorced from the second, Mae, in 1929.

OPEN HEARING TODAY FOR GIRLS' SCHOOL HEAD

Charge Against Woman Superintendent Will Be Aired at Meeting.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 18.—(AP)—The scene shifted today in the investigation of the Alabama State Training School for Girls here, to Montgomery, where Governor B. H. Miller has ordered an open hearing for tomorrow.

Charges against Mrs. Ira F. Champion, superintendent, of cruelty and inhuman treatment of the girl inmates, will be aired before the governor and board of trustees of the institution.

A report of an investigation conducted by a legislative committee, which recommended the immediate removal of Mrs. Champion, will be presented at tomorrows' meeting.

Bottom of Depression Passed, Klein Says in Detroit Address

DETROIT, Mich., March 18.—(AP) Businessmen were described today by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, as free from "economic shell shock" and "panicky psychology," while business climbs upward.

Depression has reached or passed its bottom, Dr. Klein told the Detroit Board of Commerce, although "we may bump along" for a while in returning to higher trade levels.

"We have had enough of arm waving hysteria, whether in a delirium of joy or despair," he added. ". . . Business has, mentally speaking, stepped off the swooping roller coaster and is basing its plans on the solid realities. . . .

"The available statistical record for February shows that business in that month underwent a normal improvement from the low levels of January. This is pretty good evidence that the long decline has at last been halted, and that an appreciable degree of recovery is in sight.

"The probability that the worst of the depression is behind us is not to be understood as foreshadowing a sharp and sustained advance from present levels back to normal. A brisk, spectacular ascending spurt might not be an unmixed good, even in the rather unlikely event that it should come.

"We are in the convalescent stage after a prolonged economic illness, we should be well satisfied, I think, if our improvement is gradual at first lest we suffer another relapse.

"In all conservatism I may say that, unless important breaks should occur in the security or commodity markets, it seems likely that activity in the second quarter of the present year will slightly exceed that of the first quarter, and that business in the fall will be unmistakably on the upgrade."

Klein cited increasing output of automobiles, enlarging orders for cotton goods, and increased industrial employment during February as signs of betterment, while he added that "promising political developments in Europe and the far east have also a significant bearing on the situation."

2, HELD AS BANDITS, FACE MURDER COUNT

Foiling of Pennsylvania Bank Robbery Is Aided by Woman Lookout.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—Two of the four bandits who thwarted their own attempt to hold up the White Haven Savings Bank at White Haven, near here, yesterday, faced a murder charge today in addition to attempted robbery.

A kindly motorist, who had slowed down to give a man and a woman "hitch-hiker" a lift, was shot to death and his brother wounded near Hazleton last night. The couple then walked to the state police substation at Weatherly, surrendered and were alleged to have confessed the shooting and participation in the attempted bank robbery. Their names were withheld.

James Gibbons, 24, of Laurytown, was the man killed. His brother, Thomas, 27, was wounded.

Two lookouts, one of them a woman, thwarted the attempt to rob the bank by opening fire on by-standers who disregarded their warnings to "keep out of sight."

Two young men, who were inside the bank, fled without obtaining any loot when they heard the shots. With the lookouts, they jumped into a waiting motor car and sped away.

JURY WILL PROBE POLICE METHODS

Hudson To Ask Committee To Look Into Charges of Mistreatment.

Grand jury investigation of alleged police third degree methods was promised Wednesday when Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson said he would ask the grand jury Friday to appoint a committee to look into the reported practice of officers in beating and frightening negro prisoners in an effort to obtain confessions.

While he does not believe that such methods are employed by the police, he desires the grand jury to go into the matter, and either break up the practice, if it exists, or else absolve the officers from criticism, Hudson said. His announcement of the proposed investigation followed the charge by a negro defendant in court Tuesday that police sat him in an "electric chair" in an effort to make him confess and the statement of another negro defendant that a co-defendant had been beaten by officers and he was promised the same treatment unless the told the truth.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers and Assistant Chief A. Lamar Poole, in charge of detectives, Wednesday denied knowledge of existence of an "electric chair" at police headquarters where confessions are wrested from suspects.

"I never heard of such a thing in my life in connection with the Atlanta police department," Beavers declared. "It is my idea that no such procedure was ever used in Atlanta."

"There is nothing to the charge," Poole stated. "If such a chair was in use in the Atlanta department, I would know about it. I never heard of such proceedings, and am sure that none of the detectives ever used such methods. I have always frowned on extorted confessions, and still do. If we cannot get information by questioning, I am not willing to go further and permit any prisoner to be mistreated."

Naval Air Pilot Missing Off Coast

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The navy department was advised tonight that no trace had been found of Chief Aviation Pilot Verne Warren Harshman who became lost from his squadron off the Colombian coast yesterday.

The entire fleet joined in the search yesterday, covering an area of about 3,000 square mils where his land fighting plane was last seen. Today the search continued without result from that point, about 100 miles southwest of Cape Corrientes, Colombia, to the South American coast.

The American minister at Panama has been notified and requested to notify Colombian authorities of Harshman's loss.

Rear Admiral Jehu reported that "it is possible but not probable that pilot has landed ashore and may not be heard from for an indefinite time."

Red Cross Relief Fund Passes Goal

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The Red Cross campaign for a $10,000,000 drouth relief fund today reached its goal, with a total of $10,005,000.

President Hoover issued a proclamation asking for $10,000,000 on January 13, and the fund-collecting began immediately.

The funds were being expended in drouth relief as they were collected. At the peak of the demand, February 28, approximately 2,000,000 persons in 850 counties of 22 states were being aided.

When the goal was reached, the emergency had already been met in some southern localities, and the Red Cross was gradually withdrawing from the field.

Banker Is Ordered To Atlanta Prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 18.—(AP)—Robert C. Gordon, Helena banker, pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling bank funds in federal court here today and was sentenced to five years in the Atlanta federal penitentiary on each of four counts and fined $1,000 on each count. The prison sentences are to run concurrently.

The defalcations were from two banks with which Gordon was connected, as vice president of one and teller in another. They extended over a period of about five years and amounted to about $31,000, it was charged.

Gordon was said to have started thefts from the savings department of the First National Bank of Helena, of which he was vice president, about five years ago. This bank was merged with the Interstate National and Gordon was employed as a teller in charge of the savings department.

The thefts were discovered after the Interstate National closed a few months ago.

Gordon was said to have confessed to federal officers and explained the methods he used in covering up the thefts.

NEGRO STRIKERS FIRE ON POLICE AT N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—The most spectacular demonstration of the month-old longshoremen's strike here occurred today when 200 of the negro strikers attempted to march on the docks and resisted police interference with scattered pistol fire.

The shots went wild but several persons were hurt in fistic encounters along the waterfront. More than a hundred negroes in the marching mob were arrested and charged with loitering, disturbing the peace, carrying concealed weapons and violations of the federal injunction protecting the orderly operation of the port.

Several tentative charges of assault and battery and shooting at with intent to kill were also entered on the police blotters as officers pointed out persons who fired on them after the mob had been ordered to disperse.

Later in the day, three white men, giving their names as Frank Hymel, Ham McLithlel and Henry Mayfair, were taken into custody and charged with inciting the negroes to riot.

Police said that more than 200 of the negro strikers organized at a longshoreman's hall after midnight and began a march toward the docks shortly before dawn for the purpose of intimidating workers on the ships in the harbor.

With the approach of the marchers, the regular dock police detail was augmented by a riot squad and officers quickly sent to the scene from precincts all over the city.

Near the waterfront, the officers met the marchers and ordered them to disperse. The negroes answered with catcalls and hisses of protest, but partly scattered. However, snipers at strategic points then opened fire on the police, who rushed the mob and made wholesale arrests. The police did not return the fire.

sition to accept the deed to the tract at the next meeting of council April 6.

Every assurance of the desire of the heirs to co-operate in establishment of the monument is carried in the supplementary tender, which was mailed late Wednesday to Mr. Key, and it was expected that he will formally accept the proposition within the next few days.

Borglum has stated that the monument, the most pretentious and imposing in the world, can be completed within five years, under his direction, and with the deed tangle clarified and settled, way would be cleared for start of work at once.

Text of Offer.

Text of the supplementary offer of Mrs. Orme and Mrs. Roper follows:

"Hon. James L. Key, Mayor,
"Atlanta, Georgia.

"Dear Mr. Key: We, the daughters of the late William H. Venable, and part owners of Stone mountain, recently executed a deed for the purpose of conveying the steep side of Stone mountain and land adjacent thereto to the city of Atlanta, to be used in carving a monument to the memory of the soldiers and sailors of the Confederacy. The only condition in this deed was one intended to confine the use of the property to the purpose above named and to provide that unless the property is used for this purpose within the period of the next 20 years then it should revert to the owners or their heirs. This provision was made so that if, for any reason, the city of Atlanta does not use the property to erect the monument, we or our heirs will be in position to allow some other organization to use the property for that purpose.

"As you know, it has been our desire and purpose for many years to have this part of the mountain used to perpetuate the memory of the gallant sons of the Confederacy, and we believe that it is unnecessary for us to say that this will always be our purpose and desire, and in so far as it lies within our power we shall cooperate toward the consummation of this purpose. While, in the deed, we have named 20 years as the time within which the city is to make use of the property, believing that if it is not used for that purpose within that time it is unlikely that the city ever would use it for that purpose, if for any reason a longer time were needed after the expiration of the 20 years, we assure you that such time would be granted under reasonable conditions.

"Surely the city would not want to keep this property if it is not made use of for the purpose indicated, and we believe that all will agree that 20 years is a reasonable time in view of the statements by Mr. Gutzon Borglum made to us, as well as publicly made, that the monument can easily be completed within five years.

"We hope that the city will see fit to accept the deed which we have tendered and proceed with the preparations for the carving of the monument.

"Respectfully,
(Signed)
"Mrs. Coribel Venable Orme,
(Signed)
"Mrs. Robert Venable Roper."

LITTLE PROGRESS IN BROTHERS TRIAL

Arguments of Opposing Lawyers Delay Selection of Jury.

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—A preview of arguments on the credibility of witnesses was presented today before prospective jurors in the trial of Leo Brothers for the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, newspaper reporter, shot down in a pedestrian tunnel last June 9.

The men who are defending Brothers on the charge of being the reporter's hired assassin repeatedly introduced into their questioning of veniremen mention of the gain which might come to certain witnesses because of their testimony.

Prosecuting attorneys who are attempting to prove it was Brothers who fired the shot into Lingle's back agreed with the defense that the jurors must determine for themselves whom they were to believe on the witness stand.

"But you will remember," added Assistant State's Attorney Wayland Brooks, "that while you are considering motives you must also consider the motive of the defendant, in case he takes the stand. You will remember his interest in the outcome of the case."

Defense Attorney Tyrrell Krum had mentioned the $55,000 reward offered by Chicago newspapers after the Lingle slaying as one of the things that should be included when determining a witness' credibility. There might also be the possibility of the witness wanting to ingratiate himself with "certain persons," Krum added.

Louis Piquett, another defense attorney, sought to test the memory of one of the veniremen by asking him where he was last Christmas. Judge Joseph Sabath ruled with the state that such questions had no place in the examination of jurors.

BEAUTY ORDERED TO STAND TRIAL

Charge Against Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Not To Be First Degree.

NICE, France, March 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger must stand trial for killing her husband, Fred Nirdlinger, Magistrate Vachier said today after questioning the former St. Louis beauty queen, but he indicated the charge would not be murder in the first degree.

Stylishly dressed and tugging at her fur collar in an effort to hide her face from crowds of spectators and photographers Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger drove to the chambers of Magistrate Vachier today in a prison wagon and told her story.

Her attorneys said the story she told, containing the details of how she shot her husband a week ago in their apartment, was the same she related immediately after the shooting. They quoted her as saying to the judge:

"I have led a dog's life but I will always regret I was in a position where I was forced to take human life." She sobbed frequently during the questioning, which lasted two and a half hours, her counsel said, and declared that fright and terror caused her to keep firing at her husband and chasing him around the room after one bullet had taken effect.

Her attorneys announced that they planned to rush the preparation of her court defense so as to secure trial of the case at the May term of court. They said they had abandoned all hope of securing bail for their client.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger left the palace of justice surrounded by eight police who protected her from photographers at whose cameras she had shied when she arrived for the examination.

Solution of Slaying of Madero Claimed by Mexican Newspaper

MEXICO CITY, March 18.—(AP)—Excelsior, in its fifteenth anniversary edition today, published what it claims is a solution and eye-witness account of the mysterious slaying of President Francisco I. Madero, father of the Mexican revolution, 18 years ago.

The official version of the affair, issued by the Provisional President Victoriano Huerta, two hours after Madero died, was that Madero and the vice president, Jose Maria Pino Suarez, were shot and killed when a band of would-be rescuers attacked the guard which was taking them from the national palace to the penitentiary.

Excelsior lays the death of the two men at the feet of Huerta and his officers and charges three men, Francisco Cardenas, and two guerrillas, Pimienta and Figueroas, all now believed dead, as being the actual slayers. Jose Pachi, chief guard of the penitentiary, claimed to have witnessed the shooting and it is his story the paper tells, commenting that it has been withheld until now because its reporter, who knew it, feared he would pay for the revelation with his life.

"SIGHT CONSERVATION" WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

The Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, at its monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon, announced that 60 needy blind cases among colored people of Atlanta had been found by a recent survey, and that a survey among the white people will be completed in the near future.

During the course of the meeting a fund of $100 was set aside to assist in purchasing spectacles. Mrs. Martha A. Bigham, chairman of the sight conservation committee, is to be head of a committee sponsoring "Sight Conservation Week" in Fulton county, to be held April 19-25.

The community shop, where brooms and other handmade articles are fashioned by blind workers, has increased its sales considerably during the past two months, according to Norman Elsas, chairman of the board.

LOUISIANA FACES DEFICIT FOR YEAR

Conflict Between Long, State Official Threatened at Meeting.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 18. (AP)—A deficit of $1,358,913.18 in the 1931 general fund was predicted late today by State Treasurer H. B. Conner at a tense meeting of the state board of liquidation, during which physical conflict between Governor Huey P. Long and Assistant Attorney-General Wood H. Thompson was threatened.

Treasurer Conner submitted to the board a statement listing appropriations out of the general fund for the current year, as compared with estimated receipts, and declaring that a sizeable shortage would be recorded, and asked the board what he, as treasurer, should do about continuing to pay warrants and appropriations.

Warm discussion took place, with Governor Long contending the expected shortage was not alarming, and that the treasurer should continue warrants until present funds run out, at which time, he said, the board of liquidation could borrow the necessary money to tide over the year.

The governor suggested a resolution to this effect and Lieutenant Governor Paul N. Cyr warmly protested, and urged postponement of such action pending an opinion from Attorney-General Percy Saint.

It was then that heated words began to fly.

"I wouldn't be guided by his opinion," Governor Long asserted.

Assistant Attorney-General Wood H. Thompson, representing Attorney-General Saint, leaped to his feet.

"I won't stand for any aspersions on the attorney-general's office while I'm here," he exclaimed angrily, and advanced on the governor.

J. E. McClanahan, superintendent of the state bureau of identification, and several others prevailed upon Thompson to sit down.

Lieutenant Governor Cyr then demanded that the attorney-general's opinion be secured, asserting that the board had the right to it whether or not the governor wanted it.

"You can have it," Governor Long answered.

Later, however, a resolution was dictated by the governor saying that in the past deficits had been predicted but failed to materialize, and that warrants should be paid as far as possible, and providing for a loan if necessary was adopted.

The ritual team from Kappa chapter at Tech is composed of Charlie McKagen, Weyman C. (Dad) Evans, Tom Dix, Rufus Gravitt, C. A. Perry, Ralph Bell, J. D. Smith, J. W. Hemperly. Members from the University of Alabama, University of Florida, University of Georgia, Mercer University and University of South Carolina are expected to attend.

Rain Delayed, Clear Weather To Stay Today

Prospects of rain were put off for another day or so when C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, predicted fair and warmer weather for today.

Temperatures will range from 45 to 68 or 70 degrees today, as compared with the 38-61 degree range of Wednesday, the weather man said. "Today will be another fine one," Mr. von Herrmann said. "The skies will be clear and the temperatures will be just about right."

IMPERSONATION PUTS MARINE ON PROBATION

Sam Wolpert, former marine, Wednesday was placed on probation for two years by Judge E. Marvin Underwood in federal court following Wolpert's plea of guilty to a charge of impersonating an officer of the marine corps.

Wolpert, who recently finished a two-year sentence in California on an automobile larceny charge, said he has reformed. During his visit here, Wolpert posed as a lieutenant of the Parris island supply base and was established at a club on the request of an Atlanta man, who subsequently made good a worthless check alleged to have been cashed by Wolpert.

Anti-Evolution Repeal Efforts Meet Objection

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Objections to repeal of Tennessee's celebrated anti-evolution law were made public in two widely separated cities today as a measure providing repeal of the statute was introduced in the legislature.

The Rev. L. P. Graham, president of the Protestant Pastors' Association of Memphis, said he was opposed to repeal and was interviewing other pastors to determine if they favor an organized fight.

At Montclair, N. J., Vice President Malcolm Lockhart, of William Jennings Bryan University of Dayton, Tenn., issued a statement saying "The majority" of Tennesseans "believe the Bible is the inspired word of God and are opposed to instructing youth otherwise in tax-supported institutions." The anti-evolution statute prohibits the teaching of evolution in institutions supported wholly or in part with state tax money.

Lockhart quoted Thomas Jefferson as having said it is "sinful and indefensible" to use tax money to teach that which the taxpayer "believes false and dangerous."

Bryan University was founded as a memorial to the Commoner, who died at Dayton, Tenn., shortly after successfully prosecuting John Thomas Scopes in the case which provided a test of the anti-evolution statute's constitutionality.

The repeal measure, prepared for introduction yesterday, was not introduced until this morning.

War on Epidemic At Point Barrow Is Given Setback

POINT BARROW, Alaska, March 18.—(AP)—The fight against diphtheria epidemic raging here the last two weeks has suffered a setback with the discovery of two new serious cases, the natives restless under quarantine and food and hospital supplies shrinking fast.

All available hospital space was filled today and Dr. Henry Griest was compelled to return to homes all cases showing the slightest improvement. This situation resulted in the serious relapse of one patient.

The financial depression caused a 50 per cent cut in appropriations to the Presbyterian hospital here, Dr. Griest said, resulting in a shortage of food and supplies.

Captain Pedersen, of Oakland, Cal., commander of an arctic trading vessel and representing the Northern Whaling Trading Company, wired Dr. Griest to draw on company funds up to $1,000.

Restlessness of the natives, who dislike the precautionary actions of the whites and fail to understand the seriousness of the situation, caused the police force to be doubled.

ACCUSED BANKERS RELEASED ON BOND

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—Bonds for their trial on charges of violating the state banking laws were completed today by six Asheville bankers, indicated Monday.

The clerk of court, however, had not received bonds from Luke Lea, Nashville (Tenn.) publisher; his son, Luke Lea, Jr., and E. P. Charlet, of Nashville, indicted with them.

J. B. Cain, clerk, said no order for seizure of the three Tennesseans in lieu of their bonds had been issued.

The Leas, Charlet and W. B. Davis, who was president of the Central Bank & Trust Company when it closed here last fall, are alleged to have conspired to defraud the bank of $880,000.

Zeb V. Nettles, district solicitor, announced a special term of court for the trials, first called for April 20, had been postponed until April 27. He said a conflicting date for Judge M. V. Barnhill, who will preside, caused the postponement.

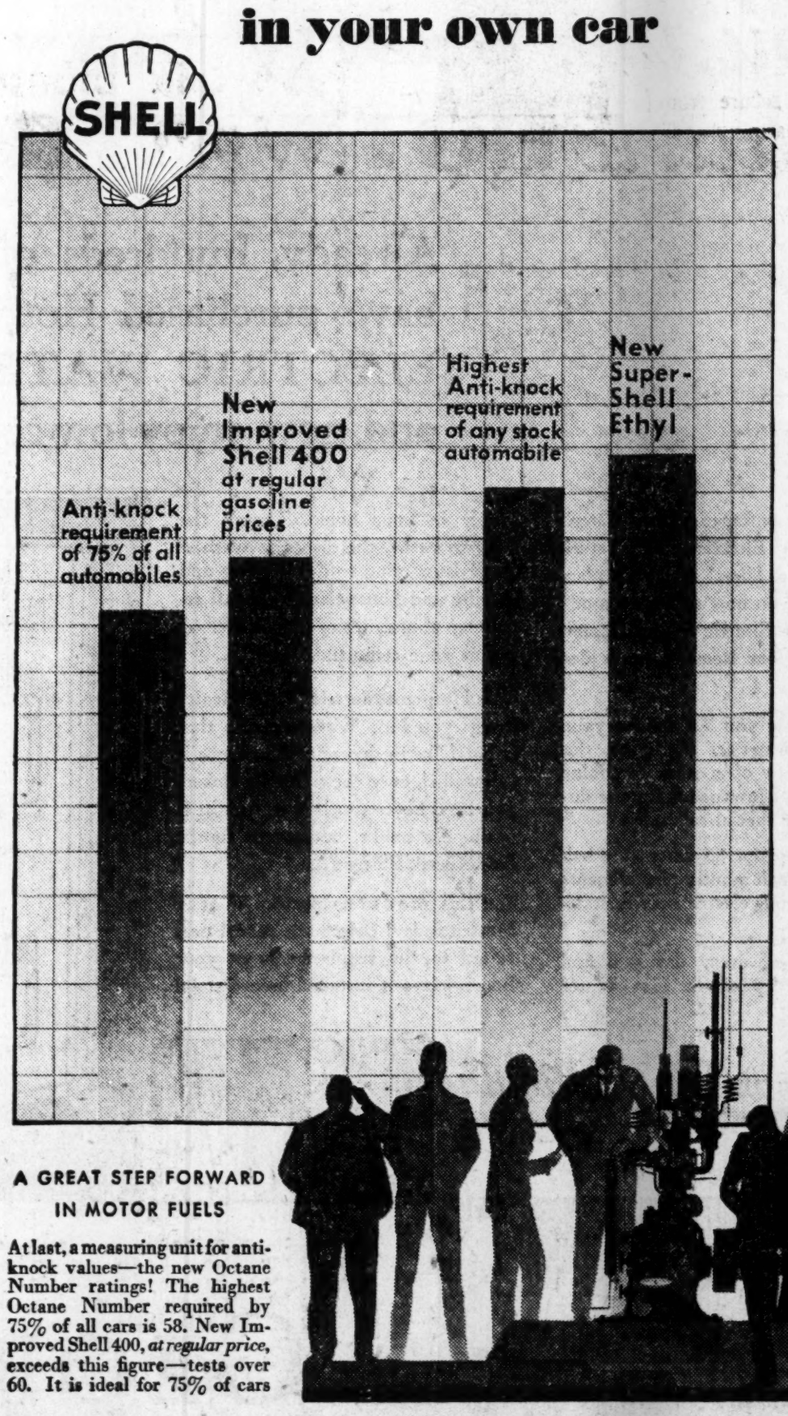

CAMPAIGN OPENED BY METHODIST PAPER

Twenty-five thousand subscribers is the goal set by the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, official church organ of the 253,731 Georgia Methodists, Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, editor of the paper, said Wednesday.

A force consisting of 600 pastors, 21 presiding elders, and the presiding bishop, Dr. John W. Moore, is working toward this end, and reports are coming in to the effect that the campaign is meeting with gratifying results.

Shell offers car owners opportunity to save millions on gasoline yearly

Note this step forward in motor fuels . . . Prove these savings for yourself in your own car

HERE is science's honest answer, made in your interest, on whether to pay premium prices for your gasoline.

Shell believes it is good business to sell you the kind of gasoline your car needs. It does not want to charge you extra per gallon, unless your car requires premium fuel.

And engine tests on gasolines prove the one quality in which leading premium brands differ from good regular-priced gasolines is anti-knock value.

New Improved Shell 400

Today Shell offers a motor fuel—at regular gasoline prices—that is far higher in anti-knock value than common gasolines.

This New Improved Shell 400 is actually greater in anti-knock rating than many premium priced brands!

It is made especially for the great majority of cars. Made to give them perfect driving satisfaction without costing their owners extra per gallon. Full power, quick starting, fast get-away—at least 75% of all car owners will find these today in New Improved Shell 400.

Some cars will need this unique Super-Shell Ethyl

Not every car will run perfectly on New Improved Shell 400—or on many brands of present premium gasoline! Certain cars, less than 25% of all built, need fuel still greater in anti-knock value. For them Shell has created a special, perfected anti-knock gasoline—Super-Shell Ethyl.

As a base, Super-Shell Ethyl has the finest grade of high test, quick starting, powerful gasoline, which is "scrubbed" free of every lazy, slow-vaporizing particle.

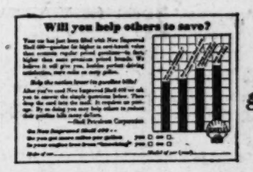

It has extra high volatility. To this is added a heavy content of Ethyl fluid—for highest anti-knock value.

For engines that need it, Super-Shell Ethyl offers more miles per gallon, fewer and lower repair bills. It brings a thrill to driving, a convenience in traffic, on hills, under heavy loads.

A money saving test

Whatever gasoline you now use, give your car a filling of New Improved Shell 400. Then test it. More than 75% will find it gives them even better performance than average premium priced gasolines!

Less than 25% will need Super-Shell Ethyl. Try New Improved Shell 400 first. Discover its money savings—today!

Does it give you more mileage?

While there is evidence that New Improved Shell 400 gives most cars more miles per gallon of gasoline, only the experience of thousands of drivers can verify this added saving. Your Shell station man, at the time he fills your gasoline tank, will hand you a post card like that above. Use New Improved Shell 400 and then tell us, by marking and mailing the post card, whether you secure more miles per gallon from it. Your co-operation in this test may help others to reduce their motoring costs.

NEW IMPROVED SHELL 400

Definitely better than many premium priced fuels, yet sold at regular prices—at least 75% of all cars can use it satisfactorily

A GREAT STEP FORWARD IN MOTOR FUELS

At last, a measuring unit for anti-knock values—the new Octane Number ratings! The highest Octane Number required by 75% of all cars is 58. New Improved Shell 400, at regular price, exceeds this figure—tests over 60. It is ideal for 75% of cars

CORONER UNDECIDED ON DR. JONES' DEATH

Whether an inquest will be held today in the death early Wednesday morning of Dr. William T. Jones, 60, as the result of a pistol wound, had not been determined early Wednesday night by Coroner Paul Donehoo. At Awtry & Lowndes, in charge of funeral arrangements, it was said that details for the final services had not been completed.

Dr. Jones, it was learned, died early Wednesday morning from a bullet wound apparently self-inflicted at his home, 181 Rumson road. He had been in ailing health for some time, and it was believed he had shot himself because of despondency over his physical condition.

A native of Georgia, Dr. Jones came to Atlanta 27 years ago from Augusta, and had practiced medicine in this city since. He was a graduate of Harvard, class of 1900, and later of the University of Georgia Medical school. For a number of years he was active in church work, being a deacon in Ponce de Leon Baptist church. He also was a member of the Fulton County Medical Society, the Masons, Odd Fellows, and the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Misses Elizabeth and Estelle Jones, and a son, William T. Jones, Jr.

FORMER WILSON COOK IS GIVEN 12 MONTHS

J. W. McFarland, who claimed that he was one of the cooks at the peace conference attended by President Woodrow Wilson, Wednesday was given 12 months to exercise his culinary skill in the chef's department at Fulton Tower.

Judge John D. Humphries, in whose court McFarland was convicted Tuesday, chose between a two-to-five-year sentence and the misdemeanor sentence, and allowed McFarland the lighter punishment on a charge of larceny from the person.

GULLATT TO DISCUSS MERGER OF COUNTIES

"Consolidation of Counties in Georgia" will be the subject of C. H. Gullatt when the Atlanta open forum holds a luncheon meeting at 1 o'clock Saturday at the Henry Grady hotel, Miss Clark Warburton, secretary, announced.

The forum group has been holding Sunday afternoon discussions and this will be the first luncheon meeting, it was pointed out. Members and others interested were invited. Reservations were to be made with the secretary at Dearborn 3778 before Friday.

THE CLEAR PATH AHEAD.

The only available plan to meet the distressing deficiencies of funds for the state's humanity institutions, educational system and eleemosynary obligations has been defeated by the refusal of a minority of the state senate to override the governor's veto of the W. & A. rentals discount bill.

That defeasive action will be met with general regret throughout the state. The humane feelings and pride of the people have been strongly enlisted in favor of the measure since it has been under consideration in the extra session of the legislature. Its approval by a great majority of the house and a preponderant majority of the senate had inspired the hope that the adequate measure of relief would be allowed to become law and the pressing demands upon the state treasury promptly met.

But now the die is cast. The measure is dead for the time being and nothing in substitution is in sight. The legislature should spend no more time on what are pending auxiliary measures.

It should adjourn speedily and leave the state's predicament to be dealt with by the next general assembly, which, fortunately, meets 14 weeks hence, in June, and which should take up this measure at once and give it action in preference to all other matters.

The new governor and legislature, practically mandated by the primary of last October, are known to favor the rentals discount plan as against any diversion of highway funds or new tax levies. They can be looked to with much confidence to enact the moribund measure and supply the only relief that commends itself to their judgment.

Meanwhile the institutions that are in want and badly crippled by the fiscal deficits must stagger on as best they can, banking upon the sympathy of the people, emphatically expressed by the majority of both houses of the assembly, and almost the entire press of the state, and the pressure of that sympathy with this delayed relief measure upon the sense of duty of the incoming governor and legislature.

The humiliation of having the state embarrassed as it is and its obligations unmet in face of the fact that its usable assets are more than those of most other states of the Union, must be borne with patience.

But meantime the will of the people should be so vocal and so urgent upon the legislators as to give assurance that Georgia will refinance herself adequately and pay her obligations in the spirit of her ancient honor and justice.

That is the job that will be up to the incoming governor and the new legislature. Governor-elect Russell will no doubt emphasize this in his first message, for in his campaign he stressed the plan of the W. & A. rental discount as being the most feasible way to put the state on a sound financial footing, making that issue, in effect, a referendum on the subject.

That he will push the measure to a definite conclusion, with the full co-operation of the new general assembly, is a certainty.

By this token the good name of the state will be saved.

AN ANTI-HOOVER DRIVE.

It is reported from Washington that the alleged "progressive" bloc in the republican party is to carry on a campaign to round up in the west liberal anti-Hoover delegates to the republican national convention next year.

Whether the campaign is to be of the gumshoe or ballyhoo order is not yet announced, but in either case it promises to be the cause of much trouble to the party. Something of the same sort was staged prior to the campaign of 1896 when the "free silver" western republicans, led by Senator Teller and his colleagues, tried to pack the convention against the gold standard republicans, led by Mark Hanna, championing McKinley.

The result was a dramatic fight in the convention, a bolt by a faction of free silver men, and their eventual support of Bryan. There is scant probability that the Norris-Borah insurgents will be able to do better in their crusade for "anybody to beat Hoover."

The movement against Hoover, if it shall develop any real strength, will make weight for the democratic party, unless it also becomes afflicted with a red eczema of socialistic paternalism. That is a danger which must be guarded against. Let the cat-fights all be in the republican camp.

THE WEST GETS WILDER.

Out in what was once euphemistically called the "wild and woolly west" there has arisen in these later times a species of sophistication that is strange and subversive of the normal action of civilization.

Up to this very year the fruitful field of moral, social and political "uplifters" has been the west. Its statesmen have been for a third of a century the chief protagonists of a new puritanism. They have denounced the moral decadence of the east, the social laxness that they charged was libertinizing men and women and the demoralization of public life by selfish politicians, grafters and contemners of the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act.

There has been a sneaking suspicion among many people that those nonpareil western reformers were "too good to be true."

Now Nevada and Idaho are racing each other to see which can set up the swiftest electric-geared divorce courts where couples can be legally unhitched in jig time. Nevada also comes to the front with a law to license "wide open" gambling of any form with a rake-off from each operated game to be divided between state, counties and cities.

Other states out there are passing acts to set up horse racing and pari mutuel betting machines paying a percentage of all bets to the state treasury.

And thus is the "wild west" backsliding into its old raw and racketeering public habits and the erstwhile "white angel of moral ideas" is being dressed out in scarlet robes of near free love, riding the ponies on a free-for-all track and "gold-digging" the gamblers for the government's upkeep. It is an amazing reversal of form!

Borah has 18 months more in which to insurge until he flops again and votes the regular ticket from snout to tail, as usual.

The Red Cross has obtained its ten millions of voluntary relief funds. That must be very disappointing to Senator Caraway, who said it couldn't be done.

Ramsay MacDonald hasn't any more resignation about him than Andy Mellon.

When the president gets to the Virgin Islands he will find that they want oil for their lamps.

If the progressives ever reach the White House it will be by backing-up on it.

Al Smith thinks the primary is a defective machine. What it produces shows that plainly enough.

Barney Baruch has proposed a highly plausible plan to baruch-ade profiteers in the next war.

Ina Claire says she hasn't time to get a divorce. Lots of her artist friends take "time out" without troubling about a divorce.

Theo Joslin, the president's new secretary, will not permit any jostling by those who wish to "see the president."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Sunday Games.

The bishop of St. Albans boldly says in a diocesan leaflet that he has never been able to agree with those people who feel strongly that it is wrong to play games on Sunday. "I cannot," he says, "for the life of me see there is any difference between going for a walk and playing a game of tennis, cricket, football or golf." Most people, not overcome by prejudice or by rabid sanctimoniousness, will agree with him. Sunday is for many people the only chance they have to "walk abroad and recreate themselves. Are they un-Christian because they keep their bodies, minds and spirits healthy? Are they less religious than some of the critics who crawl to an evening service after a morning in bed and an afternoon dozing in a chair?"

Closed During Holidays.

Black masses are still celebrated in Paris. But the cult of the devil is falling upon evil days. The last pretentious sanctuary, not a hundred yards from Notre Dame, has fallen in disrepair and the officiating clergy, an eccentric old gentleman, has been interned in an insane asylum recently, with the result that services have been discontinued. Two or three visits to this sanctum at the time of its full glory revealed to us the fact that curiosity-seeking American youths, belong to the more or less permanent exile colony, made up the majority of the congregations, with a sprinkling of French ladies of quality. There was even talk for some time of changing the language of the ritual from archaic sixteenth century French to modern New York English. The difficulty seems to have been with the clergy. The gentleman above named refused to speak English, and could not, as a matter of fact. Only one sanctuary devoted to the devil and his worship remains now in working order. It is located on the third floor of an old house on the Boulevard Raspail. Clambering the weary, greasy steps one day last week, this sign greeted our eyes: "Black Masses. Opening in May. Services now held at Biarritz."

The Gods Watched.

Some people had advanced notions on the feminine shape as far back as the days of Louis XIV. This has come to light through the circumstances surrounding the restoration of a Venus statue, said to be the work of Milo, like the one in the Louvre. This statue was first discovered in 1651 in the cellar of the antique theater in Arles. It was frightfully mutilated. The nose was missing, so were both arms and several folds of the drapery. The Arlesians sent it to Paris as a present to Louis XIV. "It will all come right," said the Sun-King, looking over the damaged piece of marble. "We have people here who can fix such things." And he charged a man named Girardon with the restoration. Girardon went to work. But before putting on a new nose and a pair of arms he flattened out the hips several inches and gave the lady in other ways a totally modern silhouette appearance. Girardon differed with the king on the feminine shape. Louis liked them rather plump. The statue was that of a modern woman. The work of Milo was destroyed forever, however, the gods were vigilant. They just discovered a plaster mould that had fitted round the statue once in Arles prior to its mutilation. With the aid of this cast the work of Milo can be reconstructed completely. This will be done, too, if somebody will put up the money.

Negro Butler Stirred By Potlikker de Luxe

(From Richmond Times-Dispatch.)

The cornpone and potlikker controversy reminds Paul V. Bunn of a story which he says he must tell now or never:

"A visiting Englishman was dining with Colonel Starrett down in Richmond, and they had boiled ham for dinner. The Englishman raved about it and said it was the best he had ever tasted; and asked the colonel to tell him just how it was cooked. Then he stated that they prepared it very differently in England. All this time the coal black butler was serving them and listening eagerly. The colonel asked the Englishman to describe their method. 'Well,' he said, 'we boil the ham for hawf an hour and then pour into the liquor hawf a pint of Jamaica rum; then boil it another hawf hour, and pour in a full pint of cognac brandy; and then, just before we remove it for serving, we pour in a quart of champagne.' The butler's eyes were bulging. After the Englishman had gone, the colonel said to the butler, 'Sam, how would you like a couple of slices of that ham that Englishman was telling me about?' 'Well, sah, kunnel, I doesn't seem to keer so much fo' dat ham; but, kunnel, I sho' would like to take one evenin' off and projec' roun' wid dat potlikker.'"

The Average Reader.

Sir: Perhaps George H. Reed, building No. 15, Navy Yard, N. Y., who appealed in The Conning Tower, for "something that would interest the AVERAGE reader," would care to hear about a conversation which took place at a lunch table in my favorite caffeteria today. It may not only interest the average reader, but it may also explain how the employed sometimes become the unemployed.

The speaker belonged to the plump, cheerful, bright-eyed, inefficient type of wage-slave. Her companion was a replica of herself and they both wore several wedding and engagement rings and a good deal of glass jewelry.

"Listen," she said, "Mr. Clinton is a perfect sketch. This morning, when that gentleman from the Bethlehem Steel Company comes in, he tells me to find those papers for him to see, you know the papers we couldn't find the last time he was in. Well, I looked all through the files and everything and they never turned up at all, and I says to Mr. Clinton isn't it funny, we know they're here but we don't know where they are."

"And he says 'Some people are married but they don't know it. Send in Mr. Bain,' he says. So in comes George Bain and didn't he hunt high and low, but never hide nor hair of those papers does he find. Finally George says, 'Well, Mr. Clinton,' he says, 'she's looked every place and can't find them and I've looked every place and can't find them so I guess she and I are in the same boat.' 'Yes,' says Mr. Clinton, 'and I wish to God it would sink'!"

And the two women laughed merrily.

Also, some of us are growing weary of the "I'd die for dear old Electoral."

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 18.—(NANA)—The close of the polo season and the departure of visiting teams will break up some of the prettiest sporting pictures which we have enjoyed hereabouts for some time.

Jean Harlowe, most blonde and most dramatically stunning of all the Hollywood blondes—and this is an order, believe me—was Laddie Sanford's choice of the local beauties. So she figured at the meets and on those occasions when the Sanford entertained, which were frequent.

Jean Harlowe is famous for her platinum-blonde hair, her exquisite figure and her sex appeal. And if there are any eligibles hereabouts, she has first claim as the leading type in what gentlemen prefer.

Doctors think Jack Pickford will survive the motor accident which threatened for a time to be fatal. Driving swiftly from Palm Springs, his chauffeur hit a rain culvert and the car was totally demolished.

Mary Pickford's heart is bound up in this brother who has been one of the delights and cares of her life. Her sense of companionship with him is tremendous—but her sense of responsibility for him through the frequent scrapes which have checkered his career, has been tremendous also.

All the fans are not on paper. Some of them appear "in person" and results are often comic.

Yesterday a snappy roadster drew up before the main entrance of First National Studio. Out stepped a youth very well done in the latest sports apparel. While his companions giggled nervously, he approached the information desk and demanded an audience with Dorothy Mackaill.

Refused, he expostulated:

"Why I'm from Honolulu—I knew her there—on the beach at Honolulu—she invited me, I tell you, she invited me."

This began at luncheon time. By 5 with the aid of frequent trips to the roadster and a little light work with a vacuum bottle, he was going something like this; to everyone passing into the studio:

"Shay, didn't I see you in Dorothy Mackaill's picture? Yesh—I shaw you, I know I shaw you! Shay, tell old Dot I'm out here, will ya? A fella from Honolulu—she'll know all right all right. Ev'body in Honolulu knows lil old me—"

As the gateman was putting the padlock on the studio doors, the fan was still demanding an audience with Dorothy Mackaill. This time with much dignity. His compatriots in the roadster had driven off and left him to his search.

"I'll have you know I'm from Honolulu—Hono—with a broad o—none of you pronounce it correctly. And I have an appointment with Mish Dorothy Mackaill—"

They led him away shortly after, quite tractable by this time and a bit more inclined to argue over the pronunciation of the land of his birth than to insist on his appointment.

It was a neat afternoon's work.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE POULTICE ARGUMENT COMES TO DRAW.

For years I have been worrying about it, and now it has come. All these happy years I have been slinging arbitrary assertions around so recklessly, nay, fearlessly, there has been somewhere in the background of my consciousness a constant thought about the sad future when, inevitably, I should begin contradicting myself and inviting all the bright young readers to take mean whacks at me. I suppose this is just one of the sorrows of senility.

D. T. hops up today to relieve himself of the following maddening remarks:

"Your article on poultices astonished me. Surely you don't actually believe that a flaxseed meal poultice or any other kind has a "drawing" effect. You, yourself, have frequently stated in other articles that the skin is an effective barrier to anything that attempts to pass through it, unless there is a break in it. If this is so, how can pus or poisonous matter be drawn out throught the skin?

"Inconsistent, too, is your remark that in using plain poultices on boils there is always the risk of transferring pus germs to a fresh point and culturing a fresh boil. If pus germs after being exuded from a boil can enter the skin at a fresh point to make more trouble, then the skin must be like a sieve and not at all as protective a covering as you formerly contended."

There is one consolation in my predicament—thanks to somersaults and other foolishness I am still pretty good at squirming out of a tight place. Watch me now.

Our young friend is a keen one, all right, but his attack has several weak spots which we must reluctantly point out, in order to save our face. I have never believed and do not now believe that a flaxseed meal or other poultice has a "drawing" effect. I do believe a large wet dressing (thick loose gauze or cheesecloth) kept constantly moistened with a salt solution stronger than the mild salty strength of the tears or the blood serum, "draws," that is, hygroscopically attracts water from the tissues and so favors "drainage," and that is why such a dressing, or perhaps a constant hot bath of similar saline strength, is good treatment for many surgical infections. I do not know, but I believe that such a hygroscopic dressing or bath may even draw some water from an unbroken skin or through unbroken skin. I believe I am perfectly consistent still. I have never imagined nothing can be excreted through normal skin—sweat and sebum are constantly excreted so. I still maintain that nothing can be absorbed through unbroken skin and I am not worried about that assertion being successfully controverted, even by the doctors or professors who consider themselves scientific authorities.

I do not believe pus germs can be exuded or drawn out through unbroken skin. Nor do I imagine they can be implanted or made to enter the skin at a fresh point, as long as the skin remains unscratched or unbroken.

A whole skin is the very best of protective coverings for the body, and as long as it remains whole no pus germs or other germs can enter the body through it.

Mr. Wilbur and Lawrence Richey, a White House secretary, will be on hand to go to it just as during the celebrated "medicine ball cabinet" sessions of a morning on the White House lawn.

For other recreation, installation of talking moving picture equipment has been rushed aboard the Arizona. Both old and new films will be shown.

Mrs. Hoover With Son.

Mrs. Hoover, meanwhile, will be in Asheville, N. C., with their convalescent son, Herbert Jr. Two White House automobiles will be available for drives in the mountains. She probably will leave Washington tomorrow or Friday.

The Arizona, manned by 1,439 officers and men under Captain Charles S. Freeman, will be on its trial run after a year in being modernized. The presidential quarters will be a four-room suite usually reserved for the divisional commander, a rear admiral.

NORTH FULTON LAUDS COUNTY BOND ISSUE

250 Residents Meet at Hammond School and Indorse County Projects.

About 250 residents of Sandy Springs, Morgan Falls, Liberty Hill and other communities of North Fulton county met at the Hammond school Wednesday night and gave an enthusiastic reception to speakers advocating the proposed half-million-dollar school bond issue and additional school tax of 2 1-2 mills on property; measures for which a referendum is being sought by residents outside the borough of Atlanta. Professor Jere A. Wells, superintendent of county schools, presided.

Facts regarding the proposed measures were laid before the audience by Cam D. Dorsey, and responses were made by the following residents of the communities represented: O. L. Sentell, H. B. Mize, Harry Brown, W. F. Burdett and J. T. Morgan, all of whom went on record as indorsing the measures.

Officials announced that 400 new names were obtained Wednesday for the petition to bring about a referendum on the two measures, raising it to more than half the required number. A series of similar meetings are being held throughout the county, another being scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in the North Avenue school at Hapeville.

CONVICTS BURN ILLINOIS PRISON

nies at the two state penitentiaries here, said there was no possible chance of further outbreaks so long as his charges remained locked in.

"I don't know how long we will have to keep them there," said the tight-lipped and ashen-faced warden. "I don't know when we can feed them, even bread and water.

Burn Mess Hall.

"They burned the mess hall, trampled all their food underfoot, and destroyed the kitchens. They did it themselves. I am sorry for them, but now they will have to wait for food and their usual liberties."

The flaming buildings, housing the mess hall, paint shop, laundry, chair factory, two kitchens, hoe factory and machine shop cast an eerie glow over the whole square prison yard.

Yellow smoke belched over the scene, choking guards and convicts alike. The prison fire department stood by helplessly, waiting for the fire to gut the structures. The three round cell houses looked like gigantic yellow cheeses in the glow of the flames.

National guardsmen were massed in the main courtyard. Underfoot were strewn stores of food, bread, corned beef, prunes and canned goods.

Two-Hour Melee.

Chairs and benches, broken in the wild two-hour melee before the prisoners finally were subdued and driven back to their cells at rifle points, littered the scene.

On the walls paced guardsmen with guns they had fired over the prisoners' heads during the afternoon.

The prison sirens, which had screeched their warning across the countryside, finally were silenced. All was calm except from the crackling flames and the hoarse shouts of the prisoners locked rank upon rank in their fireproof cell houses.

Deputy Warden Frank Kness was the hero of the day. When the riot started, apparently by prearrangement among some 200 men in the machine shop, he walked in calmly, trying to quiet them.

"We want a decent break from the parole board," they shouted. "A new deputy warden, better treatment, more food."

"You're right, boys," said Kness, "but it's silly to start a riot about it. You won't get anywhere."

Although they paid no attention to Kness, they did not harm him. Instead they wrecked all the machinery in the shop, setting up such a din that soon every prisoner in the institution knew of the outbreak, which most of them joined.

Attain Less Success.

Two other guards met with less success in attempts to control their charges. John Bock, in the chair shop, was hurt seriously when enraged felons there smashed a chair on his head and threw him out a door. D. E. Schaeffer, another guard, was stabbed with a dagger, improvised from a tin spoon.

Ray Barney, a convict, was shot through the head. Edward Fennanni fell with a bullet through his chest. Both were expected to die. Mike Ferrari, the third convict, was shot less seriously in the arm. All were from Chicago.

The guards did not dare to open the prison gates for more than half an hour after the riot started, so great was the confusion inside. The Joliet fire department thus was kept waiting outside while the fires raged and the crazed convicts set new blazes.

When the fire department finally did clang into the institution, the various blazes had gained such headway that little hope was held out for saving any of the flaming buildings.

Convicts swarmed about the flaring structures, some cavorting in wild dances, others screaming, many cursing, and all ignoring the stream of rifle bullets which guards sent zooming over their heads.

"Parole board," they screamed above the din, "parole board."

The prisoners previously had condemned the board as being unfair in its treatment of prisoners ready to be released.

Finally a company of national guard infantrymen arrived from Joliet.

Troops Set Rifles.

The soldiers tramped in, rifles at "set" position, and slowly herded the almost insane prisoners toward their cell blocks.

When most of them had been clamped into cells, the fire department was let it. Flames leaped high in the sky. Yellow smoke almost obliterated the whole institution.

A light snow sputtered into steam as it fell into the flaming structures.

Enclosed passageways, connecting the various buildings in the big prison yard, crumbled and collapsed when the fire reached them.

The blaze was so hot that the fire fighters for the most part could not get close enough with their water hoses. Lack of sufficient apparatus and an inadequate number of firemen also made it apparent that the whole prison, with exception of the stone cell blocks, and walls would be destroyed.

Convicts might have aided in the fire fighting, but so demoralized were they that Warden Henry C. Hill ordered that they be kept locked in their cells, whether the outer buildings were gutted or not.

The prisoners screamed and raged in their cells, pounded on the bars and shouted defiance to prison authority. Guards paced the corridors, however, and no further serious outbreaks were possible so long as they remained in their cells.

Check Prison Records.

Other guards checked over the prison records, meanwhile, and planned a search of the building as soon as the fires were extinguished, to ascertain whether any had perished and whether any had escaped.

A cordon of troops and police had been established outside the prison walls, however, and it was believed that no convicts possibly could have scaled their way to freedom, undetected.

No one but guards, troops and firemen were allowed inside the walls after the riot started. Warden Hill hurried from the old Illinois prison, which was torn by a riot Saturday, three miles away to direct the fight.

He personally joined in the struggle to get the rioters back to their cells.

Troops were en route from the National Guard armory at Springfield, Ill., but it was believed that by the time they arrived, the situation would be in hand.

Major A. D. Goodreau was placed in charge of the soldiers already here and those on the way after Warden Hill had requested aid in subduing his charges. Rodney Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare, sent instructions to the prison, demanding strict censorship of prison reports.

Communication Stopped.

He ordered "all communications between the public and inmates of the prison" stopped, refused to allow them visitors or newspapers, and insisted that every prisoner be locked in his cell. Only "trusted convicts" necessary to do routine work, were excepted.

Flames shot some 200 feet over the gray stone walls of the institution. Spectators outside could see nothing but the smoke and occasional tongues of fire high in the sky.

The Stateville penitentiary is built on the "circular plan" wherein four circular cell houses surround a central dining room, also circular. The dining room and the cell houses are connected by covered passageways while the shops and other buildings are set some distance away from the center of the yard.

The round cell houses, among the most modern in the nation, are built of solid stone and practically are fireproof. The other building to which the convicts set torches, were of more flimsy construction.

The mutineers apparently took the arrival of Nathan Leopold, one of the "thrill slayers" of Bobby Franks, with a batch of 20 convicts from the old prison, as a signal to start the riot.

Only yesterday 20 convicts fought among themselves in the prison band room over whether to begin a mutiny. Five were wounded in that affray. Extra guards were called then in the belief "that anything might happen."

Second Riot of Week.

Today's riot followed one of almost equal seriousness Saturday, when two convicts were killed and a third wounded in old penitentiary.

Both institutions had been seething with unrest for weeks, several incipient riots and prison breaks had been nipped. In one of the latter three weeks ago, three prisoners were shot to death in attempting to scale the walls.

Then a week later another prisoner died while in solitary confinement.

Newspapers published editorials about alleged conditions within the prison, the state legislature appointed an investigating committee and according to Warden Hill, the prisoners decided the time was ripe to revolt. The prison chaplain was discharged and accused by the warden with aiding the mutiny spirit.

After Saturday's riot, he placed 1,100 men in the old prison in their cells. They have remained locked in the cubicles on a diet of bread and water since.

A few hours before today's mutiny, Warden Hill announced emphatically that he did not "intend to turn these prisons into country clubs."

He said he would throw all men reported to have signed a petition asking milder treatment into solitary confinement cells "and keep them there indefinitely."

"I intend to run this prison without any help from the prisoners," he said.

circumstances will permit. It is my belief that most prisoners, no matter what their sentences may be, must eventually return to society, and that the nearer you can keep the status of such prisoners abreast that of the outside world the more likely they are to become inoffensive members of society when released. With this in view, I have installed radio equipment accessible to every prisoner, talking picture machines and leisure hours, athletic sports in the yards, as well as uncensored papers, and various other improvements which have met with the thanks and appreciation of at least 80 per cent of the inmate population.

I have, so far as was within my power, provided adequate work, which is necessary to overcome prison unrest. I have also provided these men with the best food that the money allowed for the purpose can obtain, weekly visits are paid by food inspectors of the state who strictly on scientific lines reject or accept the food for the following week. Every effort has been made by myself and officers to give the prisoners of this institution an opportunity to spend their time as decently as is possible in a prison. The population of these two prisons today is 4,702. The institution's adjacency to Chicago makes it a very difficult prison to handle. These riots have been expected by me and the officers of this institution and every reasonable effort taken to prevent them.

Such destruction of lives and property is highly regrettable. At the investigation which will certainly ensue, the properly constituted authorities will definitely fix the reason for such outbreaks in the prison.

May I ask the public in the language in which I have instructed my guards, "not to forget that this is a penitentiary."

The long arm of the law has found it necessary to place these men in such an institution and my duty is plain. It is to keep these men incarcerated behind the walls of this penitentiary and until I leave, I expect to do so.

Judge a Captain by the Way He Treats Privates---Not the Way He Treats Generals

By Robert Quillen

As the final test of character is the possession of authority, so the final test of good breeding and native decency is the opportunity to impose on the humble and the helpless.

The ordinary man thinks himself a good sportsman and a square-shooter. He is decently polite to his associates; he pays his share of the check; he takes no mean advantage.

But how much of this apparent decency is due to the fact that he would be ridiculed or scorned or soundly thrashed if he behaved otherwise?

He doesn't know until he is tested. Before he boasts of his fairness and his breeding, let him test his metal by dealing with the helpless.

Under the most trying circumstances he is blandly courteous to the man who can fire him or whip him; but is he equally courteous, under circumstances as trying, to the man he can fire and the man he can whip?

Courtesy to Jack Dempsey may be prompted by fear; courtesy to servants and children and the helpless is prompted by good breeding alone.

They are rare who can possess authority without abusing it.

They are equally rare who give a square deal to those unable to require it.

Consider, for example, the husbands and wives who have the power to dominate.

One man, bound by love and chivalry, gives his wife the whole of his pay check or authorizes her to draw on his bank account. Because of his great desire to please her, he is in all matter subject to her will.

Does the possession of such power make her doubly considerate? Does she, being restrained and prompted only by her sense of fairness, try the harder to please him, to save his earnings, and to repay his goodness in kind?

She does if quality is bred in her narrow—not otherwise.

What of the husband whose timid wife is afraid to ask for money, much less demand it?

Perhaps you think the wife who must pilfer her husband's pockets for carfare is a fiction of the jokesmiths. If so, you are mistaken.

Countless husbands who call themselves squareshooters think all the money is theirs because they earn it. They forget that their wives working for them at home, are partners who deserve half of the partnership income.

They give their wives nickels and dimes as they would give to a beggar—not because they think such unfairness is right, but solely because they haven't the inborn decency to be square with the helpless. They are brutal and dishonest because nobody has the power to make them be decent.

If you would discover the yellow streak in a man's soul, you needn't ask him to face a lion. Merely observe whether he kicks a friendless, cowering dog.

TUNNEL CAVE-IN BURIES FIVE ALIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(AP) Five workers were buried alive in a Western Pacific railroad tunnel cave-in three-quarters of a mile north of Keddie, Cal., today, and it was feared all had been suffocated.

The body of Arvid Falk was recovered after several hours of digging by a rescue crew. Other men entrapped were: Hokan Anderson, Hugo Johnson, Gus Lund and Aaron Edmondson.

Falk had a wife and a 16-year-old daughter in Portland, Ore. The others were unmarried.

The collapse occured near the end of a tunnel which the railroad is building as a part of the right of way that is to connect the Western Pacific with the Great Northern railroad between Keddie and Klamath Falls, Ore.

Heavy rains were blamed by contractors. The tunnel was inspected last night by officials and a representative of an indemnity company and pronounced safe.

The men were about to go off shift when they decided to go back into the tunnel for another carload of dirt. Ten minutes before the shift was to end there was a roar and the earth tumbled in near the entrance.

SENATE UPHOLDS HARDMAN'S VETO

which were issued in anticipation of 1931 revenue.

Only two members of the present senate, Senators Neill and Williams, of the twenty-seventh, return to the next senate. Sixteen house members, none of whom have indicated their purpose to support administration measures, will be in the new senate and about half of the membership of the present house, most of whom are counted as ardent Russell supporters, will return to the next house. Most of the new members are also classed as friends of the governor-elect and in sympathy with his fiscal and reorganization programs.

Mrs. Cannon Votes.

Having several days ago cast her vote for the bill and against all amendments, by a unanimous consent agreement, and returned to her home on account of illness, Mrs. Charles E. Cannon, the first woman senator in the state, hurried here from her home in Clayton to vote to override the governor's veto.

The accretion of Senator John S. Sibley, who voted against the bill when it came up for final passage in the upper house, plus the vote of President Neill, whose vote was not necessary to give the bill a constitutional majority, accounted for the two vote gain for passing the bill over the veto. It passed the senate 27 to 22.

Members who spoke in favor of overriding included Senators Pitner, Rawls and Vaughn, while Senators Redwine, Wright, Goode and Hyman defended the veto. Senator Redwine made the motion Tuesday to override the veto in order to speed up action, voting against the motion when it was reached.

Bus Legislation.

Bus and truck legislation remained on the calendar in the house, with a second regulatory measure the unfinished business for this morning and the refusal of the senate to concur in amendments to the first regulatory bill up next for consideration.

After the income tax bill, the senate is expected to consider the bill to double the tax, raising it from 10 to 20 per cent, and then receive for action the motor carrier tax bill with its load of amendments.

Senators who voted to override the executive veto were Allen, Alston, Atkinson, Barret, Brewer, Cannon, Cook, Fletcher, Garrison, Harris, Hughes, Lokey, Mashburn, Mathews, Myrick, Peek, Peebles, Pickering, Pitner, Platt, Rawls, Sibley, Smith, Tyson, VanDeviere, Vaughn, Emmett Williams, Zellars and President Neill. Total, 29.

Those who voted to sustain the governor's veto were Senators Adams, Bird, Davis, Dorsey, Ford, Goode, Hyman, Kidd, King, Lane, Lankford, Lawson McElmurray, Mickel, Nichols, Paulk, Redwine, Terrell, Whaley, Felix Williams, Wright. Total, 21

BOND FORFEITED, RYLEE IS SOUGHT

Officers Seek To Rearrest Man Under Numerous Indictments.

Rearrest of C. E. Rylee, alleged forger, whose $10,000 bond was forfeited Wednesday when he failed to appear in court, was ordered several days ago by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, when it was represented to the court that property of the men on Rylee's bond was heavily encumbered, it was learned Wednesday.

An order signed by Judge Humphries directed Rylee's rearrest and confinement in jail until he makes a "good and solvent bond as assessed, signed by bondsmen whose property is unencumbered," it was said. Officers seeking Rylee narrowly missed getting their man several nights ago when he eluded them by quick maneuvers in an automobile and a wild dash through a house, it was said.

The order for Rylee's rearrest was signed by Judge Humphries Monday at the request of the solicitor-general, Judge Humphries holding that the bond was not a satisfactory one as the state would have to pay some $20,000 in loans before it could realize on the bond if forfeited and levied on.

Following Rylee's non-appearance in court Wednesday, Judge Humphries issued a rule nisi and scire facias ordering the bondsmen to show cause why a final judgment should not be taken on the bond on May 4. Rylee was to have faced trial on 58 indictments growing out of an investigation of a syndicate accused of fleecing persons in a number of southern cities with a scheme involving alleged nonexistent publications.

On Rylee's bond are A. H. Harper, J. L. Waldrip and L. W. Rylee, who listed a total property valuation at $48,000, encumbered with loans totaling $20,000.

If Rylee does not surrender or is not caught, the state will proceed to obtain a final judgment on the bond, it was said.

Man Seeks Diploma For Long Dead Father

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 18.—(AP)—Trustees of the University of South Carolina today considered a request that they issue a diploma to a student who would have graduated in the class of 1848.

The prospective graduate, Giles J. Patterson, has been dead 40 years. His son, Giles J. Patterson, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., corresponded with the board of trustees to secure his father's diploma.

The senior Patterson's refusal to deliver the commencement oration required of every senior in an era when oratory was prized caused the trustees to deny him his diploma in 1848.

The trustees will pass upon the request at their April meeting.

INTERIOR OF THE NEW CHAPEL AT ST. JOSEPH'S INFIRMARY, WHICH WILL BE DEDICATED TODAY.

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.

Dedication of the new chapel, built in the right wing of the first floor of St. Joseph's infirmary, and fronting on Courtland street, will take place at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The dedicatory address will be made by Bishop Michael Keyes, of Savannah, and the date, March 19, was selected to commemorate St. Joseph's day, because St. Joseph is the patron saint of the hospital. A choir under the direction of Professor Vincent Hurley, organist of Sacred Heart church, will render the following selections:

"Dear Guardian of Mary;" "The Lord Is Mindful of His Own" (Mendelssohn).
"Ave Maria" (Kahn).
"Jesus My Lord" (Tozer).
"O Salutaris" (Weigand).
"Tantum Ergo" (Verdusien).
"Laudate Dominum" (Gregorian).

Of Gothic architecture, the chapel has a seating capacity for 75. The floors are of green and cream terrazzo marble, the walls are panelled in imitation Travertine marble, and the ceiling is frescoed in an exquisite and colorful design. The marble altar is the one used in the old chapel, which was built on the same site, and was given many years ago in memory of Isabel Francis Horne, who died in her girlhood, and who was a sister of Mrs. Roby Robinson and Mrs. Albert S. Adams.

Two handsome mural paintings adorn the sanctuary, representing Fr. Angelico's "Angels," the work of Althos Menaboni, and donated by J. J. Haverty. The fourteen "Stations of the Cross," hung at stated places on the walls, were presented by Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Rhode Hill. A statue of the "Blessed Mother," was donated by Hughes Spalding, and one of "St. Joseph," was the gift of Clarence Haverty. Tribute will be paid at today's exercises to Richard Alger, the architect, and Barge and Thompson, builders.

In Munich, Germany, world-famous artists, are at work on the magnificent stained glass windows which will beautify the chapel several months hence, given as tributes by Atlantans. One of the windows, "Immaculate Conception," is in membory of Mrs. J. J. Spalding, given by her husband, J. J. Spalding; "Sacred Heart of Jesus," was donated by the Marist Fathers; J. Carroll Payne gave "Christ Healing the Sick," in memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Payne; "Christ Blessing Little Children," given in memory of Charles I. Ryan, was the gift of his sister, Miss Ida Ryan; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thompson gave the "Holy Family," in memory of their mothers; Mrs. James L. Dickey was the donor of "Christ Teaching in the Temple," in memory of her mother, Mrs. Lula Cox McWhorter; the "Rose Window," to be placed directly above the door to the Courtland street entrance, was the gift of the alumnae of St. Joseph's Infirmary; Misses Lucy Mae, Mary Owen and Thelma McCorkle, gave a window on one side of the altar in memory of their mother, and the one on the other side of the altar was presented by the Sisters of Mercy.

FORECLOSURE SOUGHT AGAINST LOCAL PLANT

Appointment of the Trust Company of Georgia as corporate trustee of the Oak Manufacturing Company, Atlanta, with power to foreclose against assets of the company is sought by Alex C. King, a bond-holder, in a petition filed Wednesday in Fulton superior court. King, who owns three $1,000 bonds of a $350,000 issue, claims that the company has defaulted on the bonds by not paying the 1930 ad valorem tax.

King asks that the court require T. W. Fletcher, receiver, to file a report and to state the condition of the company so the court can ascertain if it is proper to continue operation as a going concern.

The plaintiff alleges that Fletcher was appointed receiver at the instance of D. D. Robertson, superintendent of banks of Tennessee, who was acting for the benefit of the Bank of Tennessee, an alleged unsecured creditor. King alleges that it is not equitable for a non-resident with claim unsecured to have the extraordinary relief of a receiver and injunction to hinder citizens of this state in realizing on their secured claims.

The Oak Manufacturing Company is engaged in production of thread, cloth and like merchandise.

WILDER TO SPEAK AT SAINT LUKE'S

The Rev. Alfred J. Wilder, of Washington, D. C., will speak on spiritual significance of cathderal building at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Peachtree and Alexander streets, Sunday morning. At 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Egleston Memorial hall, West Peachtree and North avenue, Mr. Wilder will deliver an illustrated lecture on "A Cathedral in the Making."

Mr. Wilder's lecture presents a series of beautifully colored stereopticon slides illustrating the beauty of the cathedral together with the loveliness of the landscape development of the national capital.

It is hoped that citizens of every state will place stones in the edifice, Mr. Wilder said, as a symbol of their belief in the deep-rooted ideals of the Christian religion in America and of their desire to stimulate those ideals for the good of all people.

Theater "Handy Man" Is Wendel Claimant

BALTIMORE, March 18.—(AP)—August Soop, a handy man at a theater here, and his sister Jennie, laid plans today to try to obtain several millions of the $200,000,000 estate left by Miss Ella Wendel, New York's richest spinster.

The Soops, August said, were distant relatives of Miss Wendel, last of her line. Less than two years ago, he said, he and his sister were guests of the recluse for several days at the Fifth avenue mansion where electricity never supplanted gas.

They retained a lawyer today to add their claim to the number already filed in New York.

STORM CRIPPLES MARYLAND WIRES

BALTIMORE, March 18.—(AP)—Several score men worked today to restore telephone and telegraph communication to the Maryland eastern shore section, where trunk lines were put out of commission by Monday's snowstorm.

Entirely new lines will have to re put up over many sections, it was said, and the loss was said to be the heaviest of the kind in the area since 1915.

The Cambridge Banner issued its daily edition yesterday on a press worked by hand power, power having failed. Associated Press leased wires to this paper and the Salisbury Times remained out of commission today and the papers were served by train and bus from Baltimore, Wilmington and Philadelphia.

LIFE INSURANCE TRUSTS: Business Management perpetuated through impartial Trusteeship

For Example:

John Martin* Knew His Family

John Martin knew what to expect of the family. His wife had been sheltered. Of the boys, John, Jr, had a way of "getting around" his mother in money matters. George, steadier, could safely be given his share outright. The daughter, so like her mother, would need sound business counsel.

Set up to give Mrs. Martin a voice in disposal of principal, to put the doubtful son strictly under the helpful guidance of the Bank, to give the other son his money outright—and to provide both mother and daughter with impartial financial counsel, whenever needed—a C & S Trust handled the situation.

John Martin has been gone ten years. The estate has prospered. The harmony of the family has been preserved. The Trust plan is working exactly as John Martin wished it to work: C & S management has carried it out in spirit as well as in letter.

Not his real name, of course—but an actual case from C & S Trust files*

We are great believers in Insurance. It creates an immediate estate . . . so whatever happens to the provider, his family may be cared for.

But we know that 90% of all death benefits paid in cash vanish within seven years! So it is not surprising to learn that during 1930 over one and a half billion dollars of life insurance was placed in the care of American banks under Life Insurance Trusts—an increase of 30% over the volume of insurance policies so placed during 1929.

The husband and father who establishes a life insurance estate is to be commended. He is to be doubly commended when he safeguards his family by furnishing them the impartial, painstaking management of an experienced Trust organization.

We will be glad to explain, without obligation, how your management can be projected into the future, your estate conserved, and the harmony of your family preserved through a C & S Life Insurance Trust.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

"Really—this is edifying!" said Zahn. "A lecture on ethics from a New York policeman!"

"Yeah—that's right. That gives you a laugh, don't it, doc? I'm a cop all right. Listen, I don't say there ain't cops that'll take graft. But not for helpin' a blackmailer do his stuff, by God—and not for coverin' a murder! It's because I'm a cop that you're headed for the chair this minute. You can sneer all you please—but who's the sucker, doc, you or me?

"You pick a rat like Ross to work for you because you've got somethin' on him—and you ain't got sense enough to see you're given him twice as much on you—nor to know that the first time he's in a hole he'll turn himself inside out. And you use a sap like Benny for a collector—who's so dumb he takes a watch off a guy after croakin' him and keeps it in his own pocket for me to find!"

Now, for the first time, Zahn flinched. Peter saw a look of venomous hate in his eyes—but he saw fear, too. A policeman came in.

"The wagon's downstairs, sarge," he said.

"All right," said Charley. "Take the doc here with you. Take the three of them over to the house—I'm sick of the sight of them. Zach—" He turned to the bar. "Go along, you. You're clean—except as a witness. I'll need you to testify to Benny's being out here the night Thayer was killed. I'll be along pretty quick and attend to the complaints."

"Zahn, quiet, unresisting, let himself be led out to the elevator. Zach, looking bored, followed. Charley sank into a chair, wearily.

"Very nice," said Purdy. "Very nice, indeed. Of course it's pretty much a Chinese puzzle to me, but I haven't been in on it." He smiled. "Benny came through, did he?"

"I'll tell the world!" said Charley. "He's going to burn, and he knows it—and he don't want to go alone. Pete—you better beat it. You don't want to go over to the house—it'll be crawlin' with reporters 10 minutes after the squeals are booked. Your sister down at your place, is she?"

"I suppose so," said Peter. "Look here—do you think I know what it all means? Because I don't!"

"It's as plain as the nose on your face!" said Charley. "I've got a few little things to clean up. One of them is seein' that what Ross tells the D. A. don't drag the madam in—and, by God, Connolly and Barclay owe her somethin' for the deal they tried to hand her! Get hold of Bouton and go on down and tell her it's O. K.—I'll be along if I can, but I've half a night's work ahead of me yet."

"They tried to work the Thayers both ways. Benny was gettin' all he could from the madame to cover up that check business—and at the same time he was workin' Thayer on account of Ross and the madam. Only Thayer was too smart for them. He pretended to be fallin' for it, and he came across—but all the time he was workin' to get back to the doc. He did it, too—that was why he was put out. The doc was smart. He figured out that he was in a jam from what Benny told him. The doc was the one planned the killin'—that was why he had to know where every one was that night.

"Benny gave the check back to Thayer here. Then he trailed him home, went up the fire escape, and got in and shot him. It was Benny who burned those papers—little idea of his own, that was. He had another bright idea, too. Thayer had that safe back of the fireplace open, and Benny wiped the gun clean and stuck it in there. But it was the doc figured out how to use that to frame the madam. That line Benny pulled on you was a stall—they never figured on gettin' any five grand out of you. They wanted you to tell the madam about the gun bein' there—and then they was goin' to tip Connolly off, so he'd give her a chance to get it and pinch her as she did it—when it wouldn't have any prints on it but hers—see?"

"You got to hand it to the doc. He's full of smart ideas. He might have pulled a fast one there but for two things. One was that you and me was workin' together, and the other was that Connolly was ready to pinch Mrs. Thayer without any tip from him. But the thing that beat him was what always beats that particular kind of smart guy—that he has to work with dumb ones like Benny. I had Benny sewn up before I ever found the watch."

"Something to do with that stunt you pulled down in Mercer street—firing that gun at the pillows?"

"Right. I got a break there—two or three breaks. But I had them coming to me. First off, I wanted to check up on whether that gun was the one that had been used to kill Thayer. Then there was something else. I'd been figuring on Benny's being the one who bumped him off. And I had something up my sleeve. There was a shootin' up here a while back. Benny plugged a guy one night. Self-defense—no argument about that. I didn't pinch Benny, an' I even let him keep his cannon. But I got the bullet out of the fella's arm that was shot. Seemed to me it might come in handy some time, Benny being the sort of gorilla he was.

"Maybe you don't know it, but every bullet that's fired carries the signature of the gun that fired it. There's markin's from the riflin' of the barrel that's as easy to read as fingerprints when you know how. So, this afternoon, I had three bullets. The one we knew had killed Thayer, the one I knew Benny had pumped into this guy's arm—and the one you saw me shoot into those pillows. I had them all checked up while you waited for me, before we ate. We got a lot of experts down at headquarters that can do anything from read a Chinese laundry ticket to tellin' you was a button sewn on to a pair of pants here or in Scotland. They eat their heads off, mostly, but they come in handy, every so often.

"Well—I had Benny, the minute I knew those three bullets were fired by the same gun. But I didn't have the doc—see? That was why I pulled the grandstand stuff with the watch. It took somethin' like that to make Benny crumble up and come across. He'll tell a story, now that all the lawyers the doc can hire can't break.

"Thayer—well, I guess he had his faults. But his number went up because he was game enough to go up against a blackmailin' gang that was tryin' to do his wife dirt. When you come down to it, he was the one broke it up, too. They's a lot of women in this town can breathe easier after they read that the doc's in jail. That's the low down, Pete. Chase yourself, now. Tell the madam from me, she can quit worryin'. You'll be seein' Connolly before I get there, maybe. Gentle him along. A bear with a sore tooth'll be nothin' beside him when he finds out what I've put over on him this night!"

Tennessee May Acquire Home of Rogers Caldwell

Half Million-Dollar Estate of Banker May Cover Part of State Funds in Defunct Bank.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Recovery by the state of Tennessee of Brentwood Hall, the half-million-dollar home of Rogers Caldwell, whose Bank of Tennessee collapsed with millions of state funds on deposit, was said today by a member of the legislature committee investigating financial affairs to be "an absolute certainty."

Senator Robert L. Alexander, Jr., of Davidson county, reported to the senate that inclusion of "this palatial home," a duplication of Andrew Jackson's "Hermitage" near Nashville, in the bank's assets will "pay three times over" the cost of the legislative investigation of state affairs. Despite that the state has first claim on the bank's assets. The attorney-general had estimated it will recover only 15 per cent of its $3,400,000 deposits in the Bank of Tennessee.

Testimony before the investigating committee was to the effect that Brentwood Hall formerly was listed on the Bank of Tennessee books as among its assets, but later was transferred to the books of the now defunct Caldwell and Company, and finally was charged off, with other personal indebtedness of Caldwell, when his firm merged last summer with the Bancokentucky Company of Louisville.

Alexander said Brentwood Hall's recovery would be due to the "diligence" of the committee's two lawyers, whose services a resolution being argued in the senate would have terminated. After vigorous debate the resolution finally was tabled 30 to 3.

Senator W. W. Craig, of Lauderdale county, a member of the investigating committee, hinted at political influences at work on the committee. He voted yesterday to limit the legislative recess for the benefit of the committee's investigation to May 4, instead of May 25, as was approved, and this action, he said, had been misconstrued.

In speaking to the resolution to do away with the services of the two lawyers, Craig said he was opposed to the resolution, "contrary probably to the expectations of some members of this senate."

"I have regretted," he said, "that politics—I say it advisedly, politics—has gotten into this matter. Less than three weeks ago I was sure I saw coming just what I see today and, without avail, I exerted myself to stay this impending storm."

Craig said that "I do not appreciate the fact, as a senator, that I should be continually expected to do what somebody who has political plans in the future has in mind." He expressed the wish that "those people who are making political capital out of this situation would go back home and let us alone." He did not identify "those people," but said the committee was capable of functioning under its own power.

The resolution to drop the lawyers was introduced by Senator T. L. Kennedy, of Marshall county, who said its only purpose, was to effect economy. He pointed out that fees paid the lawyers so far amounted to $14,000 and that he believed the most difficult part of the investigation was over.

The investigating committee, whose public hearings have been suspended pending the recess Saturday, was asked today in a resolution adopted by the house to inquire into the state railroad and public utilities commission to determine whether it is performing its duties properly and "is properly safeguarding the public in the matters of rates and utilities franchises."

EX-ALDERMAN COUCH TO FACE TRIAL TODAY

Ex-Alderman J. Allen Couch is scheduled to face trial this morning in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court on a charge of being interested in a city contract for purchase of automobiles.

In Judge John D. Humphries' court Tom Berryman, J. G. Garvin, Aubrey Silkes, M. W. Harmon and R. H. Evans are to be called for trial this morning on a charge of murder growing out of the death of Dennis Hubert, negro college student.

Chamber Plans 'Secret Service' In Traffic Drive

In its campaign to persuade greater observance of traffic laws in Atlanta, the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday revealed that it is considering organization of a "secret safety service" composed of outstanding members of every civic organization, to act in reporting traffic offenses to police after the safety drive is terminated.

E. M. Stubinger, chairman of the Jaycees' safety and traffic committee, said that the "secret safety service" will be resorted to only as a means of curbing recklessness among motorists who do not heed the present movement against unlawful acts in traffic.

"At present," Mr. Stubinger said, "we hope that our campaign to educate the public in safety will have the desired effect. It is our purpose, however, to organize a civilian corps of men from the highest ranks of civic organizations to report on cases of persistent violations by motorists."

Under the ultimate plan, Mr. Stubinger said, the civilian "police" would take the license number of offending motorists, note the circumstance of infraction, and mail it to city police headquarters. Two such complaints against a motorist would be sufficient grounds for his arrest, and the complainant and accused would appear in court.

The fifth "lesson" issued from Jaycee headquarters Wednesday dealt with jay-walking by pedestrians, together with a plea that this habit be abated.

HOTEL RECEIVER'S PETITION DENIED

The petition of the state receiver for possession of the property of the Lookout Mountain Hotel Company, a bankrupt, Wednesday was denied by Federal Judge William H. Barrett, of Augusta, in an opinion filed with the clerk of the district court here. Judge Barrett held that in view of allegations and evidence sufficient to justify the federal court in enjoining the state court from proceeding with a sale, if such was necessary, it would be inexcusable folly to deliver possession to the state receiver and then forbid his action under allegations and facts now developed. The hotel company was adjudged a bankrupt in Delaware in September, 1930, and proceedings here are based on an ancillary petition.

SUSPECTS' IDENTITY FAILS TO CHECK

GARRETT, Pa., March 18.—(AP) Descriptions of two negroes held here as suspects in attacks on women at East St. Louis and Fulton, Ky., fail to correspond with those of the fugitives in all details, police said tonight, but they will be detained pending further advices from Illinois and Kentucky authorities.

One of the negroes gave his name as Clarence Denard, 37, of Philadelphia. The second suspect said he was Louis McCull, 31, Pittsburgh.

COUNCIL OF VOTERS WILL GATHER TODAY

The Men's council, of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, which is sponsoring a modern and simplified registration bill, has called a meeting of the committee on registration for 4 o'clock this afternoon at 356 Candler Annex, Andrew Fairlie, chairman, announced Wednesday.

It is planned to discuss with county and city officials the provisions of the proposed bill with a view to having it introduced in the legislature this summer. After a preliminary bill has been worked out, officials will be invited to give suggestions and criticisms.

Dr. Small Discusses Meeting Presidents

Dr. Sam W. Small for the second consecutive week delivered the principal talk before the regular luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, held at noon Wednesday at the Winecoff hotel. Dr. Small, veteran newspaperman, previously had discussed his personal contacts and interviews with every chief executive since Buchanan's administration.

Wednesday the speaker described his personal chats with Presidents Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. His talk included both the serious and facetious moments of his contacts with the last eight chief executives, and, as on the previous occasion, the speaker kept his audience—one of the largest ever to attend a regular meeting—spellbound one moment and in hilarity the next.

Lionel Keene, president of the club, presided.

2 YOUTHS SOUGHT IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Body of Missing 36-Year-Old Woman Found in Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Two youths who abandoned an automobile in Virginia two weeks ago were sought today for the slaying of Miss Norma Newby in a forest preserve here.

After the body of the 36-year-old woman was found beneath the snow yesterday, a letter was received from Sheriff Thomas B. Fleanor, of Jonesville, Va., telling Patrick J. Murray, Miss Newby's married sweetheart, that his car had been left there March 3. Murray has said two men threw him out of his car in the forestry March 2, beat him into unconsciousness and kidnaped his companion.

Lieutenant Lester Laird, of the county highway police, announced the letter had "cast all suspicion" from the 47-year-old engineering salesman. Laird said Murray would be held only as a witness for the coroner's inquest tomorrow and that no charges would be made against him. He said the two car thieves had "undoubtedly killed Miss Newby."

Meanwhile Coroner's Physician I. M. Feinberg said examination had disclosed that Miss Newby died of multiple fractures of the skull and laceration of the brain, and apparently had been shot in the left arm. A wrench was found near her body.

CALDWELL MOVES TO QUASH CHARGES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Rogers Caldwell, Nashville financier, today moved to seek the dismissal of two state indictments returned against him here several days ago in connection with the operations of Caldwell & Company and its subsidiary, the Bank of Tennessee.

Mr. Caldwell's action came in the form of motions to quash on the alleged grounds that the indictments "on their face, charge no offense or violation of law," and on 13 specific other grounds.

The indictments charged Mr. Caldwell with fraudulent breach of trust, grand larceny, receiving stolen property, accessory before the fact of fraudulent breach of trust, accessory before the fact of grand larceny and receiving property feloniously obtained by breach of trust.

LONE GUN-WOMAN ROBS BROOKLYN MERCHANT

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—A lone gunwoman—first since the days when the "bobbed hair bandit" terrorized storekeepers seven years ago—held up a Brooklyn merchant and his wife today and escaped with $100.

The woman, described as smartly dressed, blonde and pretty, entered the nurses' outfitting store of Mr. and Mrs. Max Rosveld, near the Kings county hospital, and asked for a nurse's outfit.

As Mrs. Rosveld prepared to wait upon her the young woman whipped out a gun and ordered the couple to put up their hands. Getting the cash, she backed to the door and fled.

Ethel Barrymore Opens Run At the Erlanger Tonight

ETHEL BARRYMORE.

Lee Shubert has arranged for Ethel Barrymore to appear in "The Love Duel," a modern Hungarian play by Lili Hatvany, adapted by Zoe Akins, in the Erlanger theater for three days beginning tonight, with matinee on Saturday.

The occasion marks Miss Barrymore's first visit to this city in many seasons, the local debuts of her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, and her son, John Drew Colt, representatives of the ninth generation of the Barrymore-Drew family, and the introduction of Baroness Hatvany, one of Europe's leading playwrights.

Ethel Barrymore has given the stage a notable gallery of portraits. Always she has played contrasting roles. In "The Love Duel" she is seen as a brilliant woman of the world in contrast to such characters as Portia, Ophelia, Juliet, the charwoman in Galsworthy's "The Silver Box" or Sister Gracia in "The Kingdom of God."

"The Love Duel" presents a world of sophisticated, cynical, aristocratic people. It is the first play by Baroness Hatvany to be staged in America. Another piece of hers, "Tonight or Never," is now being acted in New York. "The Love Duel" was played by Miss Barrymore in her own theater in New York and in the chief cities of America. The story was taken from the lives of two well-known Hungarian figures. Because the baroness has a custom of using the characters and the lives of her acquaintances for her dramas and her novels, she is more popular with the public than she is with certain sections of European society. Zoe Akins, who made the American version of "The Love Duel," wrote "Declasse," which Miss Barrymore acted, and also "The Greeks Had a Word for It," one of the leading successes of the present New York season.

Walter Gilbert is leading man for Miss Barrymore. Watson Barratt designed the three settings from sketches he made in Budapest and St. Moritz.

The curtain rises at 8:30 o'clock sharply at night and at 2:30 o'clock at the Saturday matinee.

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

Steve B. Johnston, superintendent of Grady hospital, who has been recovering from an attack of nervous indigestion at his home, 865 Virginia avenue, returned to his office Wednesday.

Mrs. Laura Pate, 72, of 41 Third street, N. E., was seriously injured when she fell, fracturing her left leg, attendants at Grady hospital said Wednesday.

Burglars entered the establishment of the M. & M. Clothing Company Wednesday and escaped with 15 suits of clothes and several dresses. A broken lock on the front door indicated the probable method of entry.

Dr. Oliver Arteaga, who completed his two-year interneship at Grady hospital Wednesday, plans to take post-graduate work in New York.

Patrick H. Calhoun, son of the James M. Calhoun who, as war mayor of Atlanta, negotiated for the surrender of the city to Sherman has been appointed assistant historian-in-chief on the staff of Charles T. Norman, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, at headquarters in Richmond, Va.

Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer University, will address the City Club of Atlanta at 12:30 o'clock today on the subject, "Conditions in Georgia, and the Way Out."

Herbert Thompson, 19, whose clothing was ignited while he slept near a campfire alongside the railroad tracks near Inman yards Tuesday, was said by attaches at Grady hospital to be severely burned. Thompson was hitch-hiking to his home in Nashville. It was expected Wednesday that he would recover.

At the service to be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Kimball House the Rev. Arthur G. Slaght will speak, Ralph Stewart announced Wednesday.

Mayor James L. Key announced Wednesday he would call a meeting of the special committee to negotiate with the Carling Hotel Company, Inc., to settle the dispute over lease of the old city hall tract to that company for 65 years. Alderman J. Charlie Murphy and Councilman Frank Beck are other members of the committee with Mr. Key. He plans to have City Attorney James L. Mayson and Robert P. Jones, Carling attorney, attend the conference.

Raymond W. Torras, engineer secretary of the borough planning commission, Wednesday was preparing a plat of the three sites under controversy selection of a school location for the Beecher-Cascade avenue section of Atlanta. A joint committee composed of seventh ward representatives and the school committee of council have been charged with the responsibility of deciding the issue.

Mayor James L. Key will tackle council papers with a vim today. He has deferred action on many of them because of pressure of other business.

W. L. Thomas, 1096 Piedmont avenue, reported to police early Wednesday he had been slugged in the head late Tuesday night by footpads, who robbed him of $80 in cash and a valuable tie pin. The robbery occurred at Bell and Wheat streets, and Thomas was treated at Grady hospital.

Hugh Sauceman Wednesday was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond by United States Commissioner J. E. Brown on a charge of stealing government property—eight pistols—from the national guard armory at Cedartown.

Mrs. J. H. French, alias Dorothy French, Wednesday was held to the federal grand jury under $250 bond by United States Commissioner J. E. Brown on a charge of possessing three grains of opium in a local hotel room. The arrest was made by City Detective W. D. McGee. Mrs. French made the bond.

Convicts from North Camp aided in removing furniture from the burning home of J. S. Ward on Wieuca road Tuesday, camp officials revealed Wednesday. The convicts were under J. P. Medley, guard, who saw flames shooting from the roof while passing the house. The rescuers awakened the sleeping family and helped salvage the household goods.

GIVEN 'TRUTH SERUM,' SAYS ACCUSED SLAYER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 18 (AP)—Charges and denials that E. J. Burns, real estate dealer, was mistreated before he confessed plotting against Dr. W. H. Godwin for whose slaying he is on trial, marked the proceedings today.

Fred L. McDuff, chief of police, and Solicitor George Lewis Bailes, of Jefferson county, denied from the witness stand, that the confession was forced from Burns. They also denied charges by the defense that an effort was made to give Burns an injection of "truth serum."

M. G. Abney, a real estate dealer and acquaintance of Burns, testified that several months before Godwin was slain last January, that Burns had offered him $100 to lure the physician to a section of woods near the city.

Burns is charged with engineering a plot through which Dr. Godwin was lured to a vacant house in East Thomas, a suburb, and shot to death after receiving a call that a woman was sick and required medical attention.

LEATHERS, SPRATLIN ARE PLACED IN TOWER

Pair Indicted in Holdups Here Are Returned From Miami by Officers.

Brought back to Atlanta Tuesday night by Police Captain A. J. Holcombe and Patrolman T. H. Leathers from Miami, where, it was said, they were turned over to the officers after pleading guilty to four holdups, Clyde Leathers, of 546 Chestnut street, 19-year-old son of Patrolman Leathers, and R. M. Spratlin, 21, of 515 Griffin street, were placed in Fulton tower Wednesday and held in connection with a series of holdups here. They were indicted here about two weeks ago.

The two youths were captured in Miami March 6 and confessed staging four holdups within the hour preceding their arrest, according to Miami police. They were released to Atlanta on condition that if they were acquitted of charges here they would be returned to Miami to serve time. The pair also confessed to making the trip to Miami in a car stolen here March 2, it was said, and federal charges of transporting the stolen machine into another state are being prepared by the department of justice.

Angry Bull Loses Battle With Auto

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 18. Joe Craigmiles, of Thomasville, escaped unscathed from an encounter between the automobile he was driving and a hefty and angry bull. Mr. Craigmiles went to an old sawmill site and sacked up a quantity of sawdust which he desired to use around his Thomasville home. He tied the sacks to the front bumper of his car. The bull, browsing in a pasture that bordered a highway, disapproved of the whole proceeding, and as the car turned homeward the bovine lightly leaped an intervening fence, and charged the moving vehicle, head-on and head-down. The resiliency of the packed sawdust saved the automobile, which was only stopped and swerved in the roadway, while Taurus got a bump that staggered him and filled his eyes with dust, inducing him to retire from the affray.

Bandits Get $4,000 From Race Bettors

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP) Four armed men shortly before noon today robbed a race track betting establishment at 727 1-2 Common street, of approximately $4,000 after forcing 40 men to lie face down on the floor.

The bandits laid in wait until an armored car arrived from a bank bringing money to pay off yesterday's wagers.

While Emile Durreau, who operated the establishment with Milton Schotts, was placing the money in cash drawers the bandits appeared with drawn revolvers. One of the bandits scooped the money in a canvas bag while the other three cowed the patrons.

The floor space was so small some of the men had to lie down on top of the others to carry out the commands of the bandits. None of the patrons was molested and the four men rushed down the stairs to the street after getting all of the house's money, including the dimes and nickels. They disappeared in the midday traffic.

W. & J. STUDENTS JOIN IN WALKOUT

Surprise Strike Protests Continuation of Incumbent President.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—The entire student body of 412 men at Washington and Jefferson College walked out of the assembly meeting on a "strike" today after 350 students had signed a petition protesting against continuance of Dr. Simon S. Baker as president of the institution.

Dr. Baker has been president of the college, one of the oldest in western Pennsylvania, for the past ten years.

Student leaders said the petition asking his removal would be submitted to the board of trustees of the college today. The petitioners said 35 members of the faculty supported their action, though no moves were planned by the faculty.

The petition charged Dr. Baker had an unsympathetic attitude toward the students, particularly against members of the college athletic teams. It also cited his enforcement of rules the students characterized as "childish," among them one forbidding the wearing of corduroy trousers on the campus.

The strike, Dr. Baker said, "came as a complete surprise to me. I believe it is simply a misapprehension on the part of the students. I have not said that I would dismiss those fellows and from what I hear of the case, this morning, I don't feel they should be expelled."

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. —(adv.)

World Famous
with free wheeling

EVEN without Free Wheeling, Studebaker's world famous Commander Eight would still be the biggest value for the money in America.

The Commander is a car of generous wheelbase—124 inches—a comfort further enhanced by Studebaker's famous ball bearing spring suspension.

The Commander engine develops 101 certified horsepower—the greatest power per cubic inch, with two exceptions, to be found in any American motor car. The two exceptions are the engines of cars costing, roughly, $1000 and $3000 more than The Commander!

Commander performance and comfort thus form an ideal natural background for the joy, the economy and the safety of Free Wheeling.

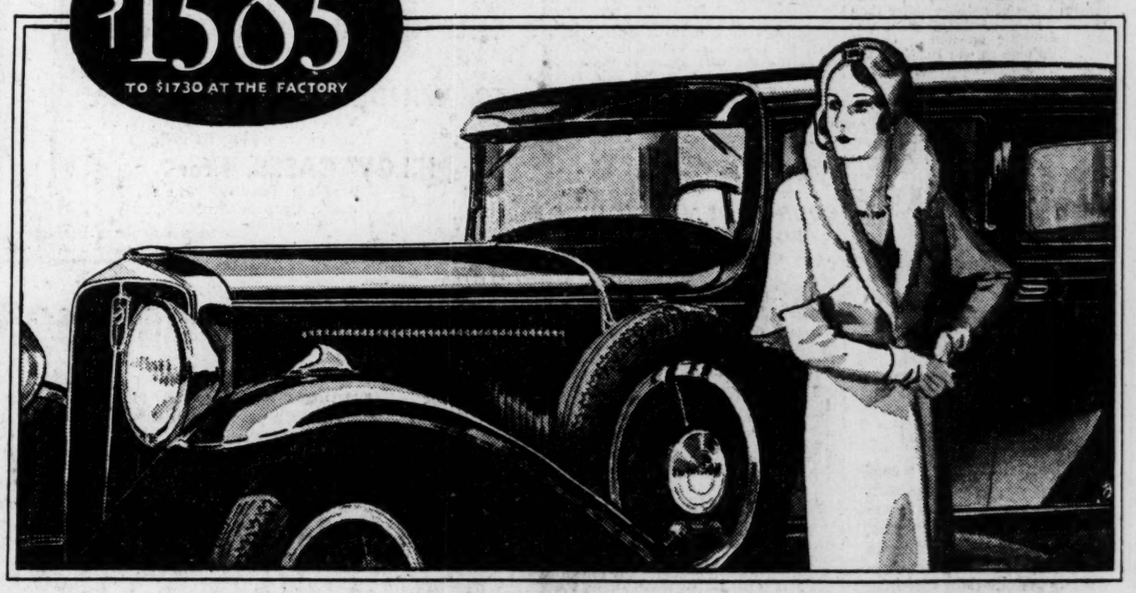

Free Wheeling with positive gear control, as introduced by Studebaker and adopted, unchanged, by Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln, gives you silent gear shifting at all speeds—freedom from clutch-pushing—12 to 20 per cent proved gasoline and oil saving—incomparably restful, zestful motoring—and the added safety attested by public traffic officials from coast to coast.

One drive will convince you there is no value comparable to this seasoned Eight by Studebaker, Pioneer and Pacemaker. May we place a Commander Eight at your disposal?

The Commander Eight Four-door Sedan is $1585 at the factory. Other Commander Eight models range in price from $1585 to $1730 at the factory. Bumpers and spare tires extra.

Prominent Alumni Entertain Honoring Fraternity Guests

Festivities at Emory University during little commencement week-end, March 26, 27 and 28, will be greatly augmented by house parties to be given by prominent alumni honoring guests of many of the fraternities and by a number of other parties for the various chapters. The Chi Phi fraternity will entertain at a buffet supper at the new house on fraternity row preceding the dance Thursday evening. The members will be assisted in entertaining by the house mother, Mrs. Pearl Hyde, and a number of Atlanta belles will be present as well as several girls from out of town. Though this fraternity will not have a house party, the following girls who will visit in Atlanta will be their guests at the social affairs: Misses Cornelia Merritt, of Americus, Ga.; Ruth Armor, of Coral Gables, Fla.; Mary Harbin, of Rome, Ga., and Frances Sinquefield, of Louisville, Ky.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Tucker will entertain a house party at their home on Wieuca road, honoring the girls invited by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. J.; May Falis, of Memphis, Tenn., who will visit Miss Elinor Smith, and Misses Betsy Spalding and Rainelle Pearson, of Waycross.

The Pi Kappa Alphas will also entertain these visitors at a dinner to be given at an Atlanta hotel during the week-end.

The K. A. fraternity will be honored by a house party, the arrangements to be announced later. The Phi Delta Theta fraternity will give a large reception following the dance Friday evening which will assemble a number of college belles, and will also be honored at several parties.

Roadster Show.

An interesting feature of the week-end of gayeties will be the roadster show, sponsored by the Pi Delta Epsilon honorary journalistic fraternity, which will take place Saturday morning, March 28. The members of this organization and popular young girls will ride in the parade, dressed in attractive sports costumes. Prizes will be given for the cars and couples making the most striking appearance. Zachary Company will give as a prize a hat in the latest style, and Maier & Berkele-Gorham Company will give a cigaret lighter to the two boys in winning cars. The prizes for the girls will be announced later. The winners of this show will be announced at the Saturday evening dance by the president of the organization.

Attractive favors will be given all the girls attending the little commencement festivities. Additional guests for the house party lists of all fraternities will be announced later.

THIS Powder Base ADDS SPRING freshness

Roughness, sallowness and dryness—the tell-tale marks of winter can be easily smoothed, whitened and refreshed with Plough's Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream.

And this exquisite, fine cream makes your face powder cling for hours. Invisible—yet it harmonizes with skin texture to add an alluring new depth of beauty to complexions

Plough's Cleansing Cream penetrates the pores, bringing forth all deeply embedded dirt and grime. It prevents "skin congestion" (dirt clogged pores) and keeps the complexion clear, clean and pure in tone.

Plough's Cold Cream brings back the precious moisture stolen by the dry home heat and blusterly winter winds. It helps the skin to regain new life, new vigor and freshness, thus banishing wrinkles and hollows.

Each of Plough's Peroxide, Cleansing and Cold Creams is economically priced at 25c, 35c and 50c.

Georgia Boy Amazes Mother

"Carl's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. J. R. Pope, 621 Kalb Street, Atlanta. "He was headachy and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated.

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give Carl some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his headaches, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

A Husband and Father of Two Little Children Has No Right to "Personal Affairs" Which Do Not Directly Concern the Wife and Children—"Love Suffers Long and Is Kind;" How Foolish Is the Woman Who Trades on That Truth.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am the mother of two sweet children, the youngest only three months old. I am married to a man who doesn't care whether he has a job that will support us, or not. He hasn't done any work, to speak of, for nearly a year. I know it is hard to get a job these days, but I also know that when times were better he had several good jobs which he did not hold. I have always worked and helped with our household expenses. That doesn't matter to him if he has something to eat and a place to sleep. He doesn't care who furnishes it either. He has no interest in me, or in the children. He is interested only in his personal affairs. What shall I do?

BROKEN-HEARTED.

ANSWER:

It depends entirely on what those "personal affairs" consist in. A married man with a wife and two children has no right to personal affairs that do not directly concern them. His first duty is to provide for them. Unless he is something of a genius, or an heir to money, that business will absorb most of his daylight hours. When that job is done his second duty is to be at home with them. He is not entitled to amusements which his wife may not share. He is not entitled to games of chance which he cannot finance properly. He is not entitled to any sort of money-spending pleasures so long as his family is not amply provided for. Now what can his "personal affairs" refer to? Very evidently something sinful and something that violates his marriage vows, certainly something that degrades him and his family.

Penniless men can't be about any decent business but the business of street beating, to find work. Prideless men who allow their wives to support them while they attend to "personal affairs" should be locked up where they may attend to personal affairs under police inspection. The sorriest man on earth is the man who marries a woman, presents her with a family, and then leaves her financially flat. The "lock-up" is too good for him, he should have a daily scourging and an hourly tongue lashing from some one of whom he is afraid.

All of which comes to nothing in the practical solution of this poor woman's problem. Certainly she is not bound to live with a worthless, lazy, lounging fellow who accepts bread and meat and a place to sleep from a woman who is nursing a three-months-old baby. He has lost any manhood which he may have had and it remains to be seen whether he shall find it again.

If there is any way to awaken his pride and his decency it should be done for the sake of the little children for whom he is responsible. If there is any hope that he may be made to see the wickedness of his attitude it should be indulged. Marriage is an irrevocable thing. Separation alters it but it does not erase it. Divorce dissolves it in one sense, but in another it doesn't. Your children will always be the children of your husband who, though he is a disappointment, is none the less your husband. So, I maintain that if there is any way to obviate the necessity for leaving him, that is the right way.

Of course, it is bitter as gall for a woman to find herself in such a fix. Of course, she thinks she had rather be dead than to face life with such a humiliating affliction. But she mustn't let those facts blind her to the wisdom of using every device she can think of to get her husband faced in the right direction. If she fails, then that is time enough to take the matter of separation, or divorce, into consideration.

Patience is a divine virtue. When the currents of life are flowing smoothly and evenly we fancy we know patience, but when the storms come and we are swept from our moorings and being dashed about by the waves, we can't think of patience. We can't lie on our backs and float; we want to exhaust ourselves by swimming furiously, thinking in that way we shall more surely get to safety. And to advise patience as the best method of dealing with a situation that seems to call for furious action sounds like the worst folly. Furious action can mean only one thing in this case: The divorce court. Patience may possibly lead in another direction. It is worth trying.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am a middle-aged businessman of moderate circumstances. Have been married a dozen or more years to a woman about my same age, and have two delightful girl babies.

From the day I first met my wife until the present hour I have been deeply in love with her, and have devoted all of my interest and attention to her comfort. Until one year ago my love was returned by her and all went well in our household; we were unusually happy. During 1930 my business and income suffered and it was necessary for me to devote about all of my working hours to the task of making a living; although we have never been in want.

I am a home-loving man with none of the habits which are usually classed as bad; and certainly no interest in outside women. My wife is a home-loving woman; and we are both deeply devoted to the children and have striven equally to take care of them and provide well for them. Neither of us could possibly be happy to live apart from the babies.

However, during the past year my wife became madly infatuated with a man many years her junior, and since that time has been very cold and indifferent towards me and wholly uninterested in my welfare. This man has now left this immediate section and she insists upon carrying on a passionate correspondence with him. When he first left she was so very uncompanionable towards me that I took her severely to task. She admitted that she had been intimate with him for more than a year; that she loved him, etc. However, she begged me to permit her to remain in my home, and solemnly promised to discard the other man entirely and love me as in previous years. I agreed to this and for two weeks no letters were exchanged and home life for both of us became brighter. Then the correspondence began again and she became cool and indifferent to me; denying this time the correspondence which I knew existed.

Finally I decided to make ample provisions for the care of the children now and in the future and told my wife that she must leave our home. During the day she went away, taking the children with her. She is now with her parents but it will not be possible for her to provide for the children even if she manages to take care of herself.

I love her with all of my heart, and in spite of the contradictory evidence in the case I still believe that she loves me. I am willing to provide a good home for her and the children providing she will disentangle herself from the other man. However, I do not want her to return until this is accomplished, and I am unwilling to contribute to her support unless she avails herself of the home that I maintain for her. What are your suggestions?

JOHN.

ANSWER:

You have done everything a long-suffering man could do. You have, so to speak, forgiven her seventy times seven. After such an exhibition of forbearance and fortitude, I should say you need no advice from anybody. I commend you and hope you may reap what you have sowed.

world." The tail of the Rat hung from a corner of her mouth.

"Wait until you have been blamed for the deeds of another and made to pay," replied Redshoulder. "Perhaps you'll change your mind then. Something is wrong when two or three in a family can commit mischief and put all the blame on innocent relatives. Sharpshin is always doing this, and so is that other cousin of ours, Cooper's Hawk. It isn't fair to us. It isn't right. And there is nothing we can do about it."

You couldn't blame Redshoulder for feeling that way, could you? But the real wrong lay in the fact that men with terrible guns never had learned to use their eyes to note the difference in looks and ways of the various members of the Hawk family.

False Hopes on Excess Fat

Some Ways Harmful—Some Absurd

Many false helps are offered to the overfat. Some are harmful, some absurd. All disappoint. Do what modern doctors do. They combat the gland cause. It is time to end the fakes in this line, for the good of all.

Your Doctor Knows Best

Medical science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. One function is to help change food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. People grow over-fat, despite diet and activity, if that gland secretion is scant.

That theory is now accepted the world over. So modern physicians everywhere combat that cause. They do this by feeding the over-fat the factor which is lacking. No starvation, no over-exercise, no harmful drugs. The results in late years have amazed the world. Excess fat has been fast disappearing. Slender figures are the vogue. New health, new beauty, new joy, new efficiency have come to countless people.

This is to urge that you use what doctors use, not what they denounce.

Basis of Marmola

Marmola prescription tablets supply this new, this scientific help. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others, and the use has grown.

All folks know how excess fat has been going in those years. All can see in every circle how slender figures reign. It is evident that the world has found a new way to fight fat.

Now Fat is Folly

Excess fat has now rarely an excuse. That blight to beauty, health and vim has found a scientific foe. It is easy to combat a major cause, and multitudes have proved it.

Take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Be moderate in all things, but don't starve, don't over-do. Fight fat in Nature's way, by supplying what Nature is failing to supply. You will then be doing what the best physicians do today.

Formula in Box

Marmola has no secrets. The formula appears in every box. A book explains the reason for results. You will know what you are taking and why.

As the pounds drop away there come other results—all explained in the book. New health, new vitality. The gland secretion which fights fat inspires other ductless glands. The good results are often far-reaching and amazing.

Marmola is supplied by druggists—$1 a box. Go try it, read the book in box, then watch results. Stop foolish treatments—do the right thing. Then, when you get the results you seek, tell other folks who need it. Go start today.

COLDS pour germs in handkerchiefs

Handkerchief carried in purse or pocket is constant cause of self-infection — should be discarded.

use Kleenex . . . then destroy

DON'T risk flu, pneumonia and other dangerous aftermaths of colds! Latest laboratory experiments now bring definite proof of the health value of Kleenex.

A series of scientific tests prove that millions of disease germs thrive and breed in handkerchiefs used during colds. These germs self-infect the user, causing colds to get worse instead of better. This constant self-infection may cause colds to develop into flu and other menacing diseases.

USE KLEENEX AND DISCARD

Kleenex prevents self-infection because you use it only once and then destroy. No germ-filled handkerchief to carry around in pocket or purse, preserving germs, spreading infection.

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then discarded.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as sanitary as it looks. No tissue touches your face that isn't clean as clean can be.

The use of Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is ideal for children.

Kleenex has many other uses. Beauty experts say these absorbent tissues are the safe, sanitary way to remove cold cream. Being powerfully absorbent, Kleenex picks up all dirt and powder along with cleansing cream.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store. Comes in three sizes: 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial package to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

What science says about the ordinary handkerchief

1. It may self-infect the user time after time.
2. Spread infection among others.
3. Infect clothing in which carried.
4. Infect clothing in laundry bags (germs survive for days.)

Bacteriological Tests show:

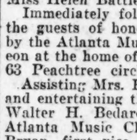

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief.
2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

These reports are based on tests performed in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Feuer, Chicago bacteriologist.

REDSHOULDER IS INDIGNANT.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

For what we do we may not pay,
But sometimes other people may.
—Redshoulder the Hawk.

Frightened but not much hurt, Redshoulder flew away while an angry farmer shook his fist at him. "Anyway, I got the Rat," muttered Redshoulder as he headed for the Green Forest and the home where Mrs. Redshoulder was sitting on four precious eggs. "Hello, there is my cousin Sharpshin, and as sure as I'm an honest Hawk he is eating a freshly caught chicken! It is one of those chicks this Rat was after. I remember now I did hear a swish of wings pass back of me just as I started to drop on this Rat. Probably that farmer didn't see Sharpshin at all, he is so much smaller and travels so fast but blames me for the loss of his chickens when all the time the Rats and Sharpshin have been taking them."

He was quite right. That is exactly what had happened. The farmer had been missing little chickens for several days. When he saw Redshoulder alight on the telephone pole he jumped to the conclusion that here was the thief who had been taking his chickens. He didn't stop to watch and find out. To him a Hawk was a Hawk and all Hawks took chickens and ought to be shot. He would shoot this one. So out he went with his terrible gun, crept along behind the barn and then as he heard the frightened outcry of the hens rushed around the corner and had eyes only for Redshoulder. He didn't even see Sharpshin dash in and take a chicken. He saw Redshoulder rising about the henhouse with something in his claws and blazed away with both barrels of his gun. He didn't try to see what Redshoulder was carrying. He had something in his claws so it must be a chicken. Had you been there to tell him differently he wouldn't have believed you. A lot of men are like that.

So Redshoulder nearly lost his life, and was blamed for what others had done when all the time he had been doing no harm at all. On the other hand, he had been doing that farmer a good turn. That old gray Rat would steal no more chickens. As he flew home he grew more and more indignant. The fright he had had taken away his appetite and he was taking that Rat home to Mrs. Redshoulder. Perhaps he would have done it anyway for he is a true and faithful mate.

Mrs. Redshoulder's eyes sparkled when she saw the Rat. "I see you had good luck, my dear," said she.

"Yes and no," replied Redshoulder. "I got this fellow, but I lost some feathers doing it and got blamed for something I had nothing to do with. That swift-flying small cousin of ours, Sharpshin, certainly got me in a lot of trouble and it is a wonder he didn't cost me my life. He got off free and had a chicken breakfast beside. I paid for what he did by being stung by shot from a terrible gun and losing a few feathers. Worse still, I won't dare go back there again and I know that there are Rats there and that I could catch them if left alone. It is a queer world. Yes, sir, it is a queer world." He shook his head mournfully.

"What do you mean by saying it is a queer world?" demanded Mrs. Redshoulder, "I think it is a pretty nice Business, Professional Women Give Dinner in Millen, Ga.

MILLEN, Ga., March 18.—The Business and Professional Women's Club brought to a happy culmination the end of National Business Women's Week for 1931, by celebrating with a public relations dinner at Hotel Estelle, Saturday evening.

The guests were received in the hotel parlors by Mrs. Brantly Daniel, Mrs. Dean Brinson, Mrs. John T. Evans and Mrs. T. Z. Daniel.

As the guests, which included club members, visitors and official representatives from the city and civic and service clubs of the city, entered the dining hall a most beautiful scene greeted them. The decorations which were artistically arranged, were under the supervision of Miss Claire Bone, a member of the club. The national federation colors of green and gold were carried out even in the minutest detail.

Mrs. D. W. Harrison, president of the club, presided. She outlined briefly the work of the national federation since its organization 12 years ago, and suggested that the 12 candles of the birthday cake honoring the 12 years' growth of the national federation be also made to glow in honor of the city. Mrs. Harrison, after a very cordial welcome by Miss Ruth Marks, a most gracious response by Mrs. John Bates, introduced each representative of clubs and organizations. The first tier of the huge cake held seven candles and these were lighted by Rev. T. R. Harvill, of the Masonic lodge; Mrs. G. C. Dekle, of the Wayside Home chapter of U. D. C.; Mrs. Miles Edenfield, worthy matron Edith Cavell chapter Eastern Star; Mrs. John Bates, Millen's Woman's Club; Mrs. Alex Boyer, Garden Club, and Mrs. J. A. Dixon represented the Parent-Teachers' Association.

On the second tier of the cake was placed four candles. One of these was lighted by Mayor Walter Harrison in the name of the city. Superintendent W. E. Pafford represented the educational interest of the city; Mrs. Brantly Daniel, in the name of the public relations committee of the B. and P. W. Club, and Miss Jennie Dawson in honor of the publicity that the club has been given through the Millen News and through the various daily papers of the state, lighted a candle in the name of Mrs. Ben A. Neal and Mrs. Alex Boyer.

The single taper on the top section, a light to tower above all other organizations was lighted by Rev. R. L. Whitehead, representing the religious interest of Millen.

These various representatives brought messages of good will and mutual helpfulness from the various organizations.

Mayor Harrison was the keynote speaker of the evening, expressing the gratification of the city that so many live, active organizations are functioning for the betterment and beautification of the city and co-operating for the religious, educational and civic interest of the city.

Between the courses of the dinner an enjoyable program was given. Miss Elizabeth Shapiro read to the delight of her hearers, "The Elopement." With Mrs. C. Thompson, in her most gifted way, accompanying. Mrs. Dean Brinson sang a group of numbers with "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Samson and Delilah as the feature. Miss Gladys Ward sang "Kiss Waltz" and "You're the Melody."

A three-piece orchestra, composed of Miss Dorothy Thomas, G. R. Hurd and William Turner, Jr., played during the evening. Miss Dorothy Thomas gave the humorous reading "Ollie."

The invocation was given by Rev. T. R. Harvill, of the Millen Baptist church.

FOR LUNCHEON

The luncheon salad is often the main course. So it should be rather substantial . . . like this Tuna Fish Salad: After removing the tuna fish from the can marinate it.* Pack the fish into small cups to mold it, and place in the ice-box for several hours. Unmold the tuna fish on beds of crisp lettuce and serve with Devilled Dressing which is made like this:

Mash two cooked egg yolks smooth and blend with two tablespoons of Wesson Oil. Stir into this two tablespoons of cream, one and one-half tablespoons of vinegar and seasoning of a teaspoon of salt, a fourth teaspoon each of paprika, and onion juice. Add one tablespoon each of chopped green pepper and minced pimiento.

*To marinate: Mix six tablespoons of Wesson Oil and two tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice. Add a teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper. Pour this over the salad material and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours.

FOR BRIDGE

Your bridge guests will prefer a salad that is a happy medium between sweet and sour . . . a pleasant appetizer for their evening meal . . . such as grape fruit and orange salad. Alternate skinless sections of grape-fruit and orange arranged with a garnish of pimiento-strips, make a salad that is mellowed by Cream Cheese Dressing.

To make Cream Cheese Dressing: soften a package of cream cheese with four tablespoons of Wesson Oil. Add a teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon each of white pepper and sugar, and thin with two tablespoons of lemon juice. Pour over salad and dust with paprika.

FOR DINNER

Gowns are more sophisticated for dinner. Salads too! Served as a separate course, the simple salad is best. Perfect, tender asparagus tips, slipped through a ring of green pepper or lemon-rind, placed on a single thick slice of red-ripe tomato. Serve with Chiffonade Dressing, which is made like this:

Beat together eight tablespoons Wesson Oil, two tablespoons vinegar, half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and paprika; tablespoon chopped pimientos, half tablespoon chopped parsley, and a minced hard-boiled egg.

Each Occasion Suggests a Different Salad

JUST as no one dress is correct for all occasions, no one salad dressing is suitable for all salad flavors. There are dressings for all tastes, dressings as different as lemon is from honey and honey from cheese. So . . .

mix a dressing appropriate to the salad

Here are three suggestions. Three dressings that go with their salads just as cranberry goes with turkey, mint goes with lamb and cream goes with peaches. Try them.

AN INTERESTING LITTLE BOOK. Mary B. Murray has written a new little book filled with helpful salad suggestions. It suggests the right kind of salads for each occasion and the dressings that go best with each kind of salad. It also contains many new and interesting ideas that will help you make all your dinners and parties the successful affairs you want them to be. We will be very happy to send you your copy if you will write us. Address: The Wesson Oil and Snowdrift People, 210 Baronne Street, New Orleans, La.

SUIT AGAINST PAPER COMPANY DISMISSED

Action Filed by Tennessean Publishing Company Is Out of Court.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP) A $500,000 damage suit brought against the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company and its attorney, G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, by the Tennessee Publishing Company, of Nashville, was dismissed today by Circuit Court Judge H. W. Laughlin.

The Tennessee Publishing Company is headed by Colonel Luke Lea and publishes his Nashville newspapers, the Evening Tennessean and the Tennessean, morning.

The suit alleged that malice prompted the filing of a receivership suit against the publishing company by the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company. Fitzhugh acted as attorney in the receivership suit.

On the stand today, Fitzhugh contended the damage suit was brought prematurely. He said although a petition for temporary receivership for the publishing company had been denied at Nashville, the litigation still was in progress and any other suit bearing on it was premature.

Judge Laughlin sustained the contention and upheld two pleas in abatement filed for Fitzhugh and for the paper company. The abatement pleas contended service of the damage suit papers on Fitzhugh, as the paper company's attorney, was insufficient, because he was attorney and not a direct agent for the paper company.

The damage suit was filed originally at Nashville and was transferred here.

An attorney for the Tennessee Publishing Company entered an exception which may be the basis for appeal.

Widespread Slayings Of Peasants Reported

SHANGHAI, March 18.—(AP)—The slaughter of 3,000 peasants in a communist uprising along the Hueph-Szechwan border was reported in Chinese dispatches today.

Nationalist government military forces at Shasi, Hupeh province, were reported to have undertaken an expedition against the reds. Th scene of the uprising was designated as north of the Yangtse river in the border area mentioned. The area was said to have been pillaged.

Communists and mutinous soldiers severed the Peiping-Hankow railway at the Hupeh-Honan border and ravaged the countryside. The disorders were said to be continuing there.

INSURANCE MEN OPEN SESSIONS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Members of the National Association of Insurance Agents, in midyear convention here, today heard addresses of welcome and the report of the president, Percy H. Goodwin, San Diego, Cal. About 500 members attended.

A resolution condemning "mail order" fire and casualty automobile insurance, handled "without the intermediary personal contact in negotiating and arranging contracts of insurance and in inspecting and servicing risks" was made public today. It was adopted in executive session of the association's council yesterday.

U. S. WILL PRESS PERISHABLES BAN

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The agriculture department plans to press its campaign for enforcement of the perishable agricultural commodity act.

Two solicitors have been appointed under a $100,000 appropriation provided by congress to carry out the licensing of commission merchants, brokers and dealers in fresh fruits and vegetables and adjust more than 400 complaints arising under the act.

BISHOP CANNON HEARS BUTLER HIT DRY LAW

Prelate Attends Meeting Called To Boost Wet for President.

PASADENA, Cal., March 18.—(AP) Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, attacked prohibition here last night before a group including Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, a prohibitionist.

The occasion was an organization meeting of the crusaders, who desire to elect a wet president in 1932.

Dr. Butler decried the eighteenth amendment as an infringement of personal liberty and said if the trend it represented were carried to its logical conclusion California "would be reduced to the status of a modern county."

The bishop, who was accompanied by his son, Richard M. Cannon, left after the meeting, declining to comment.

ATTORNEY FACES DISBARMENT MOVE

JACKSON, Miss., March 18.—(AP) Institution of disbarment proceedings against Rush H. Knox, former attorney-general of Mississippi, and Cecil Inman, former chairman of the state tax commission, has been ordered by the grievance committee and the executive committee of the state bar association, Louis M. Jiggitts, secretary, said tonight.

Although the proceedings were authorized for immediate filing, it was understood that no action would be taken until after disposition of similar charges pending against six other Mississippi attorneys before the state supreme court.

The grounds upon which disbarment of the two former state officials will be sought, were not revealed.

LOBBYIST QUESTIONS AIM OF HOOVER TRIP

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—A sharp clash between Secretary Hurley and a witness over the purpose of President Hoover's trip to the Caribbean took place today before the war policies commission.

It came a few minutes before the commission adjourned for several weeks its inquiry into proposals to take the profits out of war.

Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the people's lobby, precipitated the dispute with an observation that President Hoover was taking the trip to "see if any other country is in worse condition than this one."

Secretary Hurley, chairman of the commission, who was to accompany the president to the Caribbean, retorted that the remark was "highly inappropriate" and suggested that Marsh "hire a hall" if he wanted to make a "political speech."

Marsh replied he had been joking and would withdraw the remark. Hurley told him he did not understand that "form of amusement," adding Mr. Hoover was taking the trip for a vacation.

Summarizing the two weeks of hearings, Hurley later said the most important contribution was the plan proposed by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board during the war, to eliminate war profiteering by freezing all prices at the outbreak of a conflict.

The next hearing will be held sometime after May 15.

Marsh recommended that in case of another war the government take over "every dollar, factory and person." He said, however, it would not make much difference whether the burdens of the conflict were equalized because another war would destroy the world's economic system.

BUCKLEY TRIAL SEES ATTORNEY COLLAPSE

DETROIT, March 18.—(AP)—Prosecutor Harry S. Toy collapsed in the courtroom today after Fred Tara, the state's star witness in the trial of Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bommarito for the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley, had been arrested for contempt of court because he would not submit to cross-examination.

Tara declared on the stand he was "protecting his own life from now on," and refused to answer questions of defense counsel designed to reveal the witness' own police record. Recorder's Judge Edward J. Jeffries ordered Tara held for the duration of the trial and his previous testimony stricken from the record, unless he undergroes cross-examination.

Taken from the witness stand to a cell in county jail, Tara collapsed.

Prosecutor Toy was attempting to question another witness in the courtroom, when he slumped to the floor. Three physicians worked over him for 40 minutes before he revived. Assistant prosecutors said tonight their chief might not be able to resume his work until Monday.

TWO MEN KILLED BY STATE AGENT

GREENSBURG, La., March 18.—(AP)—With a coroner's jury recommendation for manslaughter placed against him in connection with the shooting and fatal wounding of two men a day or two ago in St. Helena parish, Willie Hurst, a state conservation agent, claimed self-defense.

Hurst is in jail at Baton Rouge expecting to make bond for his release to await the action of the parish grand jury. Hurst accused the two men that were killed of firing the woods.

He claimed that he came upon them in the act of setting a fire while he was on his patrol. "When they saw me," said Hurst, "both of them pulled knives and jumped on me. I had a shotgun and I fired twice."

The agent said that six fires on the day of the killing had burned over 1,500 acres of timber.

The men killed were John Hurst and Marvin Allen, farmers of St. Helena parish, and kinsmen of the agent.

PRINCE, AVIATOR FORCED TO LAND

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Prince Jean Ghica, of Rumania, advised the Rumanian legation here tonight that his plane had been forced down at Moundsville, W. Va., en route here from Columbus, Ohio.

The message attributed the stop to bad weather, and added that plans for continuing the transcontinental trip from California by easy stages would be telegraphed tomorrow.

The aviator had been expected here at 3:30 p. m. and the legation staff awaited him at the airport until after 6 o'clock, then returned to the legation to await word. Fear for his safety was felt until the message arrived.

Ghica crashed last year on a nonstop flight from London to Constantinople. Engine trouble developed over Bulgaria and he was forced down in the mountains. He is a prince of the ancient families Cantacuzene and Ghica.

HOOVER APPROVES NEW LABOR STUDY

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—A study of government employment organization in Europe will be made in connection with the reorganization of federal employment agencies in this country.

The study was ordered by Secretary Doak with President Hoover's approval, John J. Leary, former labor writer for the New York World, has been chosen to make the study.

Leary will leave for Europe soon to begin the work.

John R. Alpine, a former vice president of the American Federation of Labor, is directing the reorganization of the employment service which President Hoover asserted in his veto of the Wagner bill would be carried out. The Wagner bill was designed to provide federal aid to state controlled agencies.

Maryland Man Runs Public Utility Alone

BALTIMORE, March 18.—(AP)—The Electric Light & Power Company of Stockton, Worcester county, became actually a one-man concern today by order of the public service commission.

A commission order transferred the property, which serves some 300 customers in the eastern shore county, from Raymond J. Trader and his wife to their son, Clarence J. Trader.

For years the younger Trader has been operating the concern for his father, he said, reading the meters, making repairs and extensions, and keeping books. He told the commission he has three or four operating assistants.

The property was said to represent an investment of $65,000, but the formal consideration for the transfer was $100.

Representatives of southern and northern railroads have proposed revisions which would generally increase the rates over the existing level. Under the ordinary procedure, it is customary for the commission to hold hearings on such petitions to give shippers an opportunity to oppose changes.

Night baseball seems assured for Atlanta this summer.

Directors of the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Company are going forward with plans to install a lighting system at Spiller field. Only the formality of approval by the board of directors is lacking to make it a certainty.

The experiment will be interesting. Baseball after dark has been successful in some cities; in others it has failed to catch the imagination of the populace. The Cracker bosses are going to invest a few thousands of dollars to find out.

The tentative plan is to play one or more games at night in each series and see how old J. Raymond Public responds. If he does not like it, the lighting system still can yield a return on the investment through prep football games next fall. Several games already have been arranged for decision after supper. The preps know what they want.

NOT A BAD IDEA.

Night baseball should not be a bad idea at all. It will give hundreds of real fans who work afternoons a chance to see baseball once or twice a week instead of having their participation confined to July 4 and Labor Day.

During the hot season it will provide welcome relief. And the young businessmen of the bleachers will be able to really enjoy a game for once.

Besides, there is no city ordinance compelling anyone to attend who thinks the romance leaves baseball at sundown.

Thus far the only objection to the project has come from the young men who toil for the afternoon newspapers. The lads have been wailing for two years over the prospect. The funny part is they will not even have to attend the games. It is the greatest break for them since the 9:30 a. m. editions were discontinued in 1919. They can go to the movies in peace when night games are on, and read about it next morning.

The only hardship will be borne by the young men of the morning paper. But who cares whether the gentlemen of the press are discommoded or not? Exactly; not a soul.

RIGHT BEHIND THE EAR.

Allen Tilden, in the Little Rock Democrat, takes a mean cut at Bob Allen, who owned the Travelers for years and now is proprietor of the Nashville Vols and their short right field fence. Allen writes:

"What's that old saw about which foot the shoe is on?

"It's called to our attention by the strange case of Bob Allen, and his sudden change of heart concerning 'Nashville home runs.'

"On various and sundry occasions in past years, following the return of those Travelers from a disastrous series in Nashville, we have heard the former Little Rock prexy moan and groan about the nearness of Nashville's right field fence, and about how those Vols beat his boys on home runs that would have been popflies at Kavanaugh.

"But that was all before Bob Allen sold those Travelers and took charge of the Nashville Vols. Now reports from the Tennessee city are to the effect that Bob Allen likes that short right field fence exceedingly, and that there'll be no screen atop it to curb the Sulphur Dell home run production.

Now, is that nice, I ask you?

THIS SHOULD QUALIFY HIM.

Read where Dan Sage, Jr., shot a hole in one on No. 7 at Ansley Park. The news item further says: "Young Sage is a CANDIDATE for the Boys' High school golf team."

Say, what do those boys have to do to make that team? Speak three languages and play the zither?

SPRING HAS COME.

And has spring really come? An item in an eastern newspaper gives the following report of flights of geese from an eyewitness:

"Friday evening February 27, between 5:30 until dusk I saw the earliest and largest flight of geese I've ever witnessed. Arriving at the Bayside (L. I.) station about 5:30 p. m. I was attracted by honking geese before I had walked two blocks north. On they came, flock after flock, in their usual V formation, all traveling at a height of approximately 750 to 1,000 feet, flying in a north, northeasterly direction.

"I estimate that between 1,500 and 2,000 birds passed by in the 45 minutes that I watched. What further interested me was the fact that every flock flew in the same lane. It seemed as if an invisible lane were laid out in the heavens which these birds were told to follow.

"I've lived on the north shore of Long Island all my life, but never have I noticed geese fly north in February nor have I ever seen such a large migration in any one day."

If the wild geese have gone back home, it is high time we were having the spring suit dry cleaned and the tennis racket restrung. Geese make few mistakes that way.

DID IT EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

Sit down for a lazy, if not a quiet, evening at home with with the raddy-o and find every program is one of these electrical transcription things . . . isn't it disc-gusting?

REGULARS LOSE.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 18. (AP)—Mel Ott and Sam Leslie continued to pound the ball in the Giants' practice today, showing the way in slugging as the New York rookies beat the regulars, 6 to 5, in a six-inning game that was punctuated by many halts to correct errors on the part of the youngsters. Ott clouted two home runs and Leslie, holding first base while Bill Terry is down with the flu, hit a four-bagger, a triple and a double.

AIDS BROTHER.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(AP) Harvey Walker, recruit outfielder whose performance in exhibition games thus far has made him a favorite for a regular berth with the Detroit Tigers, is devoting all of his spare time to drilling his brother, Gerald, in the hope of pulling him through, too. They have played baseball together through grammar school, high school, college and minor league days and are fighting hard against a separation on the threshold of big league careers.

Detroit's game with the Missions here today was rained out.

CARDS DOWN YANKS.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—One big inning, in which seven runs crossed the plate, was enough to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-to-5 decision over the New York Yankees and break the American league club's winning streak, which had extended to six games.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Boston Braves broke their losing streak here today by pounding out a 9-to-3 victory over Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds. The Tribe, in the seventh, scored 7 runs on five singles, three passes, a sacrifice and an error. Worthington started the Braves off in the third by clicking off a home run with one on. Cunningham and Seibold pitched well for Boston as did Kolp, who relieved Johnson in the Cincannati box after the wild seventh inning.

A LONG BATTLE.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 18. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns took the Phillies into camp today, 8 to 5, in eleven innings. Gray held the Nationals to three runs in the seven innings he worked. The Phils tied the score in the ninth with two runs off Stiles, but were helpless thereafter.

Klein Still Refuses To Discuss Salary

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Chuck Klein has turned down three invitations to come to the Phillies training camp to confer with officials of the club concerning his salary.

This was revealed today by President L. C. Ruch, who said he had gone to the "end of the road" with the slugging outfielder.

Ruch said Klein replied to the bids that he would not leave his home until his demands are met.

Phil Collins has also refused to sign and has not reported at the training camp.

JACKETS BOW AGAIN TO KEYS

Errors Hurt Tech as Reading Takes 7-to-6 Decision.

By Herb Clark.

Out-hit but far from out-played—and it wasn't their fault—Reading's Keys made it two straight over the Yellow Jackets who do their stuff for Georgia Tech by a 7-6 count on the diamond at the Rose Bowl Wednesday afternoon.

The Jackets touched Glenn Bolton and Clayton Van Alstyne, both ex-Southern league hurlers who are now with the Keys, for a round dozen hits. Among the lot were two doubles and three triples. Meantime a trio of Jacket flingers were turning the International leaguers away from the plate with great regularity. The major trouble lay in the fact that the ones who weren't turned away at first couldn't be later. The Keys got but eight hits. One was a double. One was a homer. And six Tech errors were just so many July oysters to the Jackets. They were all very, very large mistakes.

Tech came very, very close to making the Keys sorry they'd come back. That 9-1 lacing administered Monday rankled in the Jackets' collective soul. They stepped out to see about the old balm from Gilead. But forgot to put enough stamps on the order.

Reading started with a pair of runs in the very first frame: one earned by daring base running, the other partially a free gift, one of several. Adair having singled and moved up, scored from second on an infield out. Which is really picking the gunboats up and setting them down on better-than-schedule time. Quellick, who was hard to live with all afternoon, was safe on Hogsett's error and came on back to the dugout when Davis rapped out a double.

Tech got that pair back in their half of the same inning. Isaacs, Harper and McKee singled in rapid succession, the latter's effort sending both his mates home. And Tech raced into the van in the second. Holt led off with a triple. Mathes pinch-hit for Baker, the retiring pitcher, and walked. And up stepped Ray Isaacs to single and score the pair.

Through the third and fourth innings the Keys clipped away at that two-run lead. They clipped it away to nothingness. But Tech errors did much of the clipping.

Quellick walked. He went to second as Davis also drew himself four balls. And two errors gave Mr. Quellick just the chances he needed to sneal on home. Thus the third. In the fourth Krasovich singled—by grace of plenty of indecision on the part of the Tech infielding corps. Whitney also sent out a pop fly which fell uncaught. Bolton hit him a sacrifice and was safe when Henderson tossed the ball away. That set the stage for Walsh's deep fly, on which Krasovich romped down the third base line.

Then in the fifth the Keys dashed out in front themselves. Mitchum made two big mistakes. He threw one wide to Whitman and grooved one for Quellick. The wide one smacked Whitman in the ribs. The grooved one rose high and long from Quellick's bat, eventually coming to rest some distance beyond the left field fence as both Keys trotted amiably around the bases.

The Jackets gave another away in the sixth. It was all free. Walsh was issued a free ticket as far as first base. Mitchum erred to give him

Club Officials Tell Prep Teams to Schedule Games; Rosenthal Arrives Friday.

By Ralph McGill.

"OH, SURE YOU CAN SEE?" will be the national anthem at Spiller field this summer on at least some of the torrid nights when the baseball stars are shining.

The 15 directors of the Atlanta baseball club will meet today in the first spring meeting of the directorate. And the subject of lights will come up for discussion and probable adoption. If not today then they are sure to be adopted at the next meeting.

Lights are logical, practical and desirable. It is not planned to play every game at night. One or two games per week during the very hot weeks will serve. In this manner thousands who cannot attend games in the afternoon will be given entertainment and thousands who can attend the matinees will find the evening performances more comfortable.

GOOD SUBSTITUTES.

THERE is no reason at all why night baseball cannot be played. Cheap lighting systems such as Little Rock employed last year proved excellent substitutes for the sun.

Cracker officials have made no official announcement but on Wednesday Tech High athletic officials were advised that they and any others, would book night football games for next fall as Spiller field would be lighted.

This must serve until the directors officially okay the plan. It would be a mistake not to indorse night games for some of the hotter nights.

ROSENTHAL ON WAY.

Meanwhile the Crackers expect to be extending the right hand of fellowship to Simon Rosenthal, the outfielder. Or maybe they will be giving him the questioning frown. He has been the only real stubborn holdout of the year.

Rosenthal announced by wire Wednesday that he was on his way to Atlanta. He should arrive about Friday afternoon.

Johnny (Blondy) Ryan, the White Sox shortstop, should be in today. He did not arrive Wednesday. If he should arrive in time to dust off the stains of train travel he may be placed in the lineup this afternoon when the Crackers meet Reading at 2:30.

SEEKING "FARM."

Joe Kiefer, who was given 15 days to make a deal for himself and who decided not to after seven days of effort, is also scheduled to arrive today. Most of the boys are already signed.

Meanwhile the Crackers are going forward with plans to create a working agreement with some club in the newly formed Palmetto league, a Class D organization which is being formed in South Carolina.

"We expect to make this working agreement some time this week," said R. J. Spiller, the business manager, Wednesday afternoon. "If we do we will supply quite a few players to the team. I expect something definite soon."

Bernie McCay, former Cracker player, is dickering with the Florence club, seeking to obtain the manager's job. McCay was lined up to take over the Albany club in the late lamented Dixie association. It is probable that the Crackers will line up with Florence.

The Crackers will not cut down the squad in any serious fashion until the lineup is settled.

Crackers To Play Reading Today

Reading and the Atlanta Crackers will play the first scheduled exhibition game of the year this afternoon at Spiller field at 2:30 o'clock. Hearn, Gregory and Starling are the probable Cracker pitchers.

It was announced Wednesday that the Crackers would play a game in Columbus next Thursday with the Toronto club for the benefit of a Columbus charity. The game is a new one on the spring schedule.

SUTTER BEATEN IN INDOOR PLAY

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, and Christian Boussus, of France, second seeded favorites on the American and French lists, respectively, were eliminated today in the men's national indoor tennis championship tournament, in straight sets.

Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, fifth seeded American, also was eliminated in straight sets, while Jean Borotra, leading French contender, advanced to the semi-final in a two-set victory over Frank Bowden, of New York, 6-2, 6-2. Pierre Landry, of France, and Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Texas, seeded third on their respective lists, both advanced, as did William Aydelotte, of New York, sixth seeded American.

Perrine G. Rockafellow, of the New York Athletic Club, a seasoned indoor player, created the first upset of the day by defeating Sutter, 6-1, 6-2, and going into the semi-final round with Borotra as his opponent in the upper half. Sutter, national intercollegiate, Longwood bowl and eastern turf champion, showed only occasional flashes of his outdoor ability, and played a game of errors.

Boussus was upset by the brilliant performance which Aydelotte, national indoor champion in 1928, gave in their third round match in the lower half. Aydelotte won, 8-6 and 6-2.

Landry took only two sets to eliminate Bowman. The score was 6-3, 6-4. Bell had an easy time with E. M. Brandt, of New York, winning at 6-1, 6-2. Frank Sheilds, leading American favorite, drew a day of rest, and will meet Landry in one of the lower half quarter-final matches tomorrow, the other being between Bell and Aydelotte.

TECH WORKOUT, PLEASES 'ALEX'

Squad Shows Drive and Pep in Long Scrimmage at Flats.

Displaying practically as much drive in the space of a single and quite short afternoon as they have in the course of any given number of days preceding, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets raced through what may have been the next-to-closing scrimmage of the spring practice campaign on Grant field Wednesday afternoon. Another of the contact grinds may be sandwiched in between now and the windup session Saturday; it is possible although not probable. Coach Alexander was a bit undecided as the practice ended Wednesday.

The Jackets were really pounding along yesterday. They just drove and drove. The coaches are having the time of their lives watching their charges block and tackle and slice through the line. The hidden spring has been found. The coaches have touched it off. From the lowliest sub-center both ways out and back to the varsity fullback—if any at the moment—the Jackets are playing real football.

Two evenly matched teams started the grind off Wednesday. Replacements came in thickly—too thickly, in fact, to be followed—and none tended to shift the balance of power. Scores were reeled off by both teams with something approaching equality. Pat Barron, Ben Cherry, Jap Hart, Sam Colvin, Hall Galloway, Black, Peeler and a host of others did well in the backfield. Gardner, Neblett, Tharpe, Cain, Laws, Jones, Lackey, Ezell and another multitude flashed pleasing work in the line.

The coaches seem quite satisfied with the showing of the squad. The spring practice period which ends Saturday, has served to show that the Jackets are rife with material for the fall grind and that much of the material is capable.

A. A. C. Ring Entries Will Close Today

Entries for the monthly amateur boxing card to be presented Friday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club will close at noon today, according to Joe Beau, chairman of the program committee.

"It promises to be one of the best amateur fight cards of the year. We have many of the youngsters who recently won championships in the southeastern amateur meet on the card," Joe Beau said Wednesday.

There will be eight bouts on the program, all for $1 admission.

'Y' Volley Team Off For Knoxville Play

Eleven members of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. volley ball team will leave the city tonight for Knoxville, Tenn., where they will participate in the southeastern tournament to be held Friday and Saturday.

Those players who will make the trip include: Captain Hutcheson, Lowry, Wayne, McLain, Lockhart, Dozier, Clement, Jentzen, Moore, Le Craw and Carpenter.

The team has been working during the past two months under the direction of Captain Hutcheson and L. H. Cunningham, physical director at the Y.

HAMMOND HITS FIRST HOME RUN; HURLERS SHINE

Hard Slugging Marks Battle at Spiller's. Game Today.

By Ralph McGill.

Those Yannigans hit like Samson going through the Philistines Wednesday afternoon and they licked the Cracker regulars 5 to 1 in the first game of the season.

The Yannigans did not hit consistently but when they did hit it was something of a show. Until the final inning Powerhouse Jim Hammond, the home-bred first sacker, was the Yannigan hero.

With one on in the fourth he slammed a home run over the new fence in the Cracker outfield; the first home run to be hit there in a regular game with umpires and everything. That put the Yannigans ahead, 2 to 1. They clung to that slim lead until the ninth when Boscoe Bob Lamotte, the infielder, appeared as a pinch hitter for Maury Shannon.

TWO MORE RUNS.

There were two on base when Lamotte appeared. He caught one right down his alley and sent the ball skipping down the third base line for two bases. Red Barron and Jim Hammond, the latter having walked, cantered home. Lamotte advanced on an infield out and scored on J. D. Patterson's infield single.

The one Regular run came in the first inning on a base on balls to Red Barnes, a sacrifice by Jack Sheehan and an outfield fly by Douglas (Poco) Taitt, the Oregon Woodsman.

Last season Poco Taitt would have had a sacrifice fly but Wednesday he was playing under the new rules. He had only a time at bat. The rule was changed during the winter.

GAY PITCHING.

The pitching was rather gay for such a chilly spring day. That, combined with the fact that the boys got hold of the ball well, had John Dobbs in a rather merry frame of mind.

Johnny Carithers, who is called Young Jughandle Johnny because Jughandle Johnny Morrison has been in the game longer, looked very dazzling on the mound for three innings. He had nine men to face him in that time and only one hit the ball out of the infield. Two struck out. That "downer" curve ball was very, very puzzling.

In the fourth inning the Young Jughandle slowed up and walked Leo Bader. He then threw up a home run ball to Jim Hammond. The home-bred hitter gave it a real ride. The ball went over the fence in left centerfield, a distance of about 375 feet. Which is quite a knock. To make it all the more remarkable the hit was made off a left-handed pitcher. The Young Jughandle being as left-handed as a man can be.

JUST ONE HIT.

Lowell Douglas, the Rah, Rah pitcher from Baylor, went three innings for the Yannigans and allowed but one hit, a double by Roy Carlyle, the big fellow. He, too, pitched nice baseball.

Douglas was relieved by Burkett Patterson, the fast ball pitcher from Columbus. He gave up a couple of hits in his first inning but he finished strong, allowing no hits at all in his final three innings.

Chick Howard had two good innings only to run into trouble when faced by Pinchhitter Bob Lamotte in the seventh.

Roy Carlyle had a double and a single in three appearances at the plate. He was the only player to get more than one hit. Carlyle appeared faster on the sacks than he did last season. He is still no Paddock but he is bearing down, as the boys say, and getting results.

MARTIN LOOKS GOOD.

Amos (Mouse) Martin, the young third sacker, had a nice afternoon at third base. He came up with two hard ones and one throw to first base was what would pass for a real, genuine lulu. Yes, it would.

Chick Autry had a lot of style behind the plate and handled his pitchers well. Once he slowed down the Young Jughandle, warning him against trying to bend his curve ball too far the first day. Hearing a catcher advise with his pitcher caused great consernation at Spiller field. It was a new sensation.

The Crackers will play the Reading baseball club this afternoon at Spiller field. The starting time is 2:30 o'clock.

announced today by President John D. Martin.

Jack Hovater, former University of Alabama football star, now State Agricultural school coach at Wetumpka, Ala., was the new man.

Bill Brennan, Harry "Steamboat" Johnson and Hadley Williams, deans of the staff, are back as usual. Each has served under President Martin for 12 years and their records go back farther than that.

H. T. "Buck" Campbell, six years on the staff; W. T. "Spike" Shannon, E. L. Goes and John Quinn complete the roster.

Hovater is 32, stands six feet one inch and weighs 208 pounds, the presidential announcement recorded. He played fullback, tackle, guard and end for Alabama and was captain in 1917.

He began umpiring for the Southeastern league in 1925. He went to the Three-Eye in 1926, returned to the Southeastern in 1927, was with the South Atlantic in 1929 and again with the Southeastern last year.

Two Southern umpires of last year are absent. They are "Cotton" Knaupp and Bob Higgins.

Mack Is Worried Over Rookie Talent

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Athletics, twice world champions, need to be stirred up, in the opinion of Captain Eddie Collins and Manager Mack agrees with him.

Excepting Hank McDonald, big pitcher obtained from the Coast league, there isn't a rookie in the camp who Mack thinks will help the A's this season. Recruits who make two stabs at a grounder and swing blindly at tame pitching aren't kidding their boss.

"They don't impress me much," Mack said, "except, maybe, McDonald. The rest don't look like anything. Butcher may come along, possibly Cain, too. But if we get one prospect out of the 21 we will maintain the average."

LA GORCE OPEN STARTS TODAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The golfing great tonight wound up practice play for tomorrow's third renewal of the nation's richest tournament and the season-closer of the lucrative south Florida links—the fourth annual $15,000 La Gorce open.

The entire, bearing a record 122 names, read like the roster of a links alumni association as name after name of frequent headline prominence was listed in pairings for tomorrow's opening of the 72-hole resort classic in repetition of previous year's participation.

Leading the reunioners was Wild Bill Mehlhorn, who strode La Gorce course and its myriad sand traps in 1930 with a 285 that copped the $5,000 first prize. Right behind him were Horton Smith, who won the 1929 event as he cut a golden comet swath across golfing skies, and Johnny Farrell, winner of the crown in 1928, the first year of the high-moneyed event.

ZAHARIAS WINS OVER GHAFOOR; MARVIN DRAWS

Large Crowd Sees Wrestling Matches at City Auditorium.

Ghafoor Khan, with the slow patience of the Orient, almost won a match Wednesday night from George Zaharias in the main event of the wrestling card at the Auditorium, losing a three-fall match after being fouled.

The Khan is a quick starter, but lacks endurance. He is no actor, but moves patiently, slowly and in a sort of inexorable manner after his foes. Once in a hold he is smooth with the smoothness of the serpent.

He pinned Zaharias in 11 minutes Wednesday night. He lost the second fall and eventually the third after the fans had almost rioted again because of an elbow blow struck by Zaharias. But the Khan punished with a headlock that is as good as has been seen since old Ed (Strangler) Lewis was headlocking them.

The Khan works slowly, and the fans who like rough work grow impatient with him now and then. Those who like wrestling, however, give him a great hand. He seemingly wears out under heavy fire, but he is very, very clever while he lasts.

Zaharias won the second fall with a body slam and body block and the third with a body block. Several front headlocks and an elbow blow contributed to the downfall of the Khan.

The semi-windup was a great one. Charley Lehman and Tom Marvin, in the old game of Cowboy and Indian, went a full hour to a draw. The wrestling was fast and furious for the entire period and was a great tribute to the fine physical condition of the grapplers. This match had the crowd on its collective feet all the way. Lehman, a favorite, couldn't pin the tough Indian.

Young Rupley won a preliminary match from Whitey Patterson.

Tiny Roebuck, who was to have wrestled Zaharias, wired in from Washington that he was ill of ptomaine poisoning and could not offer his best. He said the attack was not a serious one but had upset him considerably and he did not feel he could make a good showing. In order that the fans might be shown the difficulties of match-making, Matchmaker Henry Weber asked for an affidavit and it is being forwarded.

"I regret these substitutions more than anyone else," said Henry Weber. "They hurt my attendance. It so happens that I have been unfortunate on the past two matches. I feel, however, that the substitution was a good one and the match did not suffer."

A larger crowd than the one of last week witnessed the matches. Another was announced for next week. Fat Elrod refereed.

The Experts' Report.

BASEBALL EXPERTS, returning from the south, are fairly unanimous along one line—this happens to be the probable meeting of Athletics and Cardinals in the next world's series. They figure the Cardinals will have a harder time winning than Mr. Mack's able troupers, but, for all that, they rate the Redwings of St. Louis in front of the National league flight because of a good all-around club and the most dependable pitching staff in the circuit. Grimes, Hallahan and Haines, with the assistance of other good pitchers, give Gabby Street dependable workmen for every game and thus insure him against accident and injury to some high-priced arm.

This report will in no sense discourage Wilbert Robinson and his Brooklyn supporters, who believe the increased hitting strength of the Dodgers will carry them through.

It might be remembered, however, that this is still March and that October is a number of weeks away.

The Check of Football Overemphasis.

A RECENT edition of the Harvard Crimson has an interesting check upon the so-called overemphasis of modern football, which outlines the situations more by facts than by opinions—here it is:

"It is most evident that many opinions of overemphasis in intercollegiate sports are dictated by the size of gate receipts, which are the reflection of interest by graduates, undergraduates and the public. Actually football draws most of the gate receipts, but is less emphasized from point of time required of its participants than any other sport.

"Some facts and figures may be interesting. The Harvard football team last fall reported on September 16 and played its final game with Yale on November 22, approximately nine weeks later.

"The crew season, not counting six weeks of fall rowing, will last from February 10 to June 19, more than four months.

"The baseball season will run parallel to crew and likewise be extended over four months, not including three weeks of fall work.

"The track season will run from January 5 to May 30, five months, out of which there will be fortnightly interruptions during midyear examinations and between the indoor and outdoor seasons. This does not include six weeks of fall work.

"Harvard played eight football games in 1930. Those games were attended by 335,826 persons who were admitted on season tickets, H. A. A. books, reserved seats, or admissions. The Harvard A. A. ticket department liberally estimates that 35,000 persons attended the Harvard games on tickets not issued to Harvard men or to graduates or undergraduates of the colleges against whom Harshows that the percentage of the public which saw the Harvard games was 10 per cent of the total paid attendance of 335,826 persons for the year."

The Crimson then goes on to say that most of the trouble was caused by a minority of offending colleges or universities and that it is against yard played. Analysis, therefore, these offenders that criticism should be leveled, not against those who are following the higher standards of student requirements and complete eligibility.

YANKS RETAIN BASEBALL 'IT' IN SPRING PLAY

Club Outdraws Rivals at "Gate" Despite Strong Foes.

By Gayle Talbot, Jr.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Despite the fact that there appears to be at least two stronger units in the American league this year, the ball-busting New York Yankees still manage to rank as the premier attraction of the spring circuit.

"The Yanks are coming" still has its popular appeal. Say what you will about them, that their pitching is weak and their prospects bleak, but vacant chairs are scarce when the Bambino and his playmates come to town. There is no matching them for that intangible something called "color," even though the passing years have removed some of the cogs from the championship machine that was piloted by the late Miller Huggins.

Babe Ruth, now as ever the "strong man" of the troupe, is starting his eighteenth year in the big show, yet he has lost none of his value at the box office. He still "packs 'em in," as the saying goes, and already has autographed enough balls this spring to endow a baseball college.

The whole crew has been banging the ball with gusto, as usual. There is no doubt in McCarthy's mind that he has a club capable of giving the Athletics and Senators a real battle if he gets pitching. Their batting rallies have been a features of the exhibition series.

So far the club's hurling has been good, but McCarthy has no illusions about winning a pennant unless he can develop a fool-proof mound staff. His success as a manager of the Chicago Cubs the last five years was based, largely, on the strength of his curving corps, and he knows that pitching is just as important in the American league. He won't even attempt to predict what his new club will do until he sees how his twirlers stack up.

A blow to the Yankees' hopes of getting away to a fast start is the illness of George Pipgras, who recently underwent an appendix operation. He pitched 30 games last season and had been counted upon as the wheelhorse of this year's staff. With him out probably the first month of the campaign McCarthy will have to start with only five proved tossers—Herb Pennock, Henry Johnson, Charles Ruffing, Roy Sherid and Ed Wells. All but Sherid were winners last season, Wells leading the way with 12 victories and 3 losses. There was not, however, what could be called an "ace" in the bunch. It is such a pitcher, one capable of starting every fourth day with better than an even chance of winning, that McCarthy hopes to uncover from his big list of recruits.

Rockne 'Whispers' About Football

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Talk of over-emphasis in football has made a silent man out of the one and only Knute Rockne.

When a reporter spied the famous Notre Dame coach in Chicago this week, he rushed up to find out the reason.

"I came up here to buy a football," Coach Rockne said, "and I'm going back to South Bend to show it to the boys later this week. I'm not going to speak above a whisper during spring practice lest I get accused of over emphasis."

EACH CLUB HAS SPECIAL PRIZE IN YEAR'S CATCH

Three Infielders, Two Catchers, Two Outfielders, One Pitcher Listed.

By Dixon Stewart.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(UP)—Three infielders, two catchers, two outfielders and a pitcher have been nominated by United Press representatives as candidates for recognition as the outstanding National league recruit of the 1931 season.

The players, named as the prize rookies in the various training camps are:

PLAYER AND TEAM—	AGE
Paul Derringer, Cardinals, p.	24
Bill Jurges, Cubs, ss.	22
John Vergez, Giants, 3b.	24
Ernesto Lombardi, Robins, c.	23
Hall Finney, Pirates, c.	23
Buzz Arlett, Phillies, cf.	32
Bob Worthington, Braves, cf.	24
Mickey Heath, Reds, 1b.	27

Derringer, who is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 210 pounds, has all the necessary requisites to become a great pitcher, in the opinion of Manager Gabby Street. He specializes in speed and control and in six innings against the Athletics and Braves did not issue a walk or allow a run. Last year he won 23 and lost 11 at Rochester.

JURGES GOOD.

Rogers Hornsby, Cubs manager, characterizes Jurges as "the best infield prospect in the majors." His showing at shortstop has been so brilliant that Hornsby expects to start him in the regular lineup with Woody English shifting to third base, thereby plugging an infield gap which has existed for many years.

Jurges has a great throwing arm, covers ground in surprising style and has been hitting well. In addition he is quick to learn and seems never to forget anything that is told to him.

John Louis Vergez, purchased from Oakland for $40,000, is slated to play third base for the New York Giants. Vergez has a big job in filling the shoes of Freddy Lindstrom, who has been shifted to the outfield, but is coming through in good style. He is a smooth fielder and hits well, having made 29 homers for Oakland last year. He has a tendency to upper-cut his swing, which must be corrected, but is improving rapidly under Manager McGraw's personal guidance.

LOPEZ'S RIVAL.

Lombardi, another Oakland graduate, is the most promising and colorful of Brooklyn's rookie crop. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds, but his size apparently does not handicap him behind the

NERVE TEST PROVED

El Toros did not affect his nerves

A test was conducted by an eminent psychiatrist to determine the effect of El Toros on co-ordination (nerve stability). Before smoking, the subject's rating for co-ordination was 82.6%. Then he smoked 6 El Toros, lighting one from the butt of another. He was given the "nerve tests" again. His score was 83%. El Toros had not affected his nerves in the slightest!

a visa to second. And Isaacs, not to be outdone, also bobbled as the flying feet of Walsh wrote the last run into the Key books.

A short-lived orgy of slugging put the Jackets up within one of their foes as the game ended. Isaacs cracked himself a double. Harper laced the ball to the edge of the fence on the right center field bank for the round trip, but neglected to touch third base and had to come back. And stay there, for by that time the ball had caught up with him. McKee drove out a fly which gave Harper time to step across, however. Successive singles by Dawson and Hogsett were wasted as Dawson tried to make third on Hogsett's effort and was tagged for the final putout.

Yet again both Coach Kid Clay, of the Jackets, and Manager Pants Rowland, of the Keys, were pleased. The showings of both clubs were much improved over the Monday work. By holding to the ratios set for the two games, both teams would be able to capture world's titles with ease. That is unthinkable, but each outfit will be in there playing baseball—and good baseball—with but little more polish.

The pitching Tuesday was still of the early season variety. The boys need more practice. And they'll be getting it, too.

Hitting was better for the Jackets, slightly worse for the Keys. "Country" Davis smacked his two-for-three to top the Key list, while the head men for the Jackets snapped out of their lethargy smartly. Isaacs hit three for four, Harper, McKee and Hogsett each two in four tries. And the extra base knocks were frequent.

Fielding was poor on Tech's part, but should improve plenty.

plate. He handles pitchers well, has a remarkable throwing arm and batted .370 in the Coast league last year.

Although he has little prospect of beating Al Lopez for the regular catching berth, he is expected to be retained as first-string substitute and pinch hitter.

Hal Finney, a native of Alabama, is making a strong bid for a regular catching berth with Pittsburgh. Finney, who is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds, has impressed Manager Ens by his physical attributes and his enthusiasm. He is one of the speediest men on the club and shows plenty of "pepper" in his work. Lack of experience probably will keep him from displacing Hensley this season, but he may win the second-string berth.

BUZZ ARLETT.

Buzz Arlett, a 32-year-old slugger, who has played in the Coast league for 13 years, is expected to succeed Lefty O'Doul in left field for the Phillies. He is the biggest man on the Phillies' squad, standing 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 230 pounds. Originally a pitcher, Arlett turned to outfielding when he injured his arm after winning 110 games in five years, and has been the Coast league's leading slugger for the past eight seasons. He swings from either side of the plate and has established a lifetime average of .361.

Red Worthington, a natural ball hawk and a heavy hitter, is certain to win a regular berth with the Braves. He hit .376 for Rochester last year and apparently has strengthened his throwing arm, injured when he was hit on the elbow by a bat two years ago.

SMITHIES CARD TEN GRID GAMES

Riverside Added to Already Tough Card for Next Fall.

The Tech High football team Wednesday added Riverside Military Academy, of Gainesville, to its 1931 schedule, making 10 games with the best of southern prep schools. The game will be played Friday, October 9, at Spiller field, probably in a night affair.

With Riverside signed, Tech High is the first member of the newly organized Big Four, to complete a schedule with other members for the 1931 campaign. Boys' High will be met November 14 and G. M. A. will end the season in a Thanksgiving game.

Tech High's schedule calls for games with four sectional champions last year and seven of the 10 will be played at Spiller field, with the others on foreign gridirons.

Games at home include Spartanburg, champion of South Carolina, September 26; Gordon Institute, October 3; Riverside, October 9; Erie Academy, Pennsylvania champions, October 16; Boys' High, November 14; Lanier High, November 20, and G. M. A., November 26.

Foreign games include Knoxville City High, Tennessee champions for three years, in Knoxville, October 23; Charlotte High, North Carolina champions, October 31, and Benedictine in Savannah, November 7.

It was also announced that Erle Academy has accepted an invitation from Tech High to bring its girls' drum and bugle corps here for the game with the Smithies. There are 47 members of the corps and a special concert will be planned during their brief stay in the city.

The October 9 game will be the first regular scheduled affair between Tech High and Riverside since 1927 when relations were severed. Last fall the teams played two games for the right to play Madison Aggies for the northern division title of the G. I. A. A. and Tech High won. The first was a scoreless tie.

ATHENS-ANDERSON ROAD WORK STARTED

HARTWELL, Ga., March 18.—First steps toward hard-surfacing the unpaved part of the Athens-Anderson road here, in the highway between Atlanta and the South Carolina line, have been taken, and a five-mile stretch, on which the builders are working rapidly, probably will be completed in a month's time. Georgia materials entirely are being used in the construction.

The Athens-Anderson road, which is 60 miles long, already is hard-surfaced half the way. The section, from Hartwell to the South Carolina line, when completed, will afford paved road for the people of Danielsville and those living south of Royston.

When the Athens-Anderson road eventually is paved in its entirety Atlantans will have two good routes to the Palmetto State. The other route is through Gainesville, Toccoa and Cornelia, "Home of the Big Red Apple." Twenty miles of the latter route is yet unpaved, but the contract for paving half of it has been let.

A. M. E. OPENS DRIVE FOR UNIVERSITY FUND

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 18.—An inspirational meeting of the A. M. E. church, to raise the quota on the $100,000 drive for Morris Brown University, Atlanta, was held here Wednesday.

The session was held in the St. James A. M. E. church. The Rev. L. A. Townsley presided. Speakers included Bishop W. A. Fountain, chancellor of the church schools and presiding bishop of the sixth Episcopal district in Georgia, and W. F. Boddie, of Forsyth.

American Art Inferiority Overcome, Says Music Head

President of National Federation of Music Clubs Principal Speaker in Gainesville.

BY MRS. E. A. FISH.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., March 18.—Encouragement of the amateur spirit in music was declared the most important job for music clubs in America by Mrs. Elmer James Ottaway, of Port Huron, Mich., president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, at the Georgia Federation of Junior Music Clubs convention here Wednesday.

Mrs. Ottawny emphasized the need for the development of home music groups for the encouragement of amateur spirit and a real interest in music going beyond the superficial and half-hearted interest evinced by the average citizen.

"The National Federation of Music Clubs," Mrs. Ottaway said, "is publishing a list of all kinds of ensemble numbers which can be used successfully by amateur groups. There are now 5,000 musical organizations in the national federation, ranging from the finest symphony orchestras to small music study clubs and junior groups, with more than 300,000 members. A wide extension campaign will be promoted to disseminate musical advantage to every city and town and particularly in rural districts.

"Through the formation of choruses, orchestras and clubs," she added, "the National Federation of Music Clubs Artista biennial contests which have been sponsored for 18 years, with an average of 2,000 young artists taking part in each contest, are now announced for state, district and the finals during the national biennial convention at San Francisco in June. In addition to $500 awards to first places in voice, piano, violin, cello and organ, the National Opera Club is offering through the federation contests a $1,000 women's operatic voice prize."

Mrs. Ottaway stated that a total $6,000 in prizes will be given at the California convention and the winners in Gainesville will have a chance to compete in the contests.

"Patriotism extends to art and music in America as well as to the flag and the language," Mrs. Ottaway continued, "and our American composers, artista, landscape painters, sculptors and writers lead the modern aesthetic world. American art and music renaissance is taking place, in the American art inferiority complex is being laid aside, the dominant note in the present administration, concerns music in college curricula for the general student."

The federation leader asserted that replies to a survey sent to 25 leading American universities and colleges revealed that but from 1 to 20 per cent of college students elect any kind of music courses; the degree of bachelor of arts presupposes no knowledge whatsoever concerning art; only two of the 25 institutions require an art or music course from students aspiring to a bachelor of arts degree; but two schools of education require any musical understanding from those who go out to become school administrators and to mold public opinion; all deans of music agree that music is the flower of culture, but deans of literary departments do not admit that a liberal education should include intelligence concerning the arts, and that, in fact, they are generally musically unintelligent; college presidents vaguely agree with the ancient Greeks that music is a vital part of education, but do not proceed to make it a respectable part of college curricula.

College Courses Furthered.

"The National Federation of Music Clubs," the national president said, "with the enthusiastic indorsement of Dr. Howard Hanson, president of the National Music Teachers' Association; Dr. Harold Butler, president of the National Association of University and College Music schools; Miss Mabelle Glenn, retiring president of the national supervisors' conference; Dean Paul Weaver, American secretary of the Anglo-American music conference, and outstanding university and college presidents, is actively furthering a country-wide campaign for college courses in music appreciation and history for the non-music student which will be worthy of respect and turn out graduates with a live interest in music."

Mrs. Ottawny declared "the American people must become national-minded, and must possess a jealous pride in American musical and cultural welfare."

The convention Wednesday evening was presided over by Mrs. J. J. Clyatt, of Tifton, state president of the Federation of Music Clubs, assisted by Misses Charters Smith and Ruth Logan, local presidents of hostess clubs. Mrs. Clyatt was introduced by Miss Mary Ellen Whitson, local chairman and third vice president of the State Federation of Music Clubs.

Nature Advertises, Says Editor; Suggests Merchants Follow Suit

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 18.—Any store in Waycross could double its business by the judicious and multiplied use of advertising, said Jack Williams, editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, at the Lions Club.

In his address on advertising, Mr. Williams reminded the Lions of how wonderful and how lavish an advertiser is nature with her flowers, her colors, and her attractiveness; that nature when she desires you to make use of a helpful product makes that product attractive and keeps on repeating the attractiveness of the product.

"Advertising," he said, "is but the inherent desire to proclaim existence. Advertising tends to make people think along with you. It is never safe merely to take it for granted that the other person knows what you have. The sermon is repeated from Sunday to Sunday, yet the world would be immediately worse if the repeated lesson of the sermon were stopped. We must keep on telling people over and over, and must never cease to call attention to the quality of the things we have and the things we desire to sell."

Miss Martha McDonald, Miss Weldon Seals and Miss Mary Virginia Reid gave three enjoyable readings that delighted the club greatly. Henry Sims, of the Blaum Jewelry Company; Judge W. C. Hodges, of Hinesville; D. N. Stafford, vice president of the First National bank, and George Dixon, of Raleigh, N. C., were guests. Eddie Fechtel was in charge of the program.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Buying of the industrials and utilities outweighed selling of the rails in t day's stock market, and closing prices represented a large balance on the upside.

An unexpected rise of $1 a ton in Carnegie Steel Company's second quarter quotations for bars, shapes and plates coincided with the cheerful reports of the weekly steel trade reviews and an improvement in electric power output figures. With the steel issues as leaders the list made its best splurge in the last hour.

The recovery was sufficiently vigorous to reduce or eliminate early losses of 1 to 5 points in the rails. New York Central turned a drop of 1 3-4 into a net gain nearly as large, and Atchison, after dipping more than 2, closed 1 3-4 higher. Union Pacific regained much of a 3 3-4 point loss.

United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, several merchandising issues and a number of the favored utilities were up 1 to 3 points at the finish, with the maximum improvement in Bethlehem and American Telephone. Allied Chemical, Johns Manville, Case, and Eastman Kodak rallied 4. Fox Film, whose directors retained the dividend, gained 2 and lent strength to the other amusement stocks. General Motors was active and fractionally higher.

An advance in prices by United States Steel's leading subsidiary was a surprise, for only the other day Carnegie had indicated there would be no change in its second quarter schedule. The steel industry, operating at 57 per cent of capacity, according to the Iron Age estimate, is measuring up to earlier optimistic forecasts.

Earnings per share of common stock, on the average number outstanding in each period, amounted to $1.23, as slightly reduced from $1.26, reflecting a larger number of shares.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Gross earnings of public utility enterprises in the United States for 1930 were estimated today by the commerce department at $2,381,763,557, against $2,308,750,000 in 1929 and $2,229,552,394 in 1928.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 10 points up to 10.20. Receipts, 266; shipments, 857; stocks, 156,462.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Cotton was higher today, prices recovering a good part of yesterday's loss largely as the result of a general absence of contracts.

A show of steadiness in Liverpool seemed to offset weakness in the Alexandria market and holders of cotton were apparently not disposed to sell at present prices. Consequently, the market was on the upgrade throughout the greater part of the day, with only occasional setbacks. The May position advanced to 11.00 and closed at 10.99, an advance of 12 points, while the general list closed very steady at the top of the day with net advances of 11 to 18 points.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined early under liquidation and hedging on the weak Egyptian market, but that the continent was a buyer with improved cloth business reported. Exports today, 20,224, making 5,413,473 so far this season. Port receipts, 10,852. United States port stocks, 3,863,250.

12 TO 17-POINT ADVANCES SCORED AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—The cotton market here today was rather quiet most of the session but the price trend was moderately upward. There was a better trade demand resulting in the market receiving better support. Cables were about as due at the opening and Liverpool closed a shade better than due. After opening unchanged to 1 point up, prices fluctuated narrowly for a time and then moved upward gradually on trade buying and a steadier market for stocks showing gains of 11 points around noon. The market eased off 5 to 6 points in the early afternoon on some realizing but the undertone continued healthy. The market scored a good rally in late trading on a private prediction that the total ginnings to be issued Friday will fall considerably short of the government's December estimate. Prices made new highs 15 to 17 points above the early lows and closed steady at the top, showing net gains for the day of 12 to 17 points.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Cottonseed oil was featured today by a continuation of the upward movement largely due to strength in hogs, crude oil and in finished products, coupled with rumors that tallow had sold at higher prices. Little attention was paid to the early break in lard, part of which was recovered later. The closing was firm with prices net unchanged to 10 points higher.

Total sales were 4,350 barrels. Prime crude 7.00; prime summer yellow spot 7.50; March closed 7.75; May 8.06; July 8.19; September 8.32.

Brokers' Views

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Cotton prices were on upgrade in a moderate way Wednesday, selling a little over a half a dollar a bale higher and closing at best of the day. Trade buying to fix prices and short covering account scarcity contracts caused the upturn.

Liverpool was fairly good, but other foreign markets were weak on liquidation and profit-taking by recent buyers and lack of business to sustain advance. Silver was shade easier.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The market experienced a steady opening buying principally coming from brokers contended to have Japanese connections spot houses, and commission houses sold moderately furnishing the contracts. The market turned extremely dull with no definite trend either way. During the day the trade still continue to buy cotton in small lots.

Scattered buying orders appeared in the market a few minutes before the close, causing the market to close firm.

Liverpool futures are due: May 5.90; July 5.98.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The local cotton market opened Wednesday 1 point higher to unchanged from previous close. Liverpool cables came in as due to 2 English points worse than due while Egyptian cotton closed lower at both Alexandria and Liverpool. Silver was also lower for the second successive day. Liverpool cabled that there was liquidation, some hedging and selling on weakness in Egyptian. The government weekly summary said that cotton seeding is still confined to the extreme southern portion of the belt. The market was rather inactive with scattered price-fixing and buying by Japanese interests, most of the selling coming from speculative liquidation in near months.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, March 18.—More significant than the recent developments reflecting the business depression are the increasing number of signs that the moderate recovery now under way is gaining momentum. We note this particularly in the steel, motor and construction industries, three of the most important indicators of returning confidence. Not only do the weekly steel trade reviews emphasize a broadening demand for steel products, but the price advance of $1 a ton on plates, shapes and bars announced by the Carnegie Steel Company, attests to the belief of a sustained demand throughout the second quarter. We view this action as of major importance and believe it will go a long way toward offsetting the effects of further unfavorable news in the form of earnings statements and dividend announcements.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The market successfully met what may be regarded as at least a half-test. Additional weakness in the rail group early in the day showed the rest of the market to be relatively unaffected. Favorable news in the form of an increase in operating ratio in the steel industry, an increase of $1 a ton for certain basic steel products, and the 125,000-ton structural steel order for Radio City was well received by the market. A rally during the afternoon resulted in a recovery in the industrial and utility averages of more than was lost on Tuesday. The rails, while participating in the afternoon rally, were unable to recover all of their earlier loss, closing at 100.18, off 43 cents for the day.

As a result of Wednesday's action we believe it is conservative to assume that last week's important support points are in no immediate danger of being broken.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Market reversed the performance of Tuesday with irregular reactionary tendencies during the forenoon giving way to an aggressive recovery. Constructive forces were greatly encouraged by the announcement of advances in steel price schedules covering second quarter business. Further tangible evidences of broad improvement in basic business situation were afforded by increased car loadings and unchecked rise in steel production.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, March 18.—There was little carryover of Tuesday's selling in Wednesday's market and after morning irregularity prices worked gradually higher in the afternoon. While there were some large transactions in individual stocks total volume for the day was only 2,000,000 shares.

For a trading position the chances of a worthwhile profit in General Motors at this point seem to largely outweigh the possibility of serious setback.

There has as yet been no excessive volume of trading in the stock and after its gradual advance of the past several weeks it is only logical to expect a final run up if nothing more.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Buyers developed backbone today after wheat had temporarily fallen below the season's bottom price record. Bracing effects were largely ascribed to better shipping demand for corn and to a bullish report concerning domestic stocks of wheat on farms and in country elevators.

Wheat closed firm 1-8 to 3-4 cents higher, corn 5-8 to 1 1-8 advance, oats 1-8 to 3-8 up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Advancing trends in all grains were promoted by knowledge that corn shipping sales in Chicago were larger than on any day during last month. Relative steadiness of wheat quotations at Liverpool were also helpful, and signs of improved trans-Atlantic demand for Canadian shipments. Moist weather conditions were at times bearish on wheat, although bullish on corn.

Rain and snow over much of the corn belt checked selling pressure on corn and oats. Vessel charters were made for 145,000 bushels of oats from Chicago at the opening of lake navigation.

Increased offerings of lard weakened provisions, despite higher hog values.

Lowest Money Rate Since 1895

The present rate on collateral time loans of about 2% has not been equalled since 1908; it has not been matched for any continued period since 1895.

HIGH BOND YIELDS

Instead of high bond prices, the present situation is unusual in that bond prices are low with consequent high yields. Many excellent utility debenture bonds can be purchased now at prices to yield from 5% to 6½%, including:

Associated Electric	4½'s of 1953
Associated Gas & Electric	5's of 1950
Associated Gas & Electric	5's of 1968
New England Gas & Electric	5's of 1950

Abnormal cheapness of money coupled with other conditions favorable to resumption of normal business activity should soon profit investors in sound utility debenture bonds.

BY ALEXANDER HENDERSON.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Led by foreign obligations the bond market was irregularly higher today. Net gains ranging from 1 to 2 points were made by Argentine 6s of May, 1960, Australian 4 1-2s of 1956, Berlin City Electric 6s, Buenos Aires Province 6s, Cundinamarca 6 1-2s, State of San Paulo 7s, Rio de Janeiro 6 1-2s, and Minas Geraes 6 1-2s of 1958.

Most bonds of the United States governmen were lower as a result of the estimate of General Hines, of the veterans' bureau, that veterans loans will require $1,000,000,000. A midday Washington dispatch said that the treasury department will issue probably within about three weeks $200,000,000 of 90-day treasury bills to raise funds for part of the loans. The Liberty Fourth 4 1-4s and the treasury 4 1-4s were the most active of the group.

Sporadic gains appeared in domestic issues but they were smaller than the advances among foreign bonds. Activity and higher prices in Missouri, Kansas & Texas prior lien 5s, Nickel Plate series C 4 1-2s, Norfolk & Western Pocahontas division 4s and West Shore 4s feature the rails.

TRADE TRENDS
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aircraft—Airplane and equipment manufacturers are expecting substantial orders within the next three or four months from the United States army and navy. The army is expected to order 370 planes and the navy 218, including spare parts and engines, at an approximate cost of $24,000,000.

Merchandising—H. T. Parson, president of F. W. Woolworth Company, said sales for the first half of March indicated that the total for the month will show a gain over last year. The general merchandising situation also shows improvement, he said. For the first two months sales ran ahead of last year, but by a slight margin only, because of a 3.2 per cent decrease in February.

Public Utility—Production of electricity for the week ended March 14 increased approximately 4-5 of 1 per cent over the previous week and registered the smallest decrease from a year ago reported so far this year, amounting to 3 2-5 per cent.

Radio—Radio Corporation of America is reported to be continuing the substantial improvement shown in the final quarter of last year. Its recent annual report gave full effect to unification, which already has resulted in substantial reductions in costs and has enabled the company to restrict its production in accordance with demand.

Steel—Reflecting automotive and construction demand, steel output, both ingot and sheet, continues its expansion of output. Iron Age places ingot output for the country at large at 57 per cent of rated capacity, an increase of 2 per cent over last week, and says further gains are indicated.

All makers of wire have adopted the $2 per ton advance first announced last week, and Carnegie Steel Company announced an advance in prices of bars, shapes and plates. The company will accept contracts for second quarter delivery at 1.65 cents a pound up to April 1, and after that date at 1.70 cents, an advance of $1 a ton.

Sheet steel production in February increased sharply to 57.2 per cent of production, compared with 45.1 per cent in January.

Merchandising—Sales of McCrory Stores were said in quarters close to the management, to be running well ahead of March of last year, and the first quarter is expected to show an increase of about $300,000 over last year.

CURB RIDES OUT SELLING WAVES

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—The curb market worked persistently higher in quiet trading today, despite several mild selling waves.

Trading slowed sharp shrinkage from the previous session, the day's turnover aggregating 431,000 shares, or 134,300 less than yesterday's.

Utilities again rallied, although most of the activity was confined to the bond and share group. Electric Bond and Share sold up nearly 2 points, and closed up 1 3-8, net, and Duke Power sold up more than 2. American Superpower and United Light "A" were firm.

Some of the oils worked higher, although Gulf broke 2 points in response to its 1930 earnings report, showing net of $2.85 a share, against $9.83 in 1929. Cities Service rose about a point, and Standard of Indiana was firm.

Sugar, Coffee, Rice.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Raw sugar was firm today with spot prices advancing 1 point to the basis of 3.26, while shipments duty frees showed advances of about 1-16 of a cent. The sales reported included 27,000 bags of Philippine in port to a local refiner at 3.23, and 40,500 bags of Philippines due tomorrow to an operator at 3.25. Other sales were 40,000 bags of Cuban afloat to a southern refiner at 3.26 and about 27,000 bags of Philippines to operators for May to July shipment at from 3.42 up to 3.50.

Influenced by the steady spot market and expectations of final ratification of the Chadbourne plan for the stabilization of sugar, raw futures were firmer, closing with net gains of 1 to 2 points. Trading, however, was only of moderate proportions. Prices after opening unchanged to 1 point higher gained another point, closing at the best.

A better inquiry was reported in refined, but it was still confined to nearby requirements. Prices were unchanged at 4.40 for fine granulated.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Coffee futures were easier today in sympathy with declines in the Brazilian markets as well as owing to circulation of March notices. No. 7 contracts closed 2 to 6 points lower. Sales 12,000. Santos contracts opened 10 to 18 points lower and closed 15 to 19 points lower. Sales 47,000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts: March 5.10; May 5.20; July 5.26; September 5.33; December 5.41. Santos contracts: March 8.09; May 8.21; July 8.30; September 8.30; December 8.25.

Spot coffee dull. Rio 7s 5½ to 5¼. Santos 4s 8½ to 9.00.

RICE.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—Rough rice nominal. Sales and receipts none. Clean rice quiet. Sales Blue Rose 1,544; second heads 215; receipts 3,200.

Miscellaneous Markets.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Cotton goods in the unfinished division were quiet and steady today, inquiries being best for print cloths and fine goods. Printed fabrics were selling steadily. Additional lines of men's wear for fall were priced. Buying for spring was less active. Rayon was being bought more steadily by knitters. Burlaps were unchanged. Silk was quiet. Silk goods were selling at very close prices to the cutting trades.

METALS.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Copper quiet; electrolytic spot and future 10@10½. Iron quiet, unchanged. Tin quiet; spot and nearby 27.40; future 27.60. Lead steady; spot New York 4.50; East St. Louis 4.25. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and future 4.00@4.05. Antimony 7.25.

THE SERVICE WE RENDER

VISION . . .

Today competent supervision implies a super-vision.

In investment of capital, it entails the ability to see the whole picture at a glance. It means stepping out of the busy bedlam of the money markets into a quiet watch-tower from which a clear perspective may be gained. It means a constant following of the story of business, industry and finance, as it is being unfolded —the ability to read the coming chapters in the light of the past ones.

To this work Moody's Investors Service has dedicated itself. Sound appraisal of true investment values, protection against capital depreciation, and a share in the legitimate growth of business and industry—these have been the aims of this organization.

Thirty years of feeling the pulse of business, of weighing the facts and figures that influence it, have resulted in a mature judgment—a super-vision—that is helping Moody's Investors Service to realize these aims for some eighteen thousand conservative investors and banking institutions.

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE No. 34

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

It seemed to Blake as his captor conducted him through the tunnel, that the way would never end. Always upward and with frequent flights of steps it led, until at last he glimpsed the daylight at its end. Presently they stepped forth into the sunlight. Far below them stretched a tree-dotted, beautiful valley.

As Blake looked along the ledge they stood on, his eyes went wide with astonishment. A wall of masonry arose, flanked by great towers on either side of a lofty gateway. This was closed by a massive portcullis, behind which two negroes stood on guard. They were clothed as were his captors, but held great battles axes instead of pikes.

"What ho, the gate," shouted Paul Bodkin. Slowly the portcullis rose. What met the American's eyes was like a scene of Medieval England. From the guard house stepped a handsome youth wearing a suit of chain mail. Haughtily he came toward the bewildered Jimmy Blake.

"Od zounds!" exclaimed the young man. "What hast thou there, varlet?" "A prisoner, an' it please thee, noble lord," replied Paul Bodkin, respectfully "A Saracen, of a surety!" stated the young man. "Fetch him hither, lout." The American broke out into loud laughter.

SELLING AND ADVERTISING

I HAVE diverted more than one sales force from the toboggan to a steady climb. I have conceived and created advertising that was different enough and human enough to increase sales when competitors were steadily slipping. I have sold, to a bonus, when the going was tough. Fearless of drudgery, I have been able to dig deep enough to find the cause of a sales problem, and apply a common sense remedy. If sales are one of your problems I should like to talk to you. I am 36. Will start at $6,000 if there is something worth while ahead. Address V-6, Constitution.

HIGHLIGHTS OF WALL STREET

By CHARLES W. STORM,
Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(NANA) Following a period of indecision the stock market rallied today on the publication of constructive steel news.

Sentiment was helped considerably by an increase of 1 per cent in operations of the Steel Corporation and 2 1-2 per cent for the independents, while a subsidiary of the Steel Corporation announced an increase of $1 a ton for bars, shapes and plates for second quarter delivery.

Higher price schedules were also announced by the Republic Steel Corporation.

Announcement was also made that the Steel Corporation had received the contract for 125,000 tons of structural steel for the Rockefeller Radio City, estimated at $4,000,000 and which was exclusively forecast in this column last Saturday morning.

The Iron Age called attention to expansion in automobile production and new construction projects. The regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on Fox Film, which appeared in doubt, was declared by directors of the company, and added to the improvement in sentiment during the day, which was also helped by steadiness in silver and wheat.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Buying of public utilities continued on a large scale. A good part of this absorption, it is learned, is for the account of investment trusts throughout the country, and has been particularly noticeable in International Telephone & Telegraph and American & Foreign Power. The latter company, it is learned, is entering Europe on a large scale and is securing a foothold in Rumania.

Among the domestic issues preference has been shown for Consolidated Gas, United Corporation and today a good inquiry developed for Columbia Gas which is believed to be behind the list. This company, in addition to its electric light and power properties has become a large factor in the natural gas field, which is also true of Electric Power & Light.

GENERAL MOTORS STRONG.

Buying of General Motors continued on a large scale and activity developed in Chrysler Motor. A large professional bear is reported to have been trapped in Chrysler, in which a prominent Chicago bull operator has taken a big position. Scouts are now looking over the Chrysler plants and prospects and are expected to issue a report on their findings shortly. Some of the auto accessory stocks are coming in for attention and in this connection a strong group has been organized in Collins & Aikman, which is one of the leading automobile upholstery companies and which is expected to benefit by the increased operations at the automobile plants.

BUSINESS MACHINES.

Wealthy investors, it is learned, are picking up shares of International Business Machines. It is expected that should earnings this year approximate those of last year when approximately $11 a share was reported, that directors will declare a 10 per cent stock dividend out of the remaining treasury stock, this action to be followed by the splitting of the stock four-for-one with the new shares going on a $2 annual dividend basis, or the equivalent of $8 on the present stock which pays $6 and 5 per cent in stock annually.

STEELS PROMISING.

Increased steel operations and higher prices announced have directed attention to the steel stocks, which met excellent buying today. The strong pool which has been formed in Steel common began to show its hand and there was buying of Bethlehem and Republic.

Johns-Manville featured the building material group as it is expected that this company will receive the bulk of new orders for materials. Reports that the company would merge with American Radiator & Standard Sanitary were officially denied. Case and Worthington Pump were helped by short covering and these specialties are expected to work higher with the general list as a short interest has developed during the recent weakness.

RAILS HIGHER.

Rails shared in the recovery on the weekly increase in carloadings. A back dividend of 50 cents a share was declared on Chicago Great Western cumulative shares. Rails, however, are being sold and the funds re-invested in the industrials.

Eye-Witness Reporter Describes Fire, Riot at Stateville Prison

The following eye-witness account of Wednesday's riot and fire at Stateville prison was written by William M. Hart, reporter for the Joliet Herald-News, who was within the prison walls.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

ILLINOIS PENITENTIARY, STATEVILLE, Ill., March 18.—(AP) I rushed to the Illinois state penitentiary today when convicts rioted and set fire to several buildings with the first detail of Joliet police. When we arrived there there were some 20 guards and state highway police congregated in the hallway of the new administration building.

Outside of the building some 1,600 convicts were hooting, jeering and cursing. The building was virtually a besieged fortress. No more than a minute after I got there, Warden Henry C. Hill arrived from his quarters at the old prison, five miles away. As he came in the door we welcomed him as the director of the emergency activities. At the same moment Chaplain Eligius Weir came running from the other end of the hallway.

Furious Condition.

"Some men are in a furious condition," he said, "there are 1,600 of them out there and they are going mad."

The warden turned to the detail of Joliet police, state highway police and prison guards congregated in the hallway and said:

"Have you fellows got your guns ready? Are you willing to go out there and take that crowd?"

The chorus was "yes."

"Come on, let's go," said the warden, and he led the small group of men into the yard, by this time literally swarming with men, raging and cursing and pillaging.

Three men, including myself, were unarmed and the warden gave us orders to protect ourselves inside the building. However, I followed the detail down the corridor and out to the entrance to the prison yard. From that vantage point I watched the entire encounter, all the time keeping my eye on my surroundings to bar an attack on me.

Threatens Fire.

I saw the detail of police with the warden in the lead walk soberly toward the main group of probably 500 or 600 convicts. I heard the warden tell them, "Get back to your cells or we'll fire."

The mob stopped and hurled curses at the warden and his detail and one burly negro convict attempted to seize the waning leadership of the mob in a counter-attack on the guards.

"We'll take care of you," he said to the warden, and started forward but a shot from one of the policemen at the warden's side and the negro went down.

The other convicts weakened and the backbone of the riot was broken with the use of probably 10 guns in the hands of guards and police. The warden did not use his gun, but led his detail in the shooting of tear bombs which seemed mainly responsible for subduing the rioting men.

Terrific Din.

The shouting and din had been terrific here for two hours. The convicts were like so many maniacs. They cursed and screamed and ran about like animals, and to add to the wildness of the scene, flames were leaping skyward from a half dozen buildings inside the prison walls, shedding thick rolls of smoke and showering sparks.

The snow this morning had left the yard muddy and the men were sliding and falling about in the slime.

I have been an on-looker on three prison riots in the last ten years but I have never seen one with the potential danger this one had at the beginning. Nor have I ever seen a warden with more courage and better judgment than Warden Hill showed in this emergency.

In my judgment when Warden Hill with his detail charged the group of 600 convicts the heart of the riot was shot through and the control of the remaining convicts throughout the entire yard was a comparatively easy matter for the guards who were detailed to that work.

The guards went through every nook and cranny of the prison after the riot searching for hideouts, and I saw them bring them in by the dozens. I saw more than 50 or 60 men marched to solitary.

From the cells came hooting and jeering and cursing.

"The parole board, the parole board, the parole board done it" can be heard from every angle.

Hoover Will Carry Films to Caribbean

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) The movies which President Hoover has enjoyed on virtually all of his long journeys in recent years will accompany him on his Caribbean voyage.

Unlike the silent shadows that flitted across the screen to the accompaniment of clicking train wheels during his transcontinental campaign trips, however, he will hear the synthetic voices of the actors as the Arizona plows through the southern seas.

Installation of talkies on the Arizona was speeded up after its selection for the presidential cruise. Late films will be supplied including some preview pictures.

This will be the first tryout of the navy's new standard sound picture equipment under seagoing conditions.

$3,000,000 SENT TO WAR VETERANS

Atlanta Office Sending Out Bonus Checks at Rate of 650 Daily.

Checks totaling more than $3,000,000 have been mailed to more than 9,000 World War veterans applying for loans on their service bonus certificates, it was said Wednesday from John M. Slaton, Jr., manager of the local veterans' bureau.

In making public the progress of the local organization, Mr. Slaton said the personnel assigned to handling applications and making requested loans is working at full capacity, with the result that it is expected all applications will have been taken care of within the next 30 days.

An average of 650 checks are being mailed out daily, Mr. Slaton said, as compared to receipt by the local bureau of approximately 500 applications a day. Preferential consideration is being given veterans residing in drouth-stricken areas and those who submit evidence of their urgent need of immediate funds. In instances of individual want, Mr. Slaton pointed out, movement of checks is made within 24 hours.

"Naturally," the bureau head said, "if we had a larger staff to handle this matter we would make greater speed and progress. But we are going ahead at a satisfactory rate of speed, and under our method the needy veteran eligible to obtain a loan has only to make his case known."

The peak day in the local offices for receipt of applications was March 3, when 6,100 applications were received. On March 2, Mr. Slaton said, 5,600 applications were made, but by March 4 the number had dropped to 2,700. Subsequent applications were fewer, until at present the number is approximately 500 each day.

SMOOT FORESEES BIG U. S. DEFICIT

Decreasing Income Tax Revenue To Cause Fund Shortage.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Decreasing income tax revenue and mounting expenditures today threatened to push the prospective treasury deficit for the present fiscal year well past the $500,000,000 mark.

An actual deficit of $437,515,713 on last Monday was shown in the treasury statement issued today. In addition, Veterans' Administrator Hines has called upon the treasury to provide $500,000,000 by April 11 for loans to World War veterans on their adjusted compensation certificates.

Meanwhile, reports for the first day's receipt of income taxes for 1930 showed a drop of $5,000,000 under the first day a year ago, despite a 1 per cent increase on normal taxes. The report for last Monday showed $13,100,362 collected, compared with $18,148,963 last year.

The treasury did not consider these figures indicative of the total receipts, however, explaining a better indication would be given by reports received tomorrow and Friday. Officials had expected a reduction.

While treasury officials were looking toward the income tax returns for enlightment on the prospective deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30, Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, estimated it would be at least $500,000,000.

Smoot made his statement at the White House but said he had not discussed the subject with President Hoover. He said it would be possible to get along without a tax increase by reducing the rate of retiring the public debt. He favored the latter course.

Treasury officials had estimated the deficit would be $900,000,000 on the expectation that $300,000,000 would provide for veterans' loans through May. The request of the veterans' administrator for $200,000,000 more than this figure by April 11 upset this calculation. Hines also estimated $1,000,000,000 would be required to meet all loan applications.

The treasury did not announce what action would be taken to raise the additional funds but it was considered possible treasury bills would be sold on a discount basis.

Smoot's suggestion that less money be placed in the sinking fund recalled that $65,000,000 had been used for that purpose thus far this fiscal year compared with $299,514,950 for the same period last year.

PLOT ON OFFICIALS BELIEVED FOILED

DENVER, March 18.—(AP)—Four men were held today in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate three members of the district attorney's office. They were arrested in raids last night.

Earl Wettengel, district attorney, said the conspirators contemplated the slaying of Ray Humphreys, chief investigator Hugh M. Woods, deputy district attorney, and Stanley Maus, an investigator.

Wettengel said machine guns had been imported for the proposed triple murder. He said plans for the slaying first were formulated at a "bootleggers' convention" here last January because of activities of his office against liquor merchants.

The district attorney said the plan was to lure the three officials to an outlying house on a pretext they could intercept a liquor shipment. There they were to be mowed down by machine guns.

The revelation followed a blast which demolished the Denver home of Pete Carlino, reputed southern Colorado liquor king, early yesterday morning.

HOOVER AND BORAH CONFER AT LUNCH

Foreign and Domestic Problems Discussed at White House.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—President Hoover today discussed with Senator Borah a long list of foreign and domestic questions at a luncheon conference at the White House.

The Idaho republican said afterward at the capitol that subjects discussed included European and Latin-American affairs, including the Russian question, disarmament, the naval treaty, Haiti and Nicaragua.

Among domestic questions discussed were farm relief, including operations of the farm board, and oil.

Senator Borah was invited to the White House by Mr. Hoover and remained for an hour. He refused to interpret the president's reasons for summoning him and would not comment on the outcome of the conference.

Borah was one of the chief orators in Mr. Hoover's campaign, but he refused to support the party stand on farm relief and the tariff. Borah smiled at inquiries as to whether the invitation might be a gesture for peace between the two.

Father Turns Over Youth to Police

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Edwin Wilson, 21, one of three men authorities wished to question in connection with the Mercer Realty Company's recent loss of $1,435, was brought by his father to police headquarters Wednesday.

Police questioned Wilson closely to find out what he might know of the disappearance of the money which originally was reported lost in a holdup at a prominent street corner. Police said Wilson has admitted he got a share of the money.

Wilson was turned over to Chief Chapman, of the Chatham county police, by his father who lives at Brooklet.

U. S. MISSIONARIES KILLED IN CHINA

Hatchets Used by Murderers To Slay 2 Women Church Workers.

PEIPING, China, March 18.—(AP) Mrs. Vera Mosebar White, of Battle Ground, Wash., and Mrs. Victoria Marian Miller, whose mother lives at Spokane, Wash., were slain in their sleep Sunday night at Yunnanfu. They were missionaries of the Seventh Day Adventist mission.

The crime was attributed to Chinese servants at the mission who had been discharged. The husbands of the women had gone on business to Talifu, 150 miles away.

A message to the United States legation here from Consul Harry Stevens brought word of the killings.

The skulls of both women had been fractured by hatchets. Two children of Mr. and Mrs. White were not molested.

WOMEN ENTERED CHINA WITH HUSBANDS IN 1926

SHANGHAI, March 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Vera Mosebar White and Mrs. Victoria Marian Miller, American missionaries slain at Yunnanfu, came to China with their husbands in 1926, and were at Nanking during the incident of 1927 in which undisciplined soldiers besieged a house occupied by Americans and were driven off only after two United States destroyers opened fire in defense of the foreigners.

Local headquarters of the Seventh Day Adventist mission received a telegram today saying Mrs. White and Mrs. Miller were murdered during the night of March 15.

Mr. Miller and Mr. White and the latter's two children are at present in Yunnanfu.
